Candidate for Member of the National Committee of the Democratic Party for the State of Nebraska

Primaries April 18—VOTE FOR HIM

Since the dry era has dawned it is said that father appears to be at work and brings home some money, in place of a "jag," and the great increase in the amount of vegetables bought for the family is very apparent at the grocers. A whole bushel of potatoes at a time, and turnips, cabbage and celery often added to the order.

Since reading some of the literature sent out by the great liquor interests, detailing the awful consequences to the families of their employees if the "business" was ruined, our hearts go out in sympathy for the children of these poor saloon owners, bar keepers and others who have been in the employ of this "business"—maybe their rations are cut down by the forced change in employment of their fathers. We earnestly hope they will be able to find something to do that will afford at least as appetizing a menu as the children of their former patrons are now revelling in.

Whiskey Men Defraud Government.

In collecting its share of the ill born liquor profits the government has its troubles. A great conspiracy was unearthed at Fort Smith, Ark., last fall, where a gang of men were in the business of sneaking liquor onto the market without paying the government tax. Prominent among the conspirators were several government employees—gaugers and revenue agents. Contact with the liquor business had corrupted all of them so that they were defrauding the government without compunctions. They had used every method, including the wholesale use of cancelled revenue stamps.

Seven of the gang were found guilty and given fines of $1,000 each and jail sentences from six months to two years. Twenty more of the same outfit are to have trials in January.

A Modern Instance.

Lincoln News: An Omaha man left his position as teacher in the Sunday school in order to secure a license as a saloonkeeper. The law requires that he must give a certificate as to his good character. Two who so testified at the hearing on the application for a license were superintendents of Methodist Sunday schools, where the applicant had taught; here, upon the World-Herald, which has definitely allied itself against prohibition, burst forth into glee. According to Bishop Bristol of the Methodist church, who has written the most scathing denunciation of an editor that we have ever read, the said editor being the one attached to the World-Herald, that this gleeful editorial insinuated that this demonstrated the Methodist church was divided on the saloon question or looked with tolerance upon liquor selling. The bishop winds up his letter by saying: "Please do not even by subtle insinuation give the public to understand the position of Methodism or to leave the impression upon the public mind that any of the officers or members, lay or clerical, are in sympathy with that undesirable element of the community who would make a living by selling booze to their neighbors." Which prompts the remark, what's the matter with an industry that its defenders find a source of glee in the fact that two men, summoned by lawful authority, to testify to the character of any applicant, were superintendents of Methodist Sunday schools.

no inebriates. Only about one person in 3,000 is under the care of counties. Inebriety and pauperism seems to be very generally prohibited. The per capita wealth of Kansas is greater than any other state in the union—"poor bleeding Kansas." With one exception, Kansas has the lowest tax rate of any of the states. The bank deposits are the largest per capita, also.

Poor Old John Barleycorn.

The great industries of our country have said to him in decisive tones "No admittance to our plans of business." The great railroads of the land will have no more of him. Very recently a steel mill in Hazelton, Pa., informed its 1200 employees that any acquaintance with him would be followed by instant dismissal.

The united mine workers of America, by a unanimous vote changed their constitution in such a way that any one of its officers whose actions showed any familiarity with Brother John should forfeit his position, and now the worst cut of all, the circus people have tabooed all wet towns. In their 1916 bookings they skip by the wet towns and favor the dry ones, except in the case of large cities. The manager of the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus says: "I have seen the whole game up and down and backward and across, and I tell you this talk about a town requiring a saloon to stimulate business is the purest punk."

John Barleycorn, good-bye!

Who blames the women for fighting booze?

There is no use wasting time on any young man who drinks liquor, no matter how exceptional his talents.—Andrew Carnegie.

"Bad women and booze leave Tacoma together," says the Tacoma, (Wash.) Times. They usually go and come in company.

Changes in Denver.

Since the prohibitory law has taken effect in Colorado we notice in the columns of a recent paper that one of the best changes has been in the habit of the poor of buying potatoes, one at a time. Just think of it. We, who see the great crops of potatoes often sold at 40 and 50 cents per bushel, and some poor folks having to buy them one at a time!

AFTER TWO YEARS

O'Neill Testimony Remains Unshaken

Time is the best test of truth. Here is an O'Neill story that has stood the test of time. It is a story with a point which will come straight home to many of us.

H. J. Zimmerman, merchant, O'Neill, says: "My back ached constantly. I had to pass the kidney secretions too often and the passages were attended by a scalding sensation. Dizzy spells and pains in my head also caused me much misery. The first box of Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Pixley & Hanley's Drug Store, helped me and four boxes rid me of kidney complaint."

OVER TWO YEARS LATER Mr. Zimmerman said: "Doan's Kidney Pills have merited all the praise I have given them. My kidneys haven't bothered me since I used them."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Zimmerman has twice recommended. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

Judging from reports from various parts of the county the bond proposition will not receive many votes.

Edited by the Ladies of the Local W. C. T. U.

Oregon went dry by 36,480 majority, so there is possibly as much respect for law there as anywhere. The first month is summed up by The Oregonian under the following head lines: "Crime cut to one-third;" "Drunkenness decreases 80 per cent;" "Groceries replace liquors;" "No family rows;" "Fewer accidents;" "More money circulated."

Ninety-six counties in Kansas have
