Church Dedication at O'Neill.

Sunday, July 2nd, was a historical day for the Methodist Church and community of O'Neill, Nebraska.

For a number of years the need of a new church building has been greatly felt by Methodism in O'Neill, and in the fall of 1915 the contract was let for the erection of a new place of worship. The old building was at once wrecked, and work on the new one began immediately, and was rushed through to completion, and in March we worshiped in the main auditorium of the new building.

The new church is 40x60 feet and is a frame building stucco veneered. The main auditorium consists of a large assembly room, Epworth League room and pastors study. There is a full basement consisting of toilets, kitchen, dining room, parlor, furnace room, coal room and Sunday School room. The cost of the structure was $7,000 of which there was $2,800 to be raised on Sunday morning. Dr. I. B. Schreckengast vice Chancellor of the Nebraska Wesleyan was invited to have charge of the finances of the occasion and after preaching a very inspiring sermon on Sunday morning he called for the financial statement, and began the task of raising the funds needed. In just thirty-five minutes he raised $2,500, and in the afternoon and evening services the remaining $300 was provided for.

An excellent program was carried out in connection with the dedication of the church.

Friday evening, June 30, Dr. Schreckengast made a heart stirring address at a men's banquet in the basement, and all went away feeling that the Doctor was indeed a man sent to us from God with a message that we all needed.

Saturday evening Dr. J. M. Bothwell, District Superintendent, preached a very able sermon, after which he held the fourth quarterly conference of the year. The fourth quarterly conference asked for the return of G. W. Bruce as pastor for the fourth year.

Sunday morning Dr. Schreckengast proved himself not only an eloquent preacher, but one with ability, power and zeal. His sermon was one of those which stir the deeper and finer qualities of men, and inspire them to do the manly things. This whole community feel that Nebraska Wesleyan University, through her vice chancellor, has done a great work for the community.

Sunday afternoon addresses were made by the following persons: The Rev. T. S. Watson, a former pastor at O'Neill, now pastor at Inman; the Rev. E. E. Hossman, a former pastor of O'Neill, now District Superintendent of the Norfolk District; the Rev. A. G. Foreman, pastor at Ewing, Nebraska; the Rev. Wells, pastor at Atkinson, Nebraska; Claude R. Parkerson, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church at O'Neill. Sunday evening Dr. Hossman preached a helpful sermon, and Dr. Bothwell assisted by the pastors present, formally dedicated the church to the worship and service of God.

G. W. Bruce has served this charge as pastor for three years. His pastorate has been blessed of God in spiritual and material ways. He did not fear to remove his clerical garb, and assist in the manual labor of construction on the new building, donating nearly $300 worth of work. Through all the work of constructing the building, and planning the details, he was assisted nobly by the following men, who composed the building committee: O. O. Snyder, chairman; C. P. Hancock, secretary; H. A. Polk, H. G. Jordan.

At the close of the dedication services in the evening the congregation voted the pastor a liberal vacation, and presented him with a purse to pay expenses of the vacation.

It is unusual for a hen to hatch out a woodpecker, but an instance is recorded by Ira Cordrey, a farmer living near Federalburg, Md. The hen had been missing for some time. When found she was mothering eleven baby chicks and one tiny woodpecker, which appeared perfectly happy to let the hen scratch worms for it, and the hen is paying just as much attention to the little woodpecker as it is to her brood of chicks.

The game of base ball between the Greens of O'Neill and the Reds of Atkinson at the latter place on July 3rd, was quite a one sided affair until the last few innings. During the first five innings the Reds made 20 scores, while the Greens secured but 5, but the latter changed pitchers at this time and for the rest of the game steadily gained on the Reds so that in the last half of the ninth inning the score stood 20 to 25 in favor of the Reds, with the Greens at bat and only one out. Through the fear of being beaten or for some other reason the Reds re-
