Amateur gardeners have no need to fear that the usual supply of garden seeds from Uncle Sam will not be forthcoming this year. Congressmen now are busy making the usual talks about doing away with the customary appropriation for seeds, but each has his fingers crossed.

The Frontier has received several boiler-plate comments on the proposed call for a constitutional convention which seems likely to pass the legislature. They are both for and against. It is nice to receive this stuff, already in type, but if the rheumatism don't strike us we will continue to do our own writing.

English war munition factories are offering shells to the United States cheaper than American factories will furnish them to us. English produce dealers are shipping cargoes of spuds to America. The American munition factories are working night and day to furnish supplies to the allies at fancy prices. Wonder who is getting the split on the other side of the pond?

Sixty-five horses were burned to death in a livery barn fire in Omaha the other night. The horses, as is the custom in livery barns in the large places or where ground space is valuable, were kept in the basement. There was no possible chance to save them, after the fire had started. The state, cities and towns all should join in regulations prohibiting stabling in basements. The basements are not only dangerous fire risks, but generally are unsanitary and poorly lighted, to the detriment of the animals health and sight.

The Rev. Titus Lowe of Omaha should be awarded a leather medal for being the champion trouble-seeker of the universe. The reverend gentleman must have been hating himself the other evening when, in addressing a graduating class a majority of which were girls, he handed out the following: "A career is not for the normal woman." Now there isn't a normal woman in Omaha. They all are abnormally angry and are declaring and writing stinging little criticisms of Mr. Lowe.

The Frontier has received a number of letters the last few days, the sympathetic writers of which all offer employment to the deserving and hungry young man mentioned in last week's issue. Through some oversight the story of last week omitted to mention that the young man is not in need of work, has lots of it and is not seeking any more. The gentleman in question is A. A. Driggs of the McGinnis Creamery company. He is hungry because he is dieting to reduce his flesh.

Representative Jerry Howard of Omaha at present wears the belt as the champion long-distance talker of the legislature. Jerry spoke eight times on one bill, in one afternoon, recently. But just wait until some one tries to reduce the appropriation for the Valentine fish hatcheries and Col. George Tracewell gets into action. Once upon a time, when the colonel was mayor of Valentine, the tooth carpenters of northwestern Nebraska held a convention in his back-wick. The colonel as official orator for the city, the commercial club and at large delivered fifteen separate and distinct orations and they were all humdingers. Besides, the colonel's voice will never tire for he is an auctioneer of more than thirty years standing.

Holt county citizens seeking investments for their idle or surplus funds should beware of certain kinds of investments now being widely advertised in the metropolitan newspapers. Some of these schemes offer stock or small acreage in sandhill truck garden enterprises, "badland" vineyards, new motor and tractor factories, palace hotels at water-tank stations, etc. Some of the concerns advertised are O. K., but others after investigation have had their advertisements thrown out of legitimate publications. Some eventually may have trouble with Uncle Sam. It is better to consult your banker or some successful business man in whom you have confidence before investing. "Sure enough" good things, paying big returns on the investment, are not being offered to the public at reduced rates just now.

It was decidedly unkind for Congressman Reavis to trade off his allowance of garden seeds for another congressman's share of congressional records containing a speech of the Falls

Kregerverein Attention.
Members of the Holt county Kregerverein, and their friends, are requested to attend a meeting of the Kregerverein Saturday afternoon, January 27, at the K. C. hall, to consider business matters and to arrange a date for a picnic to be held later, the proceeds of which will go toward the relief of the widows and orphans of our brothers who have fallen in the present war.

FRED RICHTER,
Captain.

Holt County Has Many Trees.
Holt county stands third among the counties of the state in the size of its artificial forests, or forests and orchards that have been planted, according to the state statistical department. Of the 77,678 acres of artificial forestation in the state, Deuel county has 9,949 acres; Antelope, 4,962; Holt, 4,496; Wayne, 2,819. There are 172,212 acres of native timber in the state, with 27,151 acres of this in Dawes county. Nemaha has 7,822; Keya Paha, 6,943, and Knox, 6,309.
