

WE WON'T WEAR OVERALLS!

We will not sift the ashes. We will not save the wrappers. We will not wear our old clothes. We will not go to bed at dark. We will not go to bed at 9. We will not resole our shoes. We will not do nothing. We are going to have a good time 'till we die. Then we will take the consequences.

35c New Post Toasties	23c	Here's a Good One.		We still have good 5c cigars, but they are going fast. This is the only store in O'Neill offering you a good 5c cigar. No we don't make anything, but what do you care. There are lots of thing we do and never make anything.		A man out in the wind wants good matches. Nothing disappoints a man more than when he is sitting on the bank of a river fishing with a pocket full of cigars and a handful of matches that wont lite. The only difference is 3c per box. We have both 5c and 8c matches.

The foreign countries have been "doing without" like the city newspapers say we can do. That's the reason they are willing to pay prices that we will not, but our turn comes after them. When we have done without long enough and the people have to start buying again, which won't be long, then you are going to see prices that will make your head swim.		5 Bars Beat Em All Soap	29c	The newspapers in the big cities print what their readers like to read. That is the reason they print faked up stories about all the sugar there is, all the potatoes there is and that the prices will soon come down. It is a fine thing to read if it was true, but by this time most of the people are opening their eyes and they are finding out that instead of down it is up, and higher and higher. Don't be caught napping, load up and keep loaded and the high cost of living won't bother you.		2½ Oz. Bags Union Leader Tobacco		10c son of Mr. and Mrs. John Reimers, living one mile west of town, was accidentally shot in the right arm by his four year old brother while they were hunting near the house one day last week.

INMAN BOY SHOT BY BROTHER

 The two boys were after a rabbit under a wood pile near their chicken house. Rinehold put his gun down to move some boards and in reaching out after them, the little brother in some way discharged the gun, the bullet tearing a hole in the flesh of the elder brother's arm. It is believed the arm will have to be amputated.
IN DEFENSE OF BARNEY HYNES
 Last week's parrot conveyed the startling intelligence that "Barney Hynes was on our streets Wednesday." Mr. Hynes has been a resident of O'Neill for nearly three months and consequently has to use the streets occasionally. He has as much right to be upon the streets, either for business or pleasure, as any other citizen. It is one of the rights accorded him by the constitution. There is no law in the land requiring Mr. Hynes to use only the alleys when he comes down town. He may even use the streets in front of the parrot roost if he so desires, without violating any law, but if the parrot objects and comments every time Mr. Hynes uses the streets Mr. Hynes is entirely welcome to use the streets down in our part of town and nothing will be said about it.

SCOTT TOWNSHIP TO BUILD MODERN HIGHWAY.
 Scott township this summer will construct five miles of the most modern and up-to-date highway in Holt county. The highway will begin at the section line north of Opportunity and will extend on due north five miles to the Scottville church. The contract for the highway was awarded to Tom Murphy at a meeting of the township board Monday afternoon, which is a sufficient guarantee that it will be properly constructed. Mr. Murphy will begin work on the road sometime next week. The highway will be forty-eight feet wide from ditch line to ditch line and the grade top width will be twenty-four feet for the entire distance. Every bridge and culvert on the new road will be twenty-four feet wide, eliminating the possibility of accidents from running off the grade at culvert and ditch sites after night. The new highway is the first portion of a program of road building contemplated by the township for the next few years. Next year the road will be extended one mile north of the Scottville church and then east to the west line of Steel Creek township, from which place later on it will be extended to the Red-bird bridge. The Willowdale township board has promised to connect the new grade up with the graded highway extending four miles south from Opportunity by building north from Opportunity to the southern terminus of the Scott township road. Grattan township also is extending its graded roads to connect up with the Opportunity road and a section of roadway three miles long is all that remains to be graded to connect the road systems of Willowdale, Iowa and Grattan with the Scott road. Iowa township has been requested to assist in improving this three mile link. When the new road is completed northeast Holt county will have a highway to O'Neill and also to Lynch unequalled by any other highway in Nebraska and a road that will be open and suitable for the most heavy hauling and for auto traffic at all times of the year.

HOGS ARE DRIVEN TO MARKET
 Farmers and stockmen of northeastern Holt county are driving their hogs to the O'Neill market to save the high cost of transportation, and also to do away with a considerable percentage of the shrink that usually results from hauling. Joseph Schollmeyer of Scott township Saturday and Sunday drove seventy-five twenty-six miles, from his stock farm to O'Neill, arriving here Sunday evening. The animals were allowed to loaf along at the rate of about a mile an hour, during driving time, and came through the trip in excellent condition and with but little shrink. Mr. Schollmeyer estimated that the expense of hauling the hogs would have exceeded $125 and that he would have had an average shrink of five pounds to the animal in addition. He topped the local market at $13.50 Monday morning.

 Scalper: Chief Mucker—Why don't you stop talking when I look at you?
 Ever-Cheerful—Lady, I ain't no clock.
