Didn't Count.

Some doughboys were sitting around the camp fire swapping experiences. Each in turn recounted some hair-raising accident in which he had figured. Finally it came the turn of a chap who had traveled all over the world. They waited breathlessly for his yarn, but he declared he had nothing to tell.
"Haven't you ever had an accident?" they chorused in amazement.
"Accident? No."
"Never had anything happen to you?"
"Oh, a rattler bit me once."
"Don't you call that an accident?"
"Hell, no, The thing bit me on purpose."—Los Angeles Times.

Nothing To Worry About.

Uncle Ben was a bachelor, but was full of enthusiasm for his married friends, and when his brother-in-law invited him to come and spend a few days and see his son and heir, he gladly accepted.
It was an education to watch the old gentleman's efforts to amuse the 6-months-old child. Just for fun he would snatch its bottle away at feeding time and wonder why the youngster yelled.
Then he would tickle it almost into convulsions. Finally he gave it his watch to play with. Then peace reigned. And thus the mother found baby and bachelor.

"Good gracious!" she exclaimed, excitedly. "Look! Baby's got the watch in his mouth. He'll swallow it. Take it out or he'll choke!"
"Don't be alarmed," replied Uncle Ben, smiling placidly: "I've got hold of the chain. It can't go far!"—London Answers.

Old, Indeed.

"So, Mary's married," said the first caller, lowering her voice so that her hostess shouldn't hear the remarks about her daughter.
"Yes," said the second caller; "and married to an old man, too."
"I should think he is old," said the first.
"Why he's twice her real age, and three times the age she says she is."
