LOCAL MATTERS.

A great treat at the Royal Theatre Monday evening, July 13, 1914. Mexican war pictures.

Thomas Hicks, of Chicago, was in the city the first of the week for a visit with his nephew, Steve Hicks, north of this city.

There will be services at the Episcopal church Sunday at 10:30 a. m. Rev. W. W. Wells, priest in charge. Everybody invited.

David Isaacson, of Chambers, who owns the Ogden Hotel, is building a neat and commodious residence in the northwestern part of the city.

Henry Grady returned from his trip to Wyoming last Thursday. The trip done him a great deal of good and Hank is beginning to look like himself once more.

C. C. Case and George Davis were up from Inman Tuesday. These gentlemen says that crops never looked better in their vicinity than they do this season.

Mrs. E. Devine and children, of Scribner, Neb., arrived in the city last Thursday for a few days visit with her father, Sheridan Simmons and her sister, Mrs. Robert Cook.

The new city well was put down the past week. The new well is 67 feet deep and has 40 feet of water. Work on the installation of the new pump will be commenced next week and soon we will have an abundant supply of water and one of the finest equipped municipal water works plants in a city of this size in the state

Cam Tinsley sold his residence in the northern part of the city the first of the week to Webb Kellogg. Mr. Tinsley will move to Columbus, as that place is nearer the center of his territory.

Ed. F. Gallagher returned last Monday night from a four day automobile trip through Gregory county, South Dakota. He says that crops are looking especially good in that section this season.

S. A. Hickman, of Atkinson, was in the city today and favored this office with a short call. Sam has always taken a great interest in politics and likes to drop in and swap political stories with the editorial force.

Mrs. J. B. Mellor and son, Ralph, left this morning for Denver, Colorado, where they will spend the summer with relatives.

Attorney Fred H. Free, of Sioux City, was in the city looking after legal matters last Tuesday. Mr. Free was for years a resident of Plainview, moving to the metropolis of western Iowa a couple of months ago.

Az Perry was down from Atkinson yesterday. A. O. is feeling good over the splendid crop prospect this fall and is of the opinion that there will be a great deal of real estate activity in the county during the fall months.

National Bank Examiner John Rush, of Omaha, was in the city this week checking up the two national banks in this city. It is needless to say that Mr. Rush found the banking institutions here in first class condition.

Oscar Hagensick, who has been an employee of the McGinnis Creamery Company for the past five years, has resigned his position and will try farm life for a while. He has gone to work for his brother-in-law, Henry Murray, on his farm northwest of this city.

The fast Battle Creek ball team will play the O'Neill boys upon the local diamond next Wednesday afternoon. Battle Creek has one of the fastest teams in this section of the state and lovers of base ball should be on hand as they are sure to see a good game.

Another splendid rain visited this county last Thursday night. The rain was quite general and the fall from three quarters of an inch in this city to an inch and a half in the country north of O'Neill. This fixed the small grain crop and the farmers say that you can see the corn grow these days.

The Misses Edna and Gertrude Bedford, who have been at Atkinson the past two weeks receiving treatment for rheumatism, returned home the first of the week. They failed to receive the expected benefits at Atkinson and will go to Hot Springs the latter part of the week to receive treatment at the sanitarium there.

County Treasurer M. R. Sullivan returned from his western trip last Thursday. Mike says that he had a great time upon his vacation and seen a large part of Wyoming and visited a couple of that state's oil fields. He says that Wyoming is a great place for a poor man to imagine himself rich as everything there is a ranch, even the owner of a five acre plot of ground is called a ranchman.

Mrs. Maud McCreary, of Green Bay, Wis., delivered a suffragist address to a good sized audience at the Golden Hotel corner last Tuesday night. Although the meeting had not been advertised until a few hours before a large number of our citizens gathered upon the corner to listen to Mrs. McCreary's address. She is a very pleasing speaker, of good appearance and made a very favorable impression upon the citizens of this city. Whether her address added any strength to the suffrage cause or not is problematical. As Nebraska votes upon equal suffrage at the general election this fall we will undoubtedly have many suffrage speakers here before the campaign is over.

Although there were but few people left in the city last Saturday those who remained to guard the city thoroughly enjoyed themselves. The band of the Italian section men was pressed into service, one of the dray wagons, drawn by four horses and properly decorated, was used as the band wagon and a parade was made through the main streets of the city. The band and the managers thereof were tireless and abundance of music was furnished throughout the afternoon. When things became rather quiet here the band was taken to Atkinson where they furnished music to the citizens of our sister city until the small hours of the morning. Some of those who left town to attend celebrations say that from all accounts those remaining in this city had a splendid celebration.

We made a short drive in the country last Monday and viewed some splendid winter wheat fields. Ralph Lawrence has a splendid piece of wheat upon the Lorge farm just north of town and Anthony Murray has a field that he says will make fifty bushels to the acre. The shocks stand so thick in the field that it is almost impossible to drive through the field without running over grain. There are three splendid fields upon the Dickson farm four miles north of the city. They were harvesting one field and another field containing forty acres was nice and green and splendidly headed. This field is expected to yield at least forty bushel to the acre.

Herb Jensen has a ten acre field of wheat that he believes will go fifty bushel to the acre and many other farmers have wheat that give promise of a splendid yield.

O'Neill was nearly deserted last Saturday, the great majority of our citizens going to neighboring towns to assist them in properly celebrating the Fourth. A large number of our people went to Atkinson and all say that they had an enjoyable time. Our neighboring city had the largest crowd that had ever assembled within her borders on the Fourth, the crowd being estimated at 6,000 people.

H. J. Boyle delivered the oration of the day. Numerous amusements were provided to entertain the people. In the afternoon a ball game between Emmet and Atkinson was the center of attraction. The game was won by Atkinson with a score of 4 to 0. All the scores were made in the first half of the first inning and after that there was nothing doing in the scoring line. Those who liked to trip the light fantastic were furnished plenty of opportunity as there was a free bowery dance all afternoon and evening and also a dance at the opera house. Page also entertained a large crowd, among which were a large number of people from this city. Senator J. A. Donohoe was the orator of the day and he delivered a splendid address and paved the way for a glorious celebration. Among the amusements was a ball game between Allen and Royal, which was won by the latter with a score of 6 to 4. Dancing and other sporting events were furnished for the edification of the people.

New President Medical Association. The last issue of the Medical Review, published in Omaha, contained the following complimentary to Dr. J. P. Gilligan of this city, the new president of the Nebraska State Medical Association:

John Philip Gilligan was born Jan. 14, 1867, at Elizabethtown, N. Y. He was a student in the office of John M. Biglow of Albany, N. Y., who was at that time the leading nose, throat, and lung specialist of that city. Graduated from the Medical Department of Union University at Albany, N. Y., March, 1890. Spent the following school year pursuing studies in New York city and during vacations, was a commissioned officer on steamer New York H. R. L., for several successive summers. When a young man he became badly afflicted with the western fever and sought the plains of Nebraska, which for the time wrought a wonderful cure which caused his return to New York until the winter of '91, '92, when the practice of medicine was taken up in Nebraska. Located at Anselmo, Custer county, in what was very largely a sod house practice. Removed to O'Neill, December 17, 1892, residing there since that time. Did post graduate work several times in New York and Chicago. Took a vacation and mixed in politics in 1904, serving in the Nebraska state senate in 1905. Politics being regarded unfavorably he declined a renomination.

Married Miss Maud E. Stout in the year 1897, to which union there are two sons and a daughter. At present, outside of his profession, he is interested in business, owning a half interest in the firm of Gilligan & Stout which is conducted by C. E. Stout. Also is a stockholder in the O'Neill National Bank. Owns some choice farm land and in fact has become a chronic Nebraskan.
Dr. Gilligan has witnessed some stirring events during his pioneer days in Northern Nebraska. He was one of the first members of the Elkhorn Valley Medical Society and has always taken a live interest in the welfare of that organization. He has been an earnest, if unostentatious member of the State association and has been an honor to his profession both in public and private life. He represents a type of medical practitioner that is rapidly disappearing, strong, staunch, honorable, kind, just and sympathetic. A clean-hearted, clear-minded, competent and careful family physician.
