Judge Kinkaid paid his filing fee to the county treasurer of this county last week and will file for re-election to congress from this district.

With the daily press carrying notices of large business concerns going bankrupt nearly every day, we are reminded that the democratic party is in power in the nation.

John Maher still continues firing broadsides into King William and Prince Charley, to the extreme delight of thousands of democrats who say amen to John's pointed articles, under their breath.

The failure of the largest dry goods firm in the world, in New York last week, with liabilities of thirty million dollars, does not speak very highly for the prosperity that President Wilson says we are having.

It is said that President Wilson will cut the pie and pass the pieces around to the hungry Nebraska democrats sometime this month. Well, the boys have waited long, if not patiently, but the pie will probably lose none of its flavor on account of its delayed arrival.

There are eight candidates in the field for the republican nomination for congress in the First district. Republican success looks very bright in that district, the post office fight in Lincoln being one of the things that is looked upon to materially assist the republicans in regaining control of the district.

M. L. Corey, of Clay Center, has been selected as temporary chairman of the democratic state convention, which will be held in Columbus on July 28th. The Frontier can assure our democratic friends that they will be delighted with Mr. Corey's address as he is one of the ablest orators in the state.

Pat Stanton, of O'Neill cast his panama into the political ring last Wednesday and filed for the democratic nomination for sheriff. It was reported some time ago that Hank Tomlinson was to enter the race for the democratic nomination for sheriff but it is reported that Hank did not want to go up against the Grady buz saw in the campaign and decided to wait for a more opportune time to enter the race for that office.

Prof. A. O. Thomas, for many years head of the Kearney State Normal school, has filed for the republican nomination for state superintendent. Prof. Thomas was ousted from his position a few months ago and it was stated at that time that the ousting was accomplished by political trickery, as there was no doubt or question raised as to the ability of the Professor in his chosen line of work. One of the men who assisted in ousting him was State Superintendent Dazell and he refused to be a candidate for re-election, but filed for the republican nomination for congress in the First district. Mr. Elliott, the present deputy state superintendent, is also a candidate for the republican nomination, but at this distance it looks to us as if Thomas had the inside track in the race, as he will receive the enthusiastic support of many who believe that he was unfairly treated by the State Normal board.

The past week has been a busy one for candidates. During the week the following persons have filed for office in the county. Miss Minnie Miller for county superintendent, on the democratic ticket; H. J. Boyle has filed for the democratic nomination for county attorney; J. Q. Howard, of O'Neill, has filed for the democratic nomination for supervisor from this district and Judge Carlson has filed as a non-partisan for the nomination for re-election as county judge. Under the new law judges are to be elected upon a non-partisan ballot and in order to be placed in nomination it is necessary to file a petition containing ten per cent of the voters of the county. Judge Carlson filed petitions containing nearly 1,000 names in submitting his candidacy. Numerous other candidates are expected to file within the next two weeks and the primary campaign promises to be a lively one.

Notice to Fireman.

All Fireman are requested to turn in Badges and Signal Whistles. The companies having been re-formed the badges and whistles are to be redistributed.

Fire Chief.

Severe Attack of Colic Cured.

E. E. Cross, who travels in Virginia and other Southern States, was taken suddenly and severely ill with colic. At the first store he came to the merchant recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Two doses of it cured him. No one should leave home on a journey without a bottle of this preparation. For sale by all dealers.

Cooling Milk Without Ice.

When it is impossible to secure ice or a supply of ice-cold water, milk, cream, and butter as well as other foods may be kept cold by the use of a pit or shallow well. The dairy department of the Nebraska College of Agriculture advises that pits may have a temperature of less than 70 degrees when the actual temperature in the shade is 104 degrees F. When these special pits are used for no other purpose, the milk and cream are usually of a much better quality than would be the case if they were stored in the ordinary cave or root cellar containing vegetables of all sorts. It is a well-known fact that milk and cream readily absorb odors from anything that may stand near them. A well or pit suitable for the cooling of cream should be about ten or fifteen feet deep and can be cemented, bricked, or boarded up as seems best under local conditions. A simple hoisting apparatus with counterweight may be used.

More Hog Cholera Instruction.

Another hog cholera day at the Nebraska University Farm has been set for July 8th to which every person interested is invited to attend. No charge will be made. At the first meeting, held recently, a representative number of hog raisers were present from different parts of the state. It proved to be so popular that the program of offering instruction on vaccination and other phases of hog cholera prevention on the second Wednesday of each month will be carried out as long as the demand warrants. The visitors on July 8 will inspect the serum plant, see the different processes of making serum and virus, and witness the vaccination of hogs. They will also examine cholera infected hogs and the carcasses after the post-mortem examination is made. From the post-mortem examination the stockmen are expected to become familiar with hog cholera diagnosis. Lectures on cholera prevention, as well as on other topics of interest to hog raisers, will be given. Instruction will begin at 9 o'clock and last throughout the day.

Writing Insurance Attracts Mullen Brothers.

Omaha Bee: The three Mullen brothers, W. H., G. M., and P. D., all with the Commonwealth Life of Omaha, a Nebraska company that wrote some $2,250,000 business last year and is going to exceed that amount by several hundred thousand dollars during 1914, comprises about as strong a team of solicitors as ever went into the field. With the Commonwealth they are among its most successful agents and an acceptable risk that they cannot land is not worth going after.

All three of the Mullen brothers left good paying professions and business to engage in insurance work. W. H. Mullen, a dentist at Bloomfield, this state, was the first to cast his lot with the Commonwealth. He had a good business, but liked to get out among people and hustle. From the start he did well—so well that it was not long until his brother, G. M. Mullen, a dentist at Creighton, got into the insurance game with the Commonwealth. He also did well right from the start, so well that another brother, P. D. Mullen, in business at O'Neill, applied for a position with the Commonwealth and was taken onto the staff. Now the three men are in the business to stay and by President Nelson, they are looked upon as a trio of workers, who can deliver the goods under about all conditions of circumstances.
