

Ice Boxes on Wheels

Refrigerator cars for carrying meat are ice boxes traveling on wheels.

Most people in America would have to go without fresh meat, or would have to pay more for what they could get, if it were not for these traveling ice boxes.

Gustavus F. Swift, the first Swift in the packing industry, saw the need of these traveling ice boxes before others.

He asked the railroads to build them. The railroads refused. They were equipped, and preferred to haul cattle rather than dressed beef.

So Gustavus F. Swift had to make the cars himself. The first one was a box car rigged up to hold ice. Now there are 7,000 Swift refrigerator cars. Each one is as fine an ice box as you have in your home.

Day and night, fair weather and foul, through heat and cold, these 7,000 cars go rolling up and down the country, keeping meat just right, on its way to you.

Thus another phase of Swift & Company's activities has grown to meet a need no one else could or would supply, in way that matched Swift & Company ideas of being useful.

When you see one of these Swift & Company cars in a train, or on a siding, you will be reminded of what is being done for you as the fruit of experience and a desire to serve.

Indigestion, Bloat, Heartburn, Caused by Acid-Stomach

What is the cause of indigestion, dyspepsia, flatulence, food-repeating, belching, gassy, sour stomach, and so many stomach troubles? Just this—acid-stomach—superacidity as the doctors call it. It robs millions of their full strength, vitality and the power to enjoy life—to be real men and women.

It is well known that an acid mouth destroys the teeth. The acid is so powerful that it eats right through the hard enamel and causes the teeth to decay. This is false warning of what excess acidity will do to the delicate organization of the stomach; as a matter of fact, excess acidity not only produces a great many painful and disagreeable symptoms that are generally name "Stomach troubles," but it is the creator of a long train of very serious ailments. Acid stomach interferes with the digestion and causes the food to ferment. This mass of sour, fermented food passes into the intestines, where it becomes the breeding place for germs and toxic poisons, which in turn are absorbed into the blood and distributed throughout the entire body.

Wherever you go you see victims of acid-stomach—people who, while not actually down sick are always ailing—have no appetite, food doesn't digest, belching all the time, continually complaining of being weak and tired and worn out. It is this excess acidity that takes the pep and punch out of them, leaves little or no vitality.

Strike at the very cause of all this trouble and clean this excess acid out of the stomach. This will give the stomach a chance to digest the food properly; nature will do the rest.

Try EATONIC and see how quickly excess acid without the slightest discomfort. It is called EATONIC, made in the form of tablets—they are good to eat—just like a bit of candy. EATONIC readily absorbs the injurious excess acid and carries it away through the intestines. ## SAFE HARVESTING

Save Plenty of Seed Corn
Experience of 1917 Should be a Lesson to All
By P. G. HOLDEN

HARVEST your seed corn before it freezes. Hang it in the attic or upstairs room where there is a free circulation of air. Profit by the lesson of 1917 and save enough seed corn each year to protect yourself if the next season's crop fails to mature. Don't get caught again without seed corn. Always save enough seed to last two years. Remember, the next corn crop may be a total or partial failure and you may not be able to save any good seed from it. It always pays to have good seed corn to sell to your neighbors.

Corn Ready to Hang up. String Contains From Twelve to Fifteen Ears Each.

If your surplus is not needed for seed it is not wasted. It always has a market value or may be fed to stock. If it is needed as seed it will be worth many times its market value as grain. To save plenty of good seed corn is always good business. It is patriotic. It is our duty to ourselves, our community and our country. Crop reports indicate that, if conditions between now and harvest time are favorable, this year's corn crop will be about normal. But, because of the serious seed corn situation last Spring, there is danger that some of the corn may have been grown from imported seed and either will not mature before frost or will produce a yield inferior in both quantity and quality. Because of killing frosts in October, the seed corn situation last Spring was so serious as to cause nationwide alarm. The U. S. Department of Agriculture, state officials, agricultural colleges, county agents, newspapers, bankers, business men and farmers were aroused. Campaigns were conducted to test seed corn and locate every good ear of home grown seed. The result has been gratifying, but the expense must have reached into the millions of dollars. In some localities it was necessary to import seed because the 1917 crop did not mature and not sufficient seed corn of the 1916 crop has been saved. This experience should prove a lesson to us. Never again should we be caught without plenty of seed corn. In every normal year we should save plenty of seed. We should always save enough for our own use for two years and enough in addition to supply some neighbor who may not have any. We should always bear in mind that the next corn crop may be a total or partial failure. Every ear of seed corn should be harvested before the severe fall freezes and stored where it will dry out and keep dry. The best method is to tie it up with binding twine as shown in the cut. Hang the strings in the attic in rows about four inches apart.

The Russian Iscariots.

From the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The American secret service has scored another success which will tell tremendously on the progress of the war and must leave its mark on the course of history. It has penetrated the mysterious, sometimes maddening and always baffling fog which has shrouded the ever shifting Russian situation since the days of Lvoff and Milikoff, and has at last laid firm fingers on the strings which have moved the preposterous and incredible puppets in this tragic farce. It is an achievement in international detective work which has seldom been equaled for skill and dramatic effect, and has never been equaled for its far reaching consequences, its long armed blows at high placed criminals and the story of unparalleled audacity and shameless, heartless, pitiless treachery which it uncovers.

The very audacity of the Berlin-Leningrad-Trotzky plot was what paralyzed for so long general credence in the proofs of exposure that were offered. We all knew that Germany would bribe, that human beings were frail, that wolves would wear sheep's clothing and that the devil would quote for his profit the scriptures of an idealistic creed. But it staggered the imagination of thinking men everywhere that even the German high command would dream for a moment that they could "put over" so impossible a conspiracy. But they did it. They fooled all the people part of the time. They found tools of unbelievable baseness, treachery and inhuman cruelty in Leningrad, Trotzky and his associates. And now the American secret service has caught the lot of them, branded proofs of their perfidy on the not too thin skins of the bolshevist leaders, and saved humanity just in the nick of time from trusting itself to the quicksands of bolshevist "honor."

The documents given out by the committee on public information leave not an atom of room for doubt. Leningrad and Trotzky sold the blind, helpless and trusting Russian people for so much cash in hand. They betrayed more than a nation—the betrayed a great cause and a deathless ideal. They not only invited the trust of a people and then brutally betrayed it, but they invited the easily won trust of a childlike and confiding people—they took its innocent hands with a promise to lead it into the fair land of liberty—and then they sold it back into a more degrading bondage than it had known so bitterly and hopelessly before.

It was the most odious treason since Judas Iscariot.

We in this country have long execrated the name of Benedict Arnold. But Benedict Arnold tried to sell an intelligent, wide awake people—a people fairly able to take care of itself—a people which had known liberty for years and was not at all likely to lose it for long. Leningrad and Trotzky found an abject and long oppressed people—a people who hardly knew what liberty might be—a people whose champions had been systematically jailed, tortured, shot or exiled—a people who had at last their one totally unexpected and irrecoverable chance for freedom. And these two conscienceless and covetous scoundrels deliberately led this blind people into a trap which would mean centuries of worse than Siberian oppression for 180,000,000 living, hoping, suffering human beings who might have been free.

ITALIAN TREASURY GETTING MORE MONEY

Rome (by mail)—The Stefani Agency has issued a statement of the minister of finance with the figures of the total revenues during the fiscal year closed on June 30, 1918.

The statement shows that from July 1, 1917 to June 30, 1918, the Italian treasury received 4,361,910,000 liras, against 3,476,552,000 during the year 1916, or 1,885,358,000 more than in 1916, and $5,000,000 more than in 1917. The budget estimates made last year are expressed by 340,000,000.

Comparing the figures with 1914-1915, which was the year of neutrality, the total income shows an increase of 2,800,000,000.

The special tax on the business gave to the state 562,500,000 liras, or 117,500,000 more than last year.

All the income from recorder fees, from mortgages and from government concessions shows a big increase, while the income from automobile, autobomb and motorcycle fees was less than the last fiscal year.

All the special taxes on moving pictures, jewels, perfumes and restaurants failed to give a big income owing to the fact that these taxes are only ordered. However, here are the amounts:

The moving pictures paid 7,569,000 liras; jewelry, 4,207,000 liras; perfumes, 17,696,000 liras, and the restaurants, 2,236,000 liras.

The consumers' taxes raised 955,000,000, or 314,000,000 more than last year.

The state monopoly paid an income of 1,076,000,000 liras, or 330,000,000 more than last year. Salt paid 64,000,000; matches, 20,000,000, and the state lottery 56,000,000.

General taxes raised 1,864,000,000, or 437,000,000 more than last year. Income taxes paid 432,000,000 and exemption from military service gave 8,000,000.

The public service shows an income of 282,000,000.

The general income should be increased by 27,000,000 received from the sale of sugar. This amount is not included in the general income.

ITALIAN FLYERS WIN FIRST NIGHT COMBAT

War Zone, Italy (by mail)—In the days of comradeship with Francesco Baracca, that great aviator, talked of nothing with fonder hope than the realization of his dream to see a night pursuit of airships. His perfect technical knowledge of flying led him to expect undreamed of results.

For a time Baracca made preparations for the first essay, but his untimely death left the attempt for others. Thus, our flyers went up to fight enemy airplanes in the clear sky and beneath a brilliant full moon.

A squadron of enemy planes of the Brandenburg type succeeded in crossing our front and, flying at a high level over our lines of communication, began to drop bombs. The night was clear, sharp, shining and the air still, making the enemy's aim easy.

From several fields our flyers rose in their chasing planes and, getting the range, attacked the enemy. Several planes of the squadron escaped by rapid flight. Two, nevertheless, failed to get away, and they were attacked by one of our aviators who overtook them. He turned his machine gun on them and brought them down. One of them fell at Saint Helena, southeast of Treviso, and the other at Caposile.

The two aviators in the first plane were wounded and captured. Those in the second, which fell in flames in the Sile river, were fished up dead.

The same night, from 11 o'clock till 2:30, an enemy bombing plane which had reached the sky above Treviso passed through the glare from our searchlights and was struck squarely by our guns. It fell damaged in an open field. The aviators were uninjured and were taken prisoners.

Hospital Nurses.

An orderly was on duty in an operating room for the first time and was to witness an amputation. He wondered whether he would get nervous. He also noticed a bright-eyed, rosy-cheeked nurse, and he wondered if she, too, would blanch under the ordeal. Following the operation, he admitted to the nurse that it had been his first operation. She congratulated him on having borne up so well.

"What did you feel like during your first operation?" he asked the nurse.

"This morning was my first operation," she said. "But I didn't know that men could stand those things as well as women."

Shades of Scotland's Pride.

Francis Disney of Albany, secretary of the upstate public service commission, was a guest at a dinner at which poetry and Burns were discussed.

"Well," said Mr. Disney, turning to an absent-minded physician who was at the table, "what is your opinion of Burns, doctor?"

"What's that? Burns?" asked the doctor. "Of course I couldn't say off-hand, but as a rule the hospital is the proper place for anyone suffering from burns."—New York Mail.
