"Most of Them Go to Church."

It is safe to say that most of the 883 business men in the city of Lincoln, Neb., who signed agreement to observe the War Angelus in their places of business go to church. Their action in agreement indicates sentiment that comes from the Go-to-Church habit, and that richly benefits every man in whom such sentiment exists.

In the Sunday State Journal of July 14 was the following relative to the War Angelus and the practically unanimous agreement of Lincoln business men to observe it in their places of business.

"What has become of the old-fashioned man who was pleased to announce himself as an 'infidel?' Where is the chap who liked to refer to himself as an 'atheist?' The committee from the Rotary club has been going over the city for signatures to pledges to observe one minute of silent prayer every day for the success of the American soldiers across the seas. Almost one thousand signatures to the pledge have already been received, and out of all the people visited only two refused to sign. One man said that he would do anything he could to help win the war, but that he would be a hypocrite if he signed this agreement. Another said he didn't believe in prayer, and asked to be excused on that ground. No mean talk. No blowing about independence of thought and all that sort of thing. Just an apologetic, good-natured, half-diffident refusal to conform. A refusal that may be withdrawn after the new custom has been in trial for a few days.

"The War Angelus will be officially begun this week, but a number of stores have already put it in operation. At first the clerks were diffident, but they found the people so responsive that they found it easier than they expected. Just at 11:00 o'clock a whistle blows or a gong sounds. Everybody stops in his tracks. If the customer looks puzzled, the clerk says, 'That is the War Angelus. We give one minute of silent prayer for the success of the American army.' Everybody stands immovable, usually with bowed head, for one minute. At the end of sixty seconds the signal is repeated and business moves on as before."

"Over there," in France, a bell called the Angelus has called to daily devotion since A. D. 1326. The familiar picture by Millet of "The Angelus" has cast its charm over the entire world, calling many a person to a moment's silent meditation and perchance a wish that he, too, might feel that close touch with his Creator that the picture indicates.

The War Angelus was originated at the recent international conference of Rotary clubs in Kansas City. Rotary is a business and professional men's organization having branches in every city of size in the land.
