MRS. GEO. LONGSTAFF

Reception to Archbishop Harty.

The reception given by the members of St. Patrick's parish and the citizens of O'Neill at the K. C. opera house to Archbishop J. J. Harty last Saturday evening was a splendid success, the great hall being crowded to its capacity and many being unable to gain admittance.

In the afternoon about twenty automobiles went down to Ewing and escorted the Archbishop to this city, reaching here about 5:30.

Promptly at 8 o'clock the exercises at the hall commenced. The first number on the program being the welcome chorus by the Rioch Club.

Very Rev. M. F. Cassidy, the beloved pastor of St. Patrick's, then delivered the introduction and welcoming address to the Archbishop on behalf of the congregation of St. Patrick's, the clergy assembled and the citizens of O'Neill generally, assuring the Archbishop that they were all pleased to welcome him on his first trip to O'Neill.

Greetings, by Minims of St. Patrick was next on the program. Six little pupils of St. Mary's delivered addresses of welcome that touched the heart of the Archbishop and won the plaudits of the audience.

The next number was the real surprise of the evening. It was an address of welcome, delivered in Spanish, by Master James Arbutnot. The Archbishop said that his pronunciation was almost perfect and that for a moment he imagined himself back in the Philippine Islands, listening to a Spanish Don. This was one of the novel features of the reception and one that made a decided hit with the guests of honor.

An address of welcome was then delivered by Mayor E. H. Whelan. Mr. Whelan is always at home on the platform and on this occasion he delivered a stirring address of welcome and briefly referred to the work performed by the Archbishop in the Philippine Islands, a work that had a prominent part in bringing the Islands under the peaceful rule of the United States, and the speaker assured his audience that while the Archbishop was performing his duties as the head of the church in the Islands he also performed his duty to his country, in teaching the natives to love, honor and respect the United States.

J. A. Donohoe then delivered an address that dealt with the pioneer days of St. Patrick's parish. He referred briefly to the time when the pioneer settlers came to this city, and the hardships endured by the pioneer members of St. Patrick's parish. One of the first buildings erected in O'Neill, he said, was the Catholic church. The early settlers seen their first crop destroyed by grasshoppers, but they persevered. Then came the drought of the early nineties, but still the people did not lose hope; they seen a splendid school building, that they had erected at great financial sacrifice, burned to the ground just as it was completed. Still, they did not despair, but continued to labor and finally overcame all difficulties. Now they had a splendid school, one of the finest in the west, a beautiful church and the people were contented, prosperous and happy. He paid a splendid tribute to Very Rev. M. F. Cassidy, who has been the pastor of St. Patrick's for over thirty years, saying that he was one of the best loved institutions of this city. By his labor and the esteem in which he was held here he had ceased to be an individual but was an institution and said that the people of this city and county hoped that the Archbishop would leave him here to look after the work that he had so faithfully performed for so many years.

Archbishop Harty responded to the address of welcome. He thanked the people of the city for their splendid welcome, saying that he met surprise after surprise since entering the city, one of the greatest being the address of welcome in Spanish delivered by Master James Arbutnot. He said that O'Neill was noted all over the United States as a city of orators and he said that after listening to the addresses of Mayor Whelan and J. A. Donohoe he was convinced that the charge was true. He referred briefly to his work in the Philippine Islands saying that he was pleased that after fifteen years in the Islands, when he was transferred he was sent to Omaha and Nebraska. The Archbishop won the hearts of the people of this city by his kind words and affable manner and hope that he enjoyed his visit so much that he will soon return to again enjoy the hospitality of the people of this city.

Holt County Made Splendid Showing In Liberty Bond Sale.

Under the leadership of S. J. Weekes, chairman of the Liberty Bond selling committee of Holt county, old Holt made a splendid showing in the Liberty Bond Sale. The amount allotted to this county was $355,200, and while the amount sold fell a little short of that amount, everything considered the sale was splendid success, the amount of bonds sold in this county, as reported to Mr. Weekes up to 4 o'clock last Saturday evening, was $277,000.00. The total amount sold before midnight Saturday night will probably exceed the amount above named, as some committees in different parts of the county were still at work when the report was made to Mr. Weekes. Following is the amount taken by the various banks of the county, which includes the amounts retained by the banks and sold by them to their customers:

An Injustice Done.

O'Neill Nebr., Oct. 30, 1917.

Editor of Norfolk News: In your issue of October 29, I notice a news item from O'Neill in which it is charged, that the people of Chambers this county, refused to purchase liberty bonds after a meeting held there. This statement does the people of Chambers a great injustice when the facts are known.

The facts are that a meeting was called at Chambers, the time was so short that but little notice of the meeting was given. Only a few had notice and attended, and no bonds were subscribed for. The outcome of this meeting was reported to S. J. Weekes, Chairman of the Liberty Bond Committee of the county, and I immediately at his request went to Chambers to investigate the facts. I found them as stated. The business men called a meeting for Saturday afternoon October 27th, which was addressed by Judge Malone and myself. After the meeting, the citizens of Chambers and vicinity subscribed for $2,500.00 worth of liberty bonds. This with what had been previously subscribed aggregated more than the required amount for the place.

I make this statement that the facts may be known and that justice may be done to the loyal and patriotic citizens of Chambers.

Yours truly,
R. R. DICKSON.

Geo. Stukas Killed.

George Stukas, a carpenter formerly widely known in the vicinity of Laurel, was killed a week ago Saturday at Sioux City when he was caught in a freight elevator at the Warfield-Pratt-Howell wholesale grocery house, where he was superintending repairs for a contractor. He was called to the sixth floor and went up on a freight elevator. When he attempted to leave the car his foot caught in the floor and threw him between the wall and the car, which crushed the lower part of his body so badly that he died about three hours later. The body was sent to Laurel Tuesday where funeral services were held Wednesday at the home of his father, W. D. Stukas, Rev. G. M. Bing officiating. Mr. Stukas is survived by his wife and four children.
