Tennessee Farm for Sale by Owner

This farm contains 300 acres of fertile land which lies well. It is especially adapted to growing tobacco, of which it will produce during a normal season 200 worth per acre. Other crops grown are corn and hay. On account of the long growing season, and the fact that most of the land is now in grass, it is also well adapted to the raising of live stock. It is well improved with brick residence situated in a beautiful yard of maple trees, running water in the house, concrete also 2 large stock barns, 2 tobacco barns and 8 stables, houses, fenced and cross fenced with woven wire. It is located on a good macadam road and has a never-failing water supply consisting of a spring and creek. The climate is mild and healthful, and the farm is within 40 minutes by automobile of the best schools and colleges in the South.

If you want an ideal home, write Box 272, Clarksville, Tenn., for full particulars.

REPORT SHORTAGE OF SALMON GOT SPIRIT OF THE THING

Catch in Alaskan Waters This Season Is Said to Be Disappointing—Canneries Closed Down.

Reports from Alaska are to the effect that the salmon catch is disappointing. Even these places on the Alaskan coast which have been most successful, comparatively speaking, have secured less than the usual pack, while some of the largest canneries have practically nothing to show as a result of the season's operations so far. While the season has not yet closed, several of the principal Alaskan canneries have ceased operations. One large canning concern with a capacity of 125,000 cases secured 3,800 and was then obliged to close down for lack of fish.

The Rivers Inlet and Frazier River packs are also said to be exceedingly light this year.

Naturally, this means that the canned salmon supply will be the smallest for many years.

After Watching Men Give Up Their Seats in Car, He Offers His Place.

The Broad Ripple car was crowded, as usual. As women boarded the car the polite and gallant men got up and permitted them to have seats. A man, his wife and little son, about five years old, got on the car. The attractive looking mother was given a seat and she took her son on her lap.

As the car went along, the boy conversed in a loud tone. He spoke of the condition of the road bed, of the length of his trousers, of how long it would be until they got there, and so on.

Finally so many men had given up their places that several of them were standing in the car aisle. The little boy seemed to think it was wrong for him to have a comfortable on his mother's lap while so many men were standing. Finally he sung out in a voice that could be heard throughout the car:

"Somebody can have my seat," he shouted.—Indianapolis News.

WHAT HAS RAISED WAGES.

From a National City Bank Bulletin.

It is a great mistake to claim that the general advance in the position of labor in the last 50 or more years has been due to the labor organizations. The general level of "real wages," by which is meant the purchasing power of wages, is only slightly affected by the organizations. A single trade by being highly organized may push its wages above the common level, at the expense of the other members of the community, who for the most part are also working people. But if all wages are pushed up, without an increase of production, the cost of living for everybody will rise correspondingly. The great factor in the rise of wages has been the improvements in industrial methods, in organization, equipment, and means of transportation which have increased production. These and not the power of labor organizations have accomplished the difference between wages in China and in the United States, and unfortunately, the labor organization more often than otherwise have opposed the introduction of labor saving improvements.

Then Hubby Had a Chill.

From the Boston Transcript.

An English physician telegraphed to the husband of a patient who had sustained a chill, and this is the form in which the message reached him: "No danger. Your wife has had a chill. If we can keep her from having another tonight she will do well."

Salesmanship.

From the Boston Transcript.

"Here's a splendid work, sir, entitled 'Hints on Home Building.'"

"I've no use for it."

"But, sir, it shows how to build a beautiful villa, a regular little palace, for $5,000."

"I haven't the $5,000. I haven't over $5 to my name."

"Well, the book is only $1."

But We Ask In Vain.

From the Eldorado Republican.

Many were the traits of kindness, generosity and sympathy that one once demanded in the definition of good neighbor. Now all one asks of a neighbor is that he does not play his phonograph after 11 at night, does not start his Ford before 7 in the morning, and attends to his own business.

A Schemer.

From the Louisville Courier-Journal.

"I must tell you, Edgar, that I cannot cook."

"But those excellent meals I have had at your house?"

"Were all prepared by our cook."

"Do you think we can get her away from your folks when we are wed?"

A Household Hint.

From the Dallas News.

Personally we don't set much store by false pride, but we hope nobody will find out we shall have to wear our Palm Beach suit for pajamas this winter.

Mrs. Jones Comes Back.

From the Louisville Courier-Journal.

Mayor Rolph, of San Francisco, was laughingly chiding a visitor who constantly referred to "Frisco, a habit which the people of "the city" never take kindly to.

"But I hope," continued the mayor, "that I am not going to place myself in the position of Jones. He had just returned from work when his wife grappled him, crying:

"Oh, John, Mrs. Smith's baby has brownchitis!"

"Not brownchitis," said Mr. Jones with a snort. "It's bronchitis."

"Shortly afterward Mrs. Jones emerged from the kitchen and said, 'Well, since you're so smart, maybe you can tell me whether a tomato is a fruit or a vegetable.'"

"Certainly I can," retorted her lord and master promptly. "The dictionary says a tomato is a fruit. Why do you ask?"

"I just wanted to be correct when I tell you, you're going to have canned fruit for supper."

Kaiser Fights Wrinkles.

The former kaiser's hair and beard are now snow white, but he has a barber come daily to massage the wrinkles in his face.

Suitor Everybody.

From the Manchester Guardian.

Another piece of Mr. Clemenceau's wit is delighting the town. At a meeting of the interallied committee there was a question what time they would resume in the afternoon. Signor Tittoni did not want it too early, because he liked to have his siesta early in the afternoon. Mr. Lansing did not want it too late, for he wanted to have his drive in the Bois and then his siesta before dinner. Mr. Clemenceau then summed up. "The meeting will be at 3," he said. "Signor Tittoni can sleep before it, Mr. Lansing can sleep after it, and Mr. Balfour and I can sleep during it."

Encore.

From the Boston Transcript.

The Lure.

From Judge.

Lots—I thought you had become rather tired of dancing.

Dorothy—I had. But I've been reading what the clergyman has been saying against it, and I had no idea how delightfully wicked it is.

Postlude—Largo.

From London Tit-Bits.

Mrs. Brown was at the back of the church waiting to have her baby christened. Baby was getting restless, so she beckoned the verger.

"Is the sermon nearly finished?" she asked.

"No, mum," replied the verger, "another half hour of it yet. He's only on his 'lastly.'"

"But," said Mrs. Brown, "will it take him half an hour to get through his 'lastly'?"

"No, mum," was the demure reply, "but there's the 'one word more and I'm done,' and the 'in conclusion' to come yet. Don't be impatient."

By Way of Record.

From the Milwaukee Journal.

Chiefly interesting as a commentary on the growth of world statesmanship is Lord Rothermere's suggestion that in partial payment of Great Britain's debt to the United States the Bahamas, the Bermudas and some of the West Indian islands be transferred to this country. Time was when the giving up of any part of the British empire would have seemed profanation to an English statesman. And in the background of his objections would have lurked the fear that thus a possible future foe might become stronger.

Honest Advertising.

THIS is a topic we all hear now-a-days because so many people are inclined to exaggerate. Yet has any physician told you that we claimed unreasonable remedial properties for Fletcher's Castoria? Just ask them. We won't answer it ourselves, we know what the answer will be.

That it has all the virtues to-day that was claimed for it in its early days is to be found in its increased use, the recommendation by prominent physicians, and our assurance that its standard will be maintained.

Imitations are to be found in some stores and only because of the Castoria that Mr. Fletcher created. But it is not the genuine Castoria that Mr. Fletcher honestly advertised, honestly placed before the public and from which he honestly expects to receive his reward.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Special Care of Baby.

That Baby should have a bed of its own all are agreed. Yet it is more reasonable for an infant to sleep with grown-ups than to use a man's medicine in an attempt to regulate the delicate organism of that same infant. Either practice is to be shunned. Neither would be tolerated by specialists in children's diseases.

Your Physician will tell you that Baby's medicine must be prepared with even greater care than Baby's food.

A Baby's stomach when in good health is too often disarranged by improper food. Could you for a moment, then, think of giving to your ailing child anything but a medicine especially prepared for Infants and Children? Don't be deceived.

Make a mental note of this:—It is important, Mothers, that you should remember that to function well, the digestive organs of your Baby must receive special care. No Baby is so abnormal that the desired results may be had from the use of medicines primarily prepared for grown-ups.
