

LOCAL MATTERS.

J. B. Stevens, residing northeast of Eage, died Tuesday morning after an extended illness. The funeral will be Thursday afternoon.

The redistricting and consolidation of rural schools continues to be the principal business at the court house and the main topic of interest to rural residents. The proposed new districts will be approximately twenty-five square miles. Pupils will be transported to and from the schools at the expense of the districts.

Lieutenant Maynard, leader in the transcontinental aeroplane race, broke a crankshaft on his motor while near Wahoo, on his return trip eastward, Thursday noon. He has wired Washington for permission to install in his machine the motor of another wrecked plane. If permission is extended he still has sufficient time to make the change and beat the other contestants, provided no further accidents occur.

President Wilson is reported as on the road to recovery, but the true nature of his illness has not been divulged as yet by the attending physicians, who content themselves with non-enlightening bulletins issued daily. The statement of Senator Moses that the president is suffering from a lesion of the brain has not been contradicted. All agree that it will be a month or longer before the president may resume active duty. In the meantime cabinet officers are conducting the affairs of their departments as though they were the executive head of his own department.

Judge Dwyer Resigns.

The following article was taken from the Anaconda (Mont.) Standard of October 7th, and refers to a former O'Neill man, a brother of Mrs. C. E. Stout, of this city, and who for many years resided here:

"John V. Dwyer has resigned his position as one of the judges of the district court of Silver Bow county, to which he was elected in 1916, and in which he has seen nearly three years' service.

"Judge R. Jackson has resigned as county attorney of Silver Bow county, after a service of nearly three years, and he has been selected by Governor Stewart to succeed Judge Dwyer on the district court bench.

"The changes are effective immediately following the official action of the governor.

"Judge Dwyer has wanted to quit the bench for some time and take up again the active practice of the law.

He has, however, held off his resignation at the request of friends until the present time. When he began his term on the bench in January of 1917, he took charge of the criminal and probate division of the court. In that department he sat nearly two years, and made a record for fairness and hard work of which any one might feel proud. When it was decided last year to pass the criminal business around among the three judges in equal lengths of service for the 48 months' terms, Judge Dwyer took charge of his share of the civil business, the criminal and probate matters going to Judge Lynch.

"Before going to the district bench, Judge Dwyer had served a term as chief deputy county attorney, resigning toward the end of his time to represent Silver Bow county in the lower house of the legislature. Later he served as city attorney of Butte. He was elected judge while still city attorney, and quit before the end of his term to go on the bench. In every public capacity in which he has served he has made a splendid showing, and leaves the bench with the consciousness of duty well performed, and the good will of the attorneys with whom he had been thrown in contact."

Ladies—

Don't you think it about time you were getting those plush and velour coats steamed and cleaned. Our ad in last week's paper brought us most of the plush and velour coats in town, but we still think there are a few left. Why not let us call and get yours?

We will always call.
