

"BEST MEDICINE FOR WOMEN"

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did For Ohio Woman.

Portsmouth, Ohio.—"I suffered from irregularities, pains in my side and was so weak at times I could hardly get around to do my work, and as I had four in my family and three boarders it made it very hard for me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me. I took it and it has restored my health. It is certainly the best medicine for woman's ailments I ever saw."—Mrs. SARA SHAW, R. No. 1, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Mrs. Shaw proved the merit of this medicine and wrote this letter in order that other suffering women may find relief as she did.

Women who are suffering as she was should not drag along from day to day without giving this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a trial. For special advice in regard to such ailments write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of its forty years experience is at your service.

HE PROBABLY HAD VISION

Artemus Ward Said in Jest What Today He Might Almost Have Said in Earnest.

Appropos of the high cost of living in Washington, the following extract from one of Artemus Ward's stories, in which he describes a visit to the national capital during the Civil war, is of interest:

"It is easy enough to see why a man goes to the poorhouse or the penitentiary. It's becauz he can't help it. But why he should voluntarily go and live in Washington is intirely beyond my comprehension, and I can't say no fairer nor that.

"I put up at a leadin' hotel. I saw the landlud and said:

"How d'y'e do, square?"

"Fifty cents," was his reply.

"Sir?"

"Half a dollar. We charge twenty-five cents for lookin' at the landlud and fifty cents for speakin' to him. If you want supper, a boy will show you to the dinin' room for twenty-five cents. Your room is on the tenth story; it will cost you a dollar to be shown up there."

"How much do you ax a man for breathin' in the equinomial tavern?" sez I.

"Ten cents a breath," was the reply.

"Washington hotels is very reasonable in their charges.

"(N. B.—This is sarkassum.)"

Honeymoon Waning.

"The honeymoon is over."

"Dear me! Are you quite sure about that?"

"I haven't the slightest doubt of it. She's beginning to remind him that she was making $25 a week when he married her."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

WHAT RUSSIA WANTS IS A MATTER OF OPINION

From the New York World.
The trouble with the resolution now pending in the United States Senate providing for intervention in Russia is that its preamble is either untrue or misleading. It says that the Russian people want to establish a republican form of government and are in sympathy with the cause of the United States and the allies, whereas most of the known facts are to the contrary.

Nearly everything done and said in Russia since its armies were disbanded indicates that the United States and the allies are in greater disfavor there than Germany. Now, as always heretofore, the class conscious revolutionary socialism of Karl Marx has found in a democracy of order and justice more to hate and fear than in Prussian militarism, which has given the bolsheviks a free hand in one quarter while it gorged itself in another.

There is a sincere desire in the western world to help Russia, but how is Russia to be helped if it is hostile to those who would go to its rescue, and who is to say that the poison of Marxism which has produced the soviet delirium is not as active among the masses who applaud the soviets? The American commission headed by Elihu Root made the painful discovery, long before Russia went wholly mad, that assistance from anybody except the apostles of classism, anarchy, confiscation and repudiation was not welcome.

President Wilson is informed as to this situation, and no doubt that is why he is in no haste to act. To restore Russia to independence and open the way for a constitutional democracy would be a noble task, but until the fever of Marxism has run its course there is grave danger that an invasion would strengthen the hold of the Lenines and Trotskys upon the country, or throw the greater part of it into open alliance with Germany.

English Team in World Series Is Possible Result of War

By United Press.
London, June 26.—World's Series—1922—London Teafighters vs. Comiskey's White Sox.

It reads like a pipe-dream, but four years ago this war would have sounded like a message from the padded cell. So, strange things may happen in the next four years.

For instance, John Bull may have a ball club playing for the world's championship.

John is really taking an interest in the grandgame this year, learning all there is to be known about it, for the first time since Wallie Skinclothes learned his knotted war club against a falling persimmon, thus inventing the pastime, back in the days when high society revels were staged in the trees.

Eight American and Canadian ball clubs are this season's missionaries, playing a full schedule as the Anglo-American league. Charly gets the immediate money proceeds but the people promoting this circuit have the ultimate aim of bringing England and America closer together.

Of course this object has been sought many times before. There have been highbrow essays, summer tours for rural school mar'ns and outward official handclaps for years and years. Sons and daughters of the idle rich have done their bit by playing international polo matches and racing their little yachts across the Atlantic for Tommy Lipton's solid silver growler.

And up to the time we came into the war the average Englishman and the average Yank understood each other like you understand a Chinese laundry ticket.

Back Up Slav States.

From the New Republic.

If then, as everyone must now agree, it is vital to the allied cause to wrest the Slavic nations of central Europe from German control and to keep them free from German influence after the war, it is obviously necessary to set up an adequate international defense for them. This means that the first step toward the definite breakup of Austria-Hungary must be the establishment of a league of nations.

It is not worth while to call Czecho-Slovakia and Jugo-Slavia into existence, to succumb shortly to German imperialistic enterprise. But no one would deny that it is worth while to call them into existence as free members of a great world league pledged to defend them against foreign aggression. The league is necessary to their existence. And the league in its turn would gain in its power of coercing the only nation likely in the next decades to seek to disturb the peace—Germany—if it commanded the resources of two vigorous Slavic states in the heart of Europe.

Were it announced to the world that the allied states had joined in a league of defense, to which all nations desirous of living in peace might become parties, and that the league recognized the independence of the two Slavic states of Austria-Hungary, the prospects of conclusive allied success would at once become brighter. Every Czecho-Slovak and Jugo-Slav in Austria's armies would know that in fighting on the side of the central powers he was helping to defeat, not a shadowy hope of a nominal independence, but a binding promise of real independence, supported by the whole resources of the league.

The hundreds of thousands of Czecho-Slovaks and Jugo-Slavs in America, now technically classified as enemy aliens and kept out of the war, would be given an opportunity to show in what esteem they held the independence of their native lands. The Austrian Slavs are among the world's most resolute fighting men, when they have a cause to fight for. We can give them a cause that would make fighting men even out of a race of cravens.

Security and Oil Stocks.
From Financial World.

Already many schemers are figuring how they may employ Liberty bonds and War Savings certificates as a vehicle to help them sell their securities. One striking example coming to your attention is an offer made by the fiscal agent of the Security Petroleum Company, of New York, Leonard A. Hughes, who, with the use of War Savings certificates contends he is offering investors an oil stock out of which all risk has been completely eliminated. He agrees for each $100 investor to lend to the company to secure each investor with $100 of War Savings certificates costing $83. In other words what Mr. Hughes really does is to sell an investor 199 shares of stock in the Security Petroleum Company for $17, the difference, and if the company fails to fulfill the confidence Mr. Hughes has in it, becoming a big profit earner, the investor eventually will lose this small sum. As the investor can buy War Savings certificates at the same price Mr. Hughes pays, there is no particular advantage in the purchase through him. But when Mr. Hughes contends that the risk is entirely eliminated from the purchase of stock in his oil company he is not exactly stating the fact, for $17 out of each $100 is and will be in jeopardy until the company becomes a dividend payer, for which we have as security only the hopes of the projectors of the enterprise.

Princeton Military School.
From the New York World.
Princeton university is to become a military school. A three-year course of training approved by the general staff of the army will be inaugurated, and every student will be under strict military discipline, eating and sleeping in barracks instead of the dormitories.

After the first year of training, which will be obligatory upon all freshmen, it will be optional with the men whether they desire to continue or to go into the four-year academic course.

The military training is so arranged that a freshman entering college at the normal age will have completed it and become eligible for his degree by the time he reaches draft age.

The war department sometime ago made it possible for any college having a reserve officers' training corps to adopt the system to go into effect at Princeton. Yale, Amherst and other institutions are understood to be considering its adoption.

"Them Damned Germans."
From the Kansas City Star.
At a railroad station in Kansas a young Mennonite got on the train. The tears were running down his cheeks as he sat down next to a traveler who inquired what the trouble was. The story came out slowly between sobs. Dad had 80 acres of fine wheat and nobody to get it in. Just at a time when the boy's services were most necessary "them damned Germans" were dragging him off to war. Give him a gun and let him get over to France and he'd pay "them damned Germans" for what they had done to dad's 80 acres.

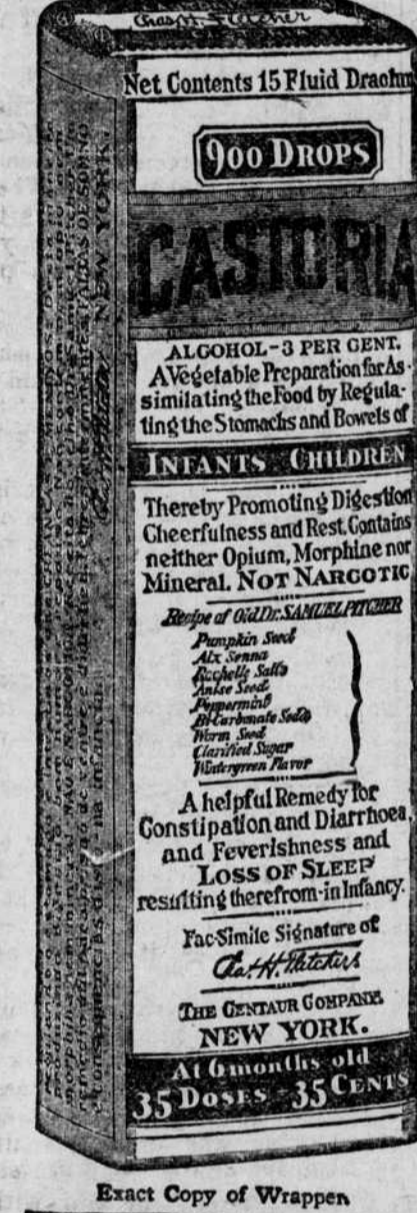

There was no blame for the government or the selective draft. Instinctively the young man had put the responsibility precisely where it belonged.

A Great Responsibility.

THE responsibility attached to the preparing of a remedy for infants and children is undoubtedly greater than that imposed upon the manufacturer of remedies for adults whose system is sufficiently strong to counteract, for a time at least, any injurious drug. It is well to observe that Castoria is prepared today, as it has been for the past 40 years, under the personal supervision of Mr. Chas. H. Fletcher.

What have makers of imitations and substitutes at stake? What are their responsibilities? To whom are they answerable? They spring up today, scatter their nefarious wares broadcast, and disappear tomorrow.

Could each mother see the painstaking care with which the prescription for Fletcher's Castoria is prepared: could they read the innumerable testimonials from grateful mothers, they would never listen to the subtle pleadings and false arguments of those who would offer an imitation of, or substitute for the tried and true Fletcher's Castoria.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Extracts from Letters by Grateful Parents to Chas. H. Fletcher.

G. J. English, of Springfield, Mass., says: "It was your Castoria that saved my child."
Mrs. Mary McGinnis, of St. Louis, Mo., says: "We have given our baby your Castoria ever since she was born, and we recommend it to all mothers."
N. E. Calmes, of Marion, Ky., says: "You have the best medicine in the world, as I have given your Castoria to my babies from first to last."
Mrs. Albert Ugusky, of Lawrenceburg, Ind., says: "As I have had your Castoria in use for nearly three years, I am pleased to say it is just as represented. My children are both well and happy—thanks to Castoria."
R. P. Stockton, of New Orleans, La., says: "We began giving your Castoria to our baby when he was eight days old and have kept it up ever since, never having had to give any other medicine."
Mrs. Dolph Hornbuckle, of Colorado Springs, Colo., says: "We commenced giving your Castoria to our baby when she was four weeks old. She is now seven months and weighs 19 1/2 pounds. Everyone remarks: 'What a healthy looking baby.' We give Castoria credit for it."

HIS TIME WELL TAKEN UP

If Soldier Had Kept Promises He Might Have Had Some Trouble With His Captain.

He was a strikingly handsome figure in his uniform as he started out upon his round of farewell calls.

"And you'll think of me every single minute when you're in those stogie old trenches?" questioned the sweet young thing upon whom he first called. He nodded emphatically. "Every minute."

"And you'll kiss my picture every night?"

"Twice a night," he vowed, rashly, patting the pretty head on his shoulder.

"And write me long, long letters?" she insisted.

"Every spare minute I have," he reassured her, and hurried away to the next name on his list.

There were ten in all who received his promises.

When it was over he sighed. "I hope," he murmured, wearily, "there won't be much fighting to do 'over there.' I'm going to be so tremendously busy."

Young European Capital.

Helsingfors, the capital of Finland, is among the youngest of the European capitals, for it is but little over a hundred years since Czar Alexander I, shortly after the annexation of the grand duchy by Russia, transferred the capital thither from Abo, which was, in his opinion, too near Sweden.

Can't Fool Chickens.

Jim Humbert, general manager of the Hutchinson street railway, one of the best known chicken fanciers in Kansas, says that the chickens are not fooled by the new daylight-saving law.

"No, sir," he remarked, "you cannot fool a chicken. I've tried it. When this new daylight law came along I wanted my chickens to act according to regulations, but they wouldn't budge. They simply refused to come off the perch until the regular sun time gave them the hour. You can fool a man on this daylight business, but you can't a chicken.—Hutchinson (Kan.) Dispatch.

RED CROSS SERVICE.

Red Cross Ball Blue gives to every housewife unequalled service. A large 5 cent package gives more real, genuine merit than any other blue. Red Cross Ball Blue makes clothes whiter than snow. You will be delighted. At all good grocers.—Adv.

Success or Failure.

As far as appearances go "I can" and "I can't" look very much alike. But the difference between them is all the difference between success and failure.

Doubtful.

"How's your war garden, old man?" "There's a cyrtworm drive on at present."—Boston Transcript.

Odds Against Bombs.

An ingenious person, says London Tit Bits, has calculated the chances of the average Londoner being hurt by enemy bombs. "Taking the area of London as 100 square miles," he says, "with a circle 60 yards in diameter as the area in which a bomb would cause serious inconvenience, and assuming the enemy succeeds in dropping 200 bombs in London every month all the year round; assuming also that there is an equal likelihood of a bomb dropping at any one point as at any other, the war will have to last 32 years for it to be likely that a bomb will drop within one's own circle."

Hot Weather Poisons Hit The Stomach First

How to Keep Your Stomach Strong, Cool and Sweet

Hot weather always starts those quick chemical changes which produce poisons in meats, fish, fruits, vegetables, milk and food products.

Such summer poisons in foods not only make well stomachs sick but develop with dangerous rapidity in sensitive, sick or ailing stomachs and bowels.

These poisons not only generate gases and fluids which cause that bloated, lumpy feeling, heartburn, sour stomach, bloating, acidity, but endless other stomach and bowel miseries.

A sure, safe, quick acting relief has been found which absorbs and neutralizes these poisons, too much acid and harmful gases. EATONIC Tablets, one or two taken after every meal, will keep your stomach sweet. You will have a good appetite to eat what you like, when you want it and be free from all those bad effects liable to come after a hearty meal in summer.

EATONIC Tablets are hot weather protectors for the stomach. They guard against the germs that lurk in the things you eat and drink. They rebuild listless appetites, promote digestion by aiding proper action of the stomach functions and insure speedy relief from indigestion and all stomach distress.

EATONIC is good to eat like candy. People from all over send grateful testimonials. Tens of thousands are obtaining relief with EATONIC every day but the best evidence is to let your own stomach tell you the truth. Go to your druggist and get a big box of EATONIC. Tell him you want it for the prevention and sure relief of stomach and bowel disorders produced by hot weather poisons.

Then if EATONIC fails to satisfy you—return it to your druggist, whom you know and can trust. He will cheerfully refund your money. If your druggist doesn't keep EATONIC—drop us a postal. It will be delivered to your address and you can then pay for it. Address, H. L. Kramer, Pres., 1015 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.
