Herb Hammond was all smiles Tuesday morning. Cause: After months of persistent effort he finally won out in the Seven-Up tournament at the K. C. Club rooms last Monday night.

L. Tavener, who was a resident of this city about eight years ago, as agent for the Nye Schneider Co., died at his home at Oakdale last week, after an illness of but a few months.

Several large elm trees have been planted around the Public Library and the ground seeded to blue grass. In a few years the grounds of the library building promises to be one of the beauty spots of the city.

Albert Kaczer of Blackbird was in the city last Monday having brought in two hogs from his farm that he sold on the O'Neill market for $92.40. The two hogs weighed 1170 pounds. It would not take many hogs of this kind to put a man in the Rockefeller class.

O. O. Snyder left last Friday morning for Omaha and Lincoln. In the latter city he was joined by Mrs. Snyder and they left Saturday night for Colorado. Mrs. Snyder stopping at Akron, where she will spend a few days visiting her brother, while O. O. goes to Denver to look after some business matters there. They expect to return home the latter part of the week.

The school board failed to receive a bid for the old school building which they had advertised for sale, party buying same to wreck it and haul it off the school grounds. At the next meeting of the board they will try and devise some means of getting rid of the building, as it detracts from the appearance of the new building.

Sam Nelson, for many years a resident of this county but now living at Thermopolis, Wyo., arrived in the city last week for a couple of weeks visit with relatives and old time friends in this city and county. Mr. Nelson says he likes Wyoming first rate but that he still loves old Holt and its people. He will return to his Wyoming home the first of next week and The Frontier will visit him each week hereafter and keep him posted upon the happenings in this section of the universe.

The voters of Butte township, Boyd county, will vote on a proposition to give $50,000.00 bonds to assist the Niobrara River Electric Light & Power Co., to build a railroad from Anoka to Butte and southeast from Butte to a point on the Niobrara river not to exceed two miles east of the line of Butte township, on May 26th. Hugh O'Neill of Annon is the president of the company that proposes to build the railroad.

The estate of the late Thomas McNally of Emmet was settled in county court last week. Deceased owned three valuable quarters of land near Emmet and this desirable farm still remains in the possession of the family. There were two heirs to the estate, Mrs. W. G. O'Malley of Buffalo, N. Y., and Mrs. B. J. Gaffney of Emmet, sisters of the deceased, and Mrs. O'Malley sold her share of the estate to her sister, Mrs. Gaffney, and in becoming the owner of this farm Mrs. Gaffney secures one of the most fertile farms in Emmet township. The sisters have arranged with O. F. Biglin to have their brother's remains removed to Mt. Calvary cemetery of this city and a beautiful granite monument will be erected to his memory.

S. J. Crawford of Beemer, Neb., was arrested Tuesday afternoon on the charge of gambling and taken before Judge Gatz, in police court, and fined $10 and costs, Crawford pleading guilty to the charge against him. Crawford is the man who created considerable stir here about a year ago claiming to have been robbed of a considerable sum of money in a hotel here and afterwards refusing to testify against the men who were held for the offense. From recent indications it appears that the money at that time was lost in a poker game. Several local men are said to have been engaged in "guessing" contests during the past few months and the authorities claim that they are going to try and put an end to this form of amusement.

S. W. Kelly of Wisner, Neb., was in the city last Friday and favored this office with a visit. Mr. Kelly has leased the Atkinson Graphic and will take editorial control of that publication next week. Mr. York, the present editor, will retire from the newspaper business for a time at least. Mr. Kelly is an able newspaper man and for sixteen years edited and published the Wisner Free Press, which he sold a few weeks ago. He possesses ability as a writer and is a number one printer and can be depended upon to give Atkinson a splendid up-to-date paper. Mr. York has made a good paper of the Graphic and he has been accorded a splendid patronage by the hustling business men of our sister city, and The Frontier predicts, now that he has become inoculated with printers ink, that he will be back in the business again before long.

Vernon Johnson, in a suit filed in the district court, asks the Burlington railroad company to pay him $25,000.00 for injuries alleged to have been received while in the employ of the company on the bridge built by the Burlington across the Platte river near Ashland, in February, 1914. In his petition he alleges that he was what is known as "herder" for the engines being used in the construction of the bridge. That while performing his duties the water gage on the engine exploded and the glass therefrom struck him in the eye, cutting the eye ball and practically destroying the sight thereof. That his eye is in such condition that he will have no valuable use thereof. That prior to his injury he was earning $3.00 per day, but by reason of said injury he will never be able to follow such an occupation again, nor will be able to work about any steam boiler or appliances, and can never be a mechanic of any kind, and as a result thereof his earning capacity has been greatly lessened. That said injury was caused without any negligence on his part. For the injuries above received he asks judgment for $25,000.00 and costs of suit.

Merton D. Smith has filed suit in the district court to collect $25,000.00 from the Chicago and Northwestern railroad company for injuries alleged to have been received through the negligence of said company at Harrison, Neb., on April 2, 1910. In his petition he alleges that on above date he was employed by the Western Union Telegraph company at Harrison. That the office of the Telegraph company was in the defendant company's station. That the platform around said station was old, dilapidated and in a very dangerous condition. That on above night when he returned to the station, after transacting some business for the telegraph company up town, one of the planks in the platform broke and his foot catching on another plank he was thrown and severely injured and had to go on crutches until July. That by reason of said injuries he was unable to do any work until August, and then only light work, and his earning capacity has been reduced $25 per month by reason of said injuries and that he has lost in wages alone, up to this time, $1,100. That his left knee and leg, which were injured, have become worse and that he has been compelled to give up the employment of railroad and telegraph operating and can no longer perform such duties, and is unable to perform any labor except light clerical work and that he will always be sick and lame. For these reasons he thinks he is entitled to damages in the above amount with costs of suit.

Bertha M. Clay.

Walt Mason: Poor Bertha's gone to glory, she died a month ago; no more she'll write the story of heartache, love and woe, the story sweet and tender, of maids and weddings, for now, in realms of splendor she's trying out her wings. I thought she was a maiden with old style corkscrew curls, with beads and earrings laden, like other ancient girls; but now the truth is printed since Bertha home was called; her nose was crimson tinted, and she was slightly bald! Upon her face and body high life had left its scars; but Bertha liked her toddy, and Bertha smoked cigars! On earth no human gazed behind her in a gown, she used a safety razor to keep her whiskers down. With other mild carousers she liked a quiet game, and Bertha's chums wore trousers, and Bertha did the same. This novelist of promise pursued deceitful plan; her given name was Thomas,—and Bertha was a man! With this fact as a starter we will not show surprise on learning that Nick Carter is grandma in disguise!

The Proper Spirit.

Fremont Tribune: Last week the O'Neill Frontier issued a special edition edited by the pastor and ladies of the Methodist church. This incident proves the liberal spirit of the citizenship of O'Neill. The editor of The Frontier is Dennis Cronin and on the first page of the edition is a large picture of St. Mary's Academy, a flourishing institution of the town. On another page are pictures of Columbus hall and St. Patrick's church. Evidently the Methodists of O'Neill are not greatly alarmed over the proclamation that America is about to suffer conquest by the Pope.

Creighton Liberal: The Tribune editors are not the only ones who noticed this splendid American spirit on the part of the Methodist ladies of O'Neill. While on the subject the Tribune however could have gone further and showed that notwithstanding the fact that O'Neill has the largest Catholic Academy in Nebraska and the further fact that the majority of the taxpayers in the school district are Catholics; that the finest public school in the state, for a city of her size, has just been erected across the street from the Academy. Our

Don't Run

For the Doctor when a person is dying, it's too late. It's too late to cure your hogs when the cholera has broke out.

To prevent hog cholera feed International Stock Food to the young sows and pigs; keep their blood in good condition and the cholera will not get a hold. Don't think a 25 cent box is enough for 100 hogs.

Don't think, because you fed some cheap stock food and did not get results, it don't pay.

International Stock food contains medicine that, if it was bought in small quantities, would cost you fifty times more than when you get it in the Food. Besides, only one Doctor in a hundred could mix it.
