J. S. Jackson is getting out a dandy paper at Inman, a paper that would do credit to a town ten times the size of the hustling little village on the east.

W. T. Willis of Butte is mentioned as the probable progressive nominee for attorney general. W. T. is a good lawyer but we do not look for the progressive candidates to get very far in Nebraska at the coming election.

Senator John Heasty of Otoe county and Senator Kemp of Nance are mentioned as probable candidates for the republican nomination for governor. Either gentleman would make an ideal candidate and a splendid governor.

State Auditor Howard has announced that he will not be a candidate for re-election as state auditor but will try for the republican nomination for congress in the Second district. A wise move on his part as he would probably have hard sledding to land the auditors office again.

John Maher took the easiest method of securing publicity in his candidacy for governor by attacking W. J. Bryan. Bryan's friends throughout the state will now proceed to jump on John from all sides and give him the publicity that he desires, which will materially aid him in his candidacy.

The Modern Woodman insurgents won out in the state camp in Iowa Wednesday. After being defeated the standpatters held a rump convention and will contest the seats of the regularly elected delegates. There promises to be as warm a time at the next head camp as there was at the last republican national convention.

Bloomington Advocate: It is high time the three factions of the republican party in this state quit their foolishness and do something to wards getting together. We don't care now who was right or wrong in the late Chicago convention, for we have all been licked to a frazzle and that ought to make us all good, and all this continued scrapping will never land us anywhere.

The insurgents were in control of the Modern Woodman state camp at Hastings yesterday and selected delegates to the head camp instructed to oppose the present head officials for re-election. After being defeated in the state camp the Talbot forces, headed by Talbot himself, held another convention and selected a delegation to the head camp and will contest the seats of the regularly elected delegates. As the stand patters will have control of the committees of the next head camp a warm time is looked for in Toledo next month.

Many people look upon the candidacy of John G. Maher as a joke, but this paper is of the opinion that Nebraska democrats will find the doughty Colonel far from a joke before primary day rolls around. A majority of the democrats in Nebraska are wet and with Burge, an avowedly dry man, and probably Charles Bryan, another dry, in the field John G. is very liable to step in and capture the nomination. Since leaving this county John G. has made a small fortune in Texas land and is well equipped with the necessary kale to put up an aggressive campaign for the nomination, if he so desires.

The last issue of the Atkinson Graphic appeared with the name of S. W. Kelley flying at the mast head. In his salutatory Mr. Kelley did not promise anything revolutionary in the newspaper line but promises to give Atkinson and the readers of the Graphic a good readable, newsy paper, which Sam Kelley is capable of doing. The Frontier editor, has known Sam Kelley for twenty years and can assure the people of Atkinson that they have a No. 1 newspaper man in Mr. Kelley and an all-around likable gentleman. We extend the right hand of fellowship and brotherly love and hope that Sam will make so much money in old Holt that he will never again be tempted to migrate to Arkansas, the land of alligators and fevers.

It seems to be the consensus of opinion among well informed democrats of the metropolis that there will be no federal appointment in Nebraska, that is from the state at large and from the congressional districts represented in congress by republicans, until after the adjournment of congress and that then Mr. Bryan's recommendation will be accepted and the appointments made upon his recommendation, ignoring Senator Hitchcock. If the appointments were thus made they would come up before the senate at the next session for confirmation and their confirmation might be blocked by the senator, but the Bryanites would be at the hive eating the honey and if no other appointments would be made could serve on. If such a state of affairs would come to pass there would be a row in the democratic party in this state that would make the late unpleasantness between the Taftites and Rooseveltites pale into insignificance.

John Maher Files For Governor.

John G. Maher, formerly a resident of this city but now of Lincoln, has filed for the democratic nomination for governor and will attempt to land the nomination at the primaries next August.

In a lengthy statement filed with the secretary of state he arraigns Charles W. Bryan as one who is plotting to confine Wilson to one term in order that his brother, W. J., may become president. Maher says that prohibition, coupled with woman suffrage, will be the real issues, and that the reason this is so is that Brother Charley whom he terms a boss who wants to be a candidate for governor, has manipulated matters so that prohibition is put in the background, and woman suffrage to the fore. Maher says he is against prohibition and also suffrage, believing prohibition to be dangerous to society and to morals, and that the women should shine in the home and not be out "haranguing the electorate and trailing her hobble skirt in the political mire."

He also takes this shot at W. J. Bryan: "I am in favor of such an amendment of our primary law as will make the will of the people supreme. I believe in the right of the people to rule. We elected a set of delegates to the national convention at Baltimore, and they were solemnly pledged by the democratic voters of Nebraska to support Champ Clark for president of the United States. After he had received a majority of the votes and his nomination was practically assured, these men, led by one who secretly sought that nomination himself, repudiated the instructions received from the people, deserted Clark and brought about his defeat.

"Conduct of this kind was once aptly described by the Hon. W. J. Bryan as an 'embezzlement of power.' It is an 'embezzlement of power.' It is an ought to be dealt with as a felony. If I am elected governor I shall recommend a law making the betrayal of a public trust punishable by confinement in the penitentiary, and a disqualification from ever again holding office, or ever again being a delegate to a convention. I am aware that following the betrayal of the Nebraska democracy a resolution was forced through the state convention endorsing these recreant delegates, but that resolution could not blot out the infamy of that betrayal."

The loosening of the soil by cultivation so that oxygen and nitrogen may enter is necessary for the best plant growth. The normal surface soil is full of millions of bacteria which live on the vegetable matter of the soil. The bacteria cause this to decay and thus become soluble and usable for plants. If the bacteria do not get the oxygen, they die. The nitrogen is of assistance in the growing of leguminous crops—such as clover, alfalfa, peas, and beans—as well as the non-leguminous crops. In order to secure the proper amount of aeration, the Nebraska College of Agriculture advises proper drainage and cultivation. Hoeing, or other cultivation, in addition, by destroying weeds, conserves the needed moisture.

District Grand Lodge.

Deputy Grand Master Harnish of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows attended the District Grand Lodge at Neligh Wednesday, accompanied by the following Odd Fellows from Elkhorn Valley Lodge No. 57, of this city. Past Grand Master O. O. Snyder, S. J. Weekes, W. K. Hodgkin, W. E. Conklin, G. W. Miles, Dr. M. E. Pettibone, Ernest and George Henry, Harry Clauson, Clyde Templeton, Charles Pettijohn, R. M. Brittel, Jess Mills, Dr. W. T. Wilson, C. L. Davis, Mike Johnson, H. G. Frey, Sam and Edd Burge, Pete Curtis, C. E. Downey, Frank Holt and B. A. Harding.

The District Grand Lodge session was held at 3 o'clock in the afternoon at which time about thirty-five Past Grand of this district took the Past Grand Degree.

Grand Master Johns was unable to be present and Deputy Grand Master Harnish acted in his place. Grand Secretary Gage was in attendance and looked after the records and met the brothers in his pleasing manner.

The subordinate Lodge met in the opera house at 8 o'clock in the evening where the Initiatory Degree was given to one candidate by the degree team of Elkhorn Valley Lodge No. 57, of O'Neill, for which they received some very pleasing compliments for their floor work and the parts put on by W. K. Hodgkins and especially that of S. J. Weekes.

After a short intermission the First Degree was given to two candidates by the Plainview degree team, which pleased all the brothers present very highly.

After the lodge was closed they were entertained by the Neligh lodge with moving pictures, lunch, songs and a general good time until 3 o'clock in the morning.

The degree teams were nicely entertained at the best hotel in the city, and many of them were escorted down to the park and over the city in automobiles.

The I. O. O. F. were welcomed to their city with many fine displays in the show windows of many of the business houses, many of them were beautiful and costly, but the one that struck our reporters eye as being all right and showing that his heart was with the chain gang was the three links of bologna that one of the meat markets displayed in its window.

All that were heard to express themselves said they were well repaid for the time and money expended in attending the District Grand Lodge at Neligh, Nebraska, and would like to attend the next one held.

Mayor Golden to Our Citizens.

Citizens of O'Neill: As your new Mayor, I ask your earnest co-operation and assistance. To be elected Mayor is an honor which I appreciate. To be able to leave the office with the knowledge that our city is more beautiful and better will be a greater honor. I hope for this, and with your assistance it will be proved.

One of the purposes of government including city government, is the protection of persons and property. In our city the public peace is well maintained but certain property rights seem to be disregarded.

A few years ago cattle, horses and other stock ran at large unmolested through our streets and vacant lots without great damage to anyone. Few lawns or ornamental trees were here and those were protected by fences. After several years those fences became delapidated and became eyesores. A demand was made on the Council for an ordinance prohibiting the roaming of stock. The law was passed without a dissenting voice and that law is now in force. Relying for protection on that law the ramshackle fences came down, blue grass, clover and other seeds were bought by the bushel and planted. Ornamental and fruit trees were set out and beautiful flower beds were made around many residences.

Now all will agree that these were the proper things to do, and yet there are a few people, unthoughtfully I hope, who permit their stock to ruin these evidences of culture. Owners of stock who violate this law, no doubt consider themselves law abiding citizens and would not go upon their neighbors premises with an axe and cut down his trees, or with a spade dig up his flowers, or with a plow ruin his lawn, and yet the stock which he owns does all these things.

Neighbors hesitate to complain of other neighbors, however much they may be injured or their rights ignored, and therefore the administration is petitioned and implored for protection. This makes it disagreeable for the Mayor and is a burden that ought not to be placed on his shoulders. Will those persons who keep stock in the city kindly relieve me?

Strangers, and those who may return to our city after years of absence, all express themselves as delighted and amazed at our improvements in the city, more particularly to the number of beautiful residences erected in the past two years. The expressions should engender our pride. Our location for a beautiful as well as a progressive city could not be improved. We ought to make every effort to be a live city. Buildings, lawns, trees and flowers will make a beautiful city. We have the first, the others will follow if the property owners are assured of protection. May I assure them? Each may answer for himself.

Bleak Days.

Walt Mason: The clouds are bleak and grim today, the winds are sadly sighing; it seems like fall, and over all a sheet of gloom is lying. The dreary rain beats on the pane, and sounds a note of sorrow; but what's the odds? The genial gods will bring us joy tomorrow. We have the mumps, the doctor humps around to cure it; we're on the blink and often think we simply can't endure it; to all who list we groan, I wist, and tell a hard luck story; but why be vexed. Week after next we'll be hunkydory. The neighbor folks are tiresome bokes, they bore us and annoy us; with such folks near it's simply clear that no one can be joyous; things would improve if they

Don't Run

For the Doctor when a person is dying, it's too late. It's too late to cure your hogs when the cholera has broke out.

To prevent hog cholera feed International Stock Food to the young sows and pigs; keep their blood in good condition and the cholera will not get a hold. Don't think a 25 cent box is enough for 100 hogs.

Don't think, because you fed some cheap stock food and did not get results, it don't pay.

International Stock food contains medicine that, if it was bought in small quantities, would cost you fifty times more than when you get it in the Food. Besides, only one Doctor in a hundred could mix it.

morrow brings a plaster. The fool, he kicks against the pricks, all optimism scorning; the wise man goes his way—he knows joy cometh in the morning.
