To The Voters At Primary Election:

I beg to submit my name at the Primary election, to be held August 20th, as a candidate for the nomination on the Democratic ticket for Representative of the Fifty-Third District and if nominated and elected I pledge myself to support the platform as laid down by the Democratic County and State conventions otherwise pledge myself to support such laws, measures or constitutional amendments as shall be expressed by the majority of the voters at the election in November.

Respectfully,
CHARLES M. DALY.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

Being again permitted to file for the Democratic nomination for Representative of the Fifty-fourth District without opposition is a privilege I very much appreciate, and if again nominated and elected will show my appreciation of the seeming confidence in my earnest efforts to represent this district by working harder for the good of all and help to make Nebraska the best state of the Union in which to live.

I have two boys in the service, one in France, the other soon to go. The third son, who has helped me so faithfully on the farm, has waived his agricultural classification and will go soon too.

I will be strong for all means and measures that will give aid and comfort to our soldiers who are sacrificing so much to wipe out autocracy and to help establish a world-wide democracy.

Upon the farmers, next to the soldiers, depends the winning of this war and I shall continue to be strong for laws in our interest.

If my record in the past meets with your approval I shall appreciate your support.

Respectfully,
CRIST ANDERSON.

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED BY STATE REPUBLICANS

Resolutions standing squarely behind the men and women serving in France, and behind the nation and its officials in prosecution of the war were unanimously adopted by the greatest Republican state convention held in Nebraska since the enactment of the primary law, at Lincoln Tuesday. First opportunities for the men in the trenches, for homesteads on the public lands, was another pledge, and throughout the platform rings with patriotic fervor. Briefly summarized, the platform stands behind the government for prosecution of the war until an unconditional surrender of the enemy, declares for a non-partisan conduct of the war, condemns the making of loyalty a party issue, urges the elimination of all party issues not to the successful prosecution of the war; pledges the republican party to and its candidates to a program of preparation for solution of the tremendous problems which will present themselves after the war; denounces profiteering, pronounces unequivocally in favor of women suffrage and national prohibition; pledges the candidates to a program of economy and efficiency; favors the exclusive use of the English language in the schools; favors improvement of the present employers liability act; congratulates the farmers for their patriotic devotion and for increased production of foodstuffs; pledges the party to the development of the state's natural resources, and declares for an efficient audit of state expenditures.

The convention was presided over by R. W. Devoe of Lincoln and was addressed by National Committee Chairman Hays, who brought word of cheer and promises of Republican victories in many states.

STATE DEMOCRATIC TUMULTUOUS HARMONY GATHERING

It took the masterful generalship and iron will of an O'Neill citizen to keep the members of the democratic state convention at Hastings Tuesday from flying at the throats of each other, but Senator James A. Donohoe was equal to the occasion and the convention had harmony, even though it had to be fought for. The able manner in which the senator assumed control of the situation, as temporary chairman, made his selection as permanent chairman the unanimous desire and choice of the convention. It was the first big gathering of the democrats since the enactment of the primary law at which both the progressive and conservative factions were out in force and while neither questioned the loyalty and patriotism of the other each desired control this year. The platform, adopted after long hours of wrangling in committee, as usual points with pride and views with alarm and was unanimously adopted when presented to the convention by Dr. P. L. Hall of Lincoln. It contains the patriotic declarations of undivided support to the nation in the prosecution of the war which is the keynote of the platforms of all Americans regardless of party politics in these history making times; but, strange for a democratic platform, nowhere makes mention of the late lamented Thomas Jefferson, revered democratic saint. After many long paragraphs and sentences in eulogy of President Wilson and the present democrats in office it concludes by bunching the important issues of a constitutional convention, women suffrage and national prohibition in a few short lines as follows:

"We favor the proposed calling of a constitutional convention, equal political rights for women and legislative action consistent with the people's will on the proposed prohibitory amendment to the federal constitution."

The resolutions no where names or contain ringing endorsement of Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock, but damn him with faint praise by referring to the acts of "a democratic senator from Nebraska," as compared with "a republican senator from Nebraska." The prohibition plank is pleasing to both wet and dry demo-

Holt County Fair Dates

September 18, 19 and 20th, 1918

The association now owns a large amount of valuable property. Holt County Fair is rated among the big successful County Fairs of the State. Only a few of the fairs are in as good financial condition as Holt County Fair.

The Government is urging the people to attend, and exhibit the products of the country at these agricultural fairs in the interest of greater production. The management takes this opportunity to urge every one at this early date to begin to prepare some thing to exhibit at the Fair. Don't forget that the exhibits is the BIG idea of this Fair. This is where you get the information that makes the fair profitable to you.

The management is providing double the amount of free attraction ever shown at any previous Holt county fair.

All these attractions will be seen at the different state fairs this fall. They are furnished by the best amusement companies in the country. There will be something doing all the time day and night to amuse and entertain the crowds.

Red Cross Notes.

The Refugee dresses in this shipment were made by the Junior Red Cross at St. Mary's Academy, and the Junior Red Cross classes at O'Neill Public School.

Mrs. B. A. Powell, of Mineola, recently donated one dozen handkerchiefs and ten wash cloths.

Mrs. Mary Madison donated a very nice comforter.

Mrs. Pettibone conducts the Wednesday afternoon class. They are making layettes, and she would like a larger attendance.

No comfort pillows and no fracture pillows are to be made at the present time.

Nightingales are not desirable for either American or French Hospitals. On account of lack of shipping space, no quilts are to be made.

Headquarters asks that the making of the above garments be discontinued until a call is sent for them.

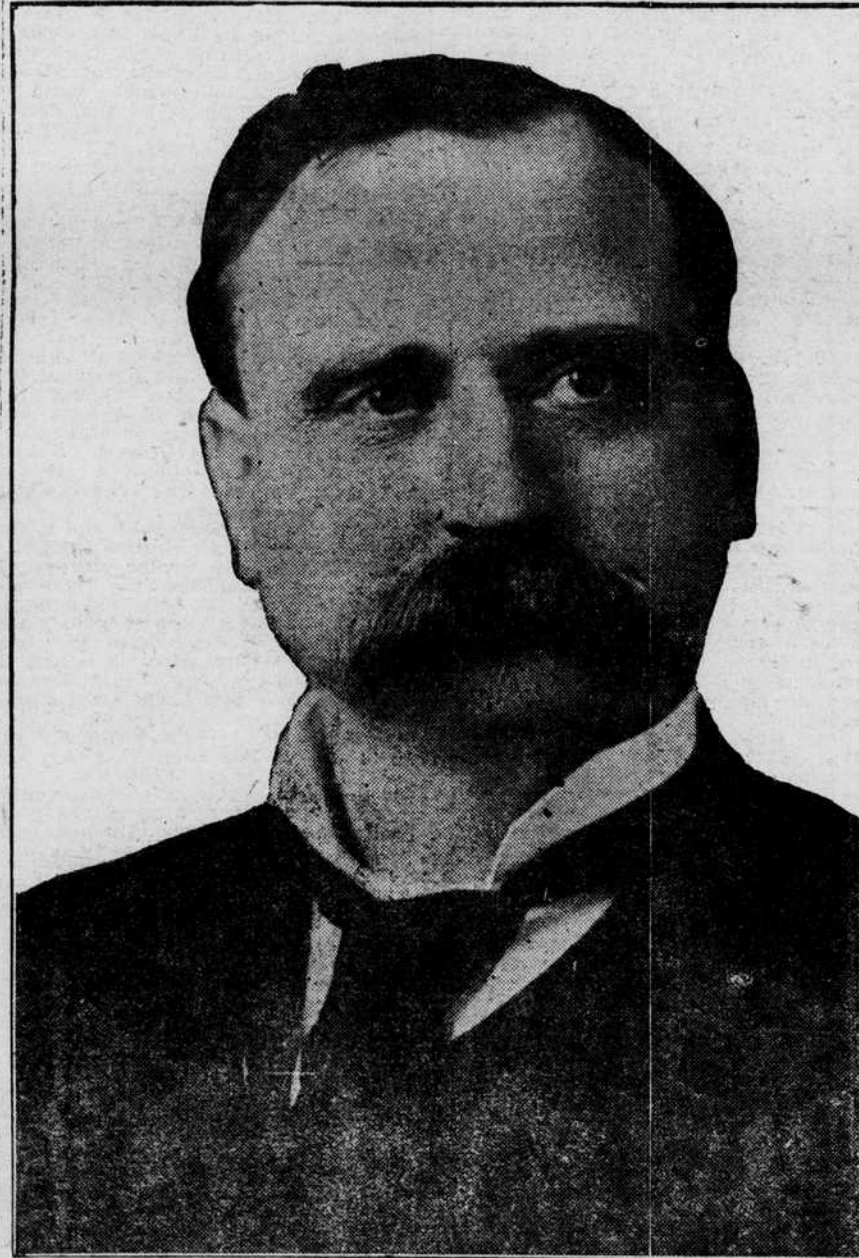

Card of Thanks.

We desire to express our heartfelt thanks to the many friends who so kindly assisted us during the sickness, death and burial of our beloved wife and mother.

Candidate for Republican Nomination

For United States Senator Charles H. Sloan

Was four times elected Congressman in Fourth District with increased majority each succeeding election. In 1916 ran nearly ten thousand ahead of his ticket.

Only Republican Congressman from Nebraska in its fifty-one years of history, who attained membership on Ways and Means Committee, the most important Committee of the House of Representatives, and the one having jurisdiction to prepare and present tariff, revenue and bond bills.

Is a graduate of an Agriculture College, resides on and conducts a large farm. Has made a thorough study of the agricultural interests of Nebraska and the Northwest. Is recognized on the floor of the House as an authority on agricultural subjects.

Has conducted a persistent fight against the discrimination in democratic tariff and other legislation in favor of southern agricultural products, and against those of the north. Has opposed price fixing and market control legislation for northern products while in no wise interfering with those of the south.

Framed and forced through Congress measure for the control and the eradication of hog cholera. Under the working of this legislation the department of agriculture estimates hog production increased twenty per cent and a decrease of loss of nearly fifty per cent. This was pronounced by an eminent authority as one of the best measures of food preparedness Congress enacted prior to the War.

Presented a bill and furnished argument before Committee and the House for a similar measure for the eradication of tuberculosis in live stock which passed the recent Congress.

Has always advocated and voted for a large Navy and an adequate Army. Has supported every completed War measure for the successful prosecution of the War.

Is active in both Committee and the House and is recognized as one of the ablest debaters in Congress.

Van Brunt One Horse Drills

This drill was constructed especially for use in seeding between corn rows or in limited space. It has all the good features of the regular large size Van Brunt Drills and does the same high grade work. It is not made small in order to give a cheap price drill, as it is not a cheaply constructed affair, but is just as durable as any. If you have only a small piece of ground you will want to be sure that every bit of it is seeded. The Van Brunt One-Horse Drill insures this. It plants all kinds of seed accurately.

Special Features.

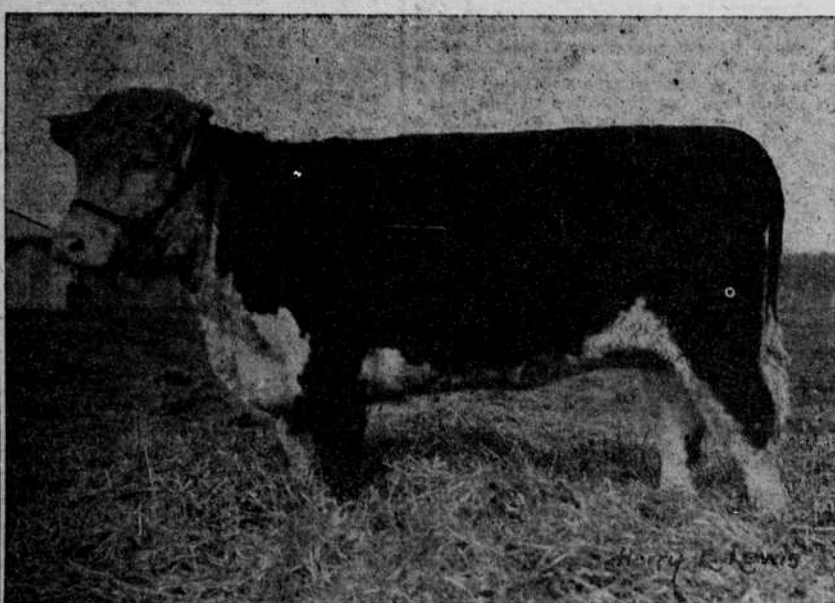

The Van Brunt One-Horse Drill does perfect work because it has the necessary parts to do it. It has the famous Van Brunt adjustable gate force feed which compels an even flow of seed from hopper; furrow openers that always give a furrow of even depth in any soil that can be seeded; closed delivery which always protects seeds until they reach bottom of furrow so that seed is planted at even depth and therefore grain is all up and ready for harvest at the same time.

What It Will Do.

1. Give an even flow of seed from hopper all the time.
2. Make a furrow of uniform depth in any soil that can be seeded.
3. Plant the seed at the bottom of this furrow.
4. Plant in rows 6, 7, or 8 inches apart.
5. Plant all the ground. When discs come in contact with corn hills they spring in, dodge them and return to their places.
