BAZELMAN'S

For Your Money's Worth

It was expected we would have to close shop a day in order to serve last week's nice brown roast. "But too much business." We are writing these lines ten minutes before going to press. We don't enjoy this scrapping, it is so like child's play, but it is a weak worm that won't turn when trampled on. We are accused of hollering. Who started the hollering? For eight months we have all turned the other cheek, but there is a limit; a time when patience ceases to be a virtue. We are not speaking because we are hurt. (Only our feelings.) We had so often been asked by our customers. Why don't you defend yourself? But we felt like the little boy did when his father said: "Willie, why don't you fight the skunk?" and Willie answered: "I don't like to papa cause when you do they always make such a stink." The business we are doing is no joke as declared by said investigator. The two customers must have felt ashamed of themselves or they would not have slipped out of the store and down an alley. Don't blame them though they entered our place in the front door. There were so many twos, fours and dozens, don't know which particular two. Was it the woman who took the $1 worth of stale bacon back to your place and left without meat or 80c offered? Maybe was the one who left the fifteen dozen Eggs and later bought what was left after the argument to our place, or perhaps the one who bought the three boxes of matches for a dime and went elsewhere to get a forty-five cent work shirt that you asked sixty for; or could it be the ones who sold you the produce for cash and came to our place to spend the money where they could do better they said. Really I can't place the particular two mentioned, there has been so many!

Judging from appearances you must be kicking them all out. "Well, they say give a calf enough rope and it will hang itself." Beef is such a good price, too.

Yes, if you pick at a hole enough it will be like some dough-nuts we have seen, all hole and the hole benefits no one.

Suppose "Hank Mills" should get our trade. Why should you worry? I notice some of your old customers coming there too. Hank can't accuse us of butting into his Ice Cream Trade. Baiting our hooks with cream to catch any one.

Our motto is: Live and let live. We are on best of terms with all our neighbors. They say we are good fellows and they like us. It was a measly shame we were disappointed in the $100 Ford, but they say it takes a rogue to catch a rogue and never having practiced rogery ourselves, we were easy prey. First nudge we had that we were deceived you give it to us. "What fools we mortals be." We were so certain of that car that we left the family disputing as to who would ride in the back seat. We should have known that $100 would buy only a second hand car. But Solomon had to tell us that and yet we see him advertising stuff at one-fourth its value every week, that is one thing that fooled us. We wondered why Sioux City couldn't sell as cheap as O'Neill. We won't do anything again without the wise man's consent.

If we told the people you showed us how to run our store we would not be a man, we would be a liar. Even if the people don't believe us. Who are the people? Wise man, answer. I am the people. The credit people with common sense after looking our goods over they know whether it is fresh stock or old junk. No one has to tell them. We deal with intelligent people. We ask them to take our word for nothing. Come and see. Isn't that fair? When a little child comes in we treat them as men and women. Can't be accused of ever taking advantage of either for as advised "God watches over the little things." We don't just preach that, we believe it. "You must keep your store neat and clean." Were you speaking to me? Can't mean me, as it is known I am not the one to whom the suggestion was made. "Change conditions around the place." People who live in "chicken houses should not throw stones." A suggestion. Vacate the chicken house, live in an n-(Ice) house and keep cool the rest of the summer. Yes! There is trade enough for us all and we don't figure we are the all, and as every reader knows we never started the "holler" and don't enjoy yelling well enough to coax any other business man to yell against us. So as we could gain the more advertisement. "Murder will out."

The Interstate Commerce Commission, the biggest fake we ever started gave the R. R. Co. power to increase the freight rates inside the State of Nebraska. Are you going to stand for this? This increase comes off the Prices of Hogs, Cattle, Grain, Etc., shipped to Omaha or any town inside the state. It's time for the Farmers Union to stick together and help the Railroad Trainmen fight this Commerce Commission.

You can see what they can do in one month. What can they do in a year?

Make Your Checks Large.

The next time you feel like dashing off a check in settlement of an obligation be careful that it is for more than a dollar. An absolute federal regulation provides a penalty for writing a check for less than one buck.

Under the title of "Offenses against the currency, coinage, etc., section 178, criminal code of the United States," the law relative to checks is made very plain. Section 178 is as follows:

"No person shall make, issue, circulate or pay out any note, check, memorandum, token or other obligation for a sum less than $1, intended to circulate as money, or to be received, or used in lieu of lawful money of the United States; and every person so offending shall be fined not more than $500 or imprisoned not more than six months, or both."

THE Prince Albert tidy red tin, and in fact, every Prince Albert package, has a real message-to-you on its reverse side. You'll read—"Process Patented July 30th, 1907." That means that the United States Government has granted a patent on the process by which Prince Albert is made. And by which tobacco bite and throat parch are cut out! Everywhere tobacco is sold you'll find Prince Albert waiting you in tippy red bags, 5c; tidy red tins, 10c; handsome pound and half-pound tin humidors and in that clever crystal-glass humidior, with sponge-moistener top, that keeps the tobacco in such fine condition—always!

are sadly neglected and as I have followed HORTICULTURE all my life I wish to say that conditions can be easily changed.

A tree should never be tied to a post but the top weight should be removed so that it will stand up itself and no paint should ever be used on wounds or cuts, but it is a good idea to whitewash all trees twice each year.

By pruning each year you can hold your trees within bounds and avoid having to rebuild them as you will have to do with many of them which are now beyond your control.

Fresh stable manure should never be used around trees and the lower limbs should not be cut off to more than six feet from the ground, but the top growth should be held under control.

Sap in a tree never goes down but as soon as the tree is through growing it becomes dormant and can be pruned to any form you want it and right now you can use a saw or an ax on a tree and it will not bleed, but all cuts should be well painted in order that the wound may heal before cold weather.

Young growth can be removed at any time in the year and this should be done that you may train your tree to grow as you do your child.

Kola Items.

August 14, 1915.
A young man by the name of George Thiesler of Gracie, set fire to the Blake Post Office, one day last week, which was the home of Grover Barthell. We hear there was no insurance. He was working at Berin's ranch with the hay gang. He does not give any reason for his crime only that they worked him too hard. He was caught the same eve, and taken to Burwell and has confessed that he burned the home.

Last Friday eve during a severe storm the windmill of Mr. C. Moss and barn of J. Shultz were struck by lightning.

N. Robertson and wife of Opportunity, north of O'Neill, stopped at Kola for a few minutes Saturday.

R. Benjamin, Mrs. A. P. Monroe, Miss Josephine Bruner and Miss Myrtle Hoffland visited Kola Sunday.

Corn is looking fine since the splendid rains of last week and will have a fine crop if frost will not come too
