MEMORIAL DAY

Copyright Hart Schaffner & Marx

It is well to set apart a day in the year as a time for remembrance; a day when we can think of patriotism, heroism and sacrifice, and fearless unquestioning devotion to duty; when we can remember, pay tribute to and decorate the graves of the brave men of this country who gave their lives for the cause of humanity and for the world's peace.

The struggle is now ended and the people of this country are united as one people, one country and one flag. Our Memorial is no longer for the cause; it celebrates the courage of the people of this country; a courage that made itself felt and that won glorious victories on every battle field over which the Stars and Stripes waved. We may formally decorate their graves or not; the true patriotism is in the hearts of the men, women and children who now share the heritage of freedom, that the sacrifice and devotion to duty that these men who have gone before have left them.

Today this nation is facing the reconstruction period; a period in which business of all lines will be put upon a permanent business basis, one that will redound to the credit of the people of this nation, the greatest in the world.

In the selling of clothing we have always done our best to conserve the resources of our customers, financial and otherwise, by selling them the best clothing that it was possible to purchase, and selling it to them at a smaller margin of profit than is usually taken in the clothing business. For this reason they have always been able to procure better values here for the money than they have been able to secure in any clothing store in this state. We are still following the same standard that we have followed since we entered business, that is furnishing greater values for the money than can be found in any other store.

The World War caused great disturbance in the woolen market, the dye stuffs market, etc. Prices have been unsettled; some weavers, manufacturers of clothing and sellers of textiles, have considered it wise to send out notices of warning to the effect that dyes are uncertain and cannot be guaranteed; that all wool fabrics are difficult to obtain, and other similar things. Our clothes will continue to be, as in the past, absolutely all wool; our colors will be, as in the past, absolutely fast and reliable. We shall continue to sell our merchandise, as in the past, at prices that are to the advantage of our patrons. We have our usual supply of goods to meet your requirements as promptly and as full as ever, and they are made by that popular and reliable firm Hart Schaffner & Marx.
