months ago with a view to locating. The climate of that country did not agree with Mr. Schroeder and he had to leave as he said he preferred leaving to being carried out in a box. He says it is very dry up in that section, not having had any rain for several weeks and that all pastures are dried up. He will make his future home in O'Neill. His son, William, came down with their household goods and he expects to return to Casper in a few days.

Mrs. Mary Reider, of Gregory, S. D., left for her home yesterday morning after visiting here three weeks with friends and relatives. Mayor Reider, of Gregory, is to meet Mrs. Reider at Norfolk and together they will visit friends at Lake Andes and Fort Randall, S. D. The last day of her stay here Mrs. Reider bid good bye to her youngest son who went to Omaha with Russel Cunningham to take the examination for the aviation corps. A message received this morning says both boys passed the examination and left immediately for Somewhere in the Rocky Mountains.

John A. Robertson went down to Lincoln last Monday morning to attend a meeting of the exemption board for the north half of the state, the members being called to meet with Governor Neville in that city Tuesday. Mr. Robertson returned home yesterday afternoon. He said that they organized by electing Douglas Cones, of Pierce, chairman, and M. C. Peters, of Omaha, secretary. They will meet again in Lincoln next Tuesday, with the board from the south half of the state, and agree on rules and method of procedure. The board for this section of the state will probably hold their regular meetings in Omaha.

Yankee Robinson's Circus played here to a crowded house yesterday afternoon. One of the managers of the show informed us at the conclusion of the afternoon performance that they had played to about thirty-five hundred people at the afternoon performance. In the evening they also attracted a good sized crowd so that their bank roll was considerably larger when they left this city. The main circus was good and gave general satisfaction. At the conclusion of the main show they gave a matinee or "concert performance" which was a stinger. At this performance Battling Nelson was scheduled to box with his sparring partner, who was classed as the coming light weight champion of the world. He may be "coming" but from the boxing ability he demonstrated Wednesday afternoon it will take him years to arrive. This part of the show was not worth a nickle, let alone the two bits that they taxed the people to witness it.

John J. Thomas has filed suit in the district court against the Chicago and Northwestern railway company for $500 damages for three head of cattle killed and one injured and maimed beyond recovery by one of the defendant's trains. In his petition he alleges that on June 14, 1917, the date of the accident, his cattle all broke through the fence of the defendant on the south side of defendant's right of way, which fence was old and delapidated, unsuitable and insufficient for preventing cattle from getting on the track and that the defendant carelessly permitted and maintained the fence in that condition. The cattle were valued at $125 a head, or $500 for the lot.

William J. Malloy, residing southwest of Emmett, has filed suit in the district court against the Chicago and Northwestern railway company for $300 for two horses killed on the defendant's track on May 6th. In his petition he alleges that the gate north of the track at the farmers' crossing a mile and a half west of Emmett, which is about sixty rods from where his horses were killed, is not maintained in good repair; that there was no latch to fasten the gate shut and that it would swing to and fro at will and that the wind would and did blow it open; that the defendant was careless and negligent in permitting this condition to exist contrary to their duty, and that by reason thereof the plaintiff has been damaged to the extent of the loss of two horses, one black gelding, three years old, and one gray mare, three years old, valued at $300, for which he asks judgment.

Henry Arbahams narrowly escaped death by drowning on last Saturday morning when on fording the Elkhorn river near the old Coffey school house he stepped into a hole. He was rescued by his two companions, Frank and John Dick, who after applying first aid measures brought him to O'Neill where Dr. Gilgan restored him to consciousness. The two Dicks boys and Arbahams started out early Saturday morning to go fishing and were fishing along the Elkhorn on the south side when they decided they wanted to get over on the north side. In going across Arbahams and John Dick were following Henry but evidently deviated a little from his path and stepped into a hole and sank out of sight. Arbahams could not swim at all and Dick but very little. John Dick managed to get out of the hole some way when Henry Dick called to him that Arbahams was still there and had just sunk again. Henry then held out one of the bamboo fishing poles to John who went back in after Arbahams. After getting into the hole he felt Arbahams with his foot lying on the bottom and reaching down grabbed him by the hair and pulled him out. Then after applying first aid measures they brought him to O'Neill where in the evening he regained consciousness. The accident occurred in the morning about ten thirty. Mr. Arbahams is farming the old Henry Brandt place north of the city with Isaac Jensen and moved to this county from York county only last fall.

L. C. McKim, of Opportunity, was in the city Wednesday, having brought the little folks in to attend the circus.

Walt Barrett, who has been engaged in the barber business at Greeley, Nebr., for the last year, arrived in the city the first of the week for an extended visit at home.

The State Fire Commissioner has instructed his deputies that all gasoline, when in more than five gallon quantities, must be kept under ground. This will compel all garage owners, who have large tanks containing gasoline, to bury their gasoline. This action is taken as a fire prevention measure.

Thomas Donlin came over from his ranch at Fort Randall last Tuesday to spend a few days looking after his affairs here. Mr. Donlin says that it is getting pretty dry in that neighborhood also, and that they are needing a good soaking rain to put corn in good shape. He says the small grain is the best ever seen in that section of the state.

The exclusive hot, dry weather of the past month has greatly damaged the potato crop of this county, which a month ago promised such an abundant yield. Corn is also suffering from the lack of moisture and it must have a good soaking rain within a few days unless irreparable damage will be done. Outside of a few local showers there has been no rain in this county for five weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. William Schroeder returned last Sunday morning from Gillette, Wyoming, where they went two
