Wisner Trims O'Neill.

Wisner and O'Neill crossed bats upon the local diamond last Monday afternoon and it was a genuine slugging match on both sides, Wisner being returned on the long end of a 15 to 14 score.

The game abounded in good hitting, loose fielding and the errors were so numerous on both sides that it was almost impossible to keep track of them. Although the score was enough to win a dozen games it was an interesting contest. O'Neill had the lead all the way through until the seventh inning and it looked as if they had the game in a sack, but in the seventh six hits, one of which was a three bagger, and three errors allowed the visitors to run in seven scores and took the lead in the contest for scores. O'Neill got two in the eighth on a single and a triple and tied the score. Wisner put another one across in the ninth and then shut the locals out in the last two innings winning the slugging contest. Score by innings:

O'Neill. . . 3 1 5 0 3 0 2 0 0—14
Wisner. . . 1 0 1 5 0 0 7 0 1—15

Preventing Waste in Silage.

There will always be some waste on top of the silo, unless the feeding operations are begun immediately after filling. The depth to which silage spoils varies from two to twenty-four inches, depending upon the precautions taken to prevent it. Various methods of lessening waste have been advocated. Some tramp or pack the surface of the silage daily for a week or more. Another method that is sometimes used is to soak thoroughly the top layer and seed in with oats. The oats germinate and form a solid covering which keeps out the air. A covering of oat chaff or cut straw may be put on top of the silage to protect it, or the ears may be removed from the last few loads of corn before cutting and the surface soaked with water. All these methods are quite satisfactory in that they keep out the air and thus lessen the waste.—Extension Bulletin No. 21, Nebraska College of Agriculture.

MR. DEPOSITOR:

We invite you to Deposit your funds in this bank for the reason that all depositors are protected by the Depositors' Guarantee Fund of the State of Nebraska.

That the Deposits are amply protected in State Banks was exemplified in the failure of the State Savings Bank of Superior, Nebraska, a few months ago. Shortly after the bank closed the depositors were paid in full, together with interest up to the time the bank suspended payment.

At the same time the First National Bank of Superior failed and up to this time the depositors have not received a cent, and prospects of ever receiving a substantial portion of their deposits are not very bright.

The harvest of the farmers and stockmen is now at hand and they will soon be disposing of their products and will want to deposit their surplus funds.

Kindly keep this bank in mind, as this is the only bank in O'Neill operating under the Guarantee Law of the State of Nebraska.
