BRITISH LABOR SITUATION NOW LESS GLOOMY

Critical Era of General Industrial Struggle Temporarily Evaded by Truce Between Workers and Government.

London, Oct. 25.—Although the coal strike continues, and is causing an increasingly serious dislocation of Britain's industrial life, the critical era of a general industrial struggle has been temporarily evaded by the truce between labor and the government, which, it is now apparent, will be extended for several days at least.

William C. Amidgeman, Robert Smilie and John Dodges, representing the miners, were closeted Sunday with Premier Lloyd George and Andrew Bonar Law in the conference which the government suggested as a final attempt to reach a settlement in the mine strike. After leaving the premier's offices, the miners conferred among themselves, and Hodges then announced that the dislocation between the miners' representatives and Lloyd George would be resumed Monday morning. Meantime, he declared, there would be no developments in the general situation.

The evening telegram declares the government's final offer to the miners shall guarantee to try to increase production. This, however, was without confirmation.

Moderates Regaining Control.

There is hope that an industrial clash involving not only the miners, but railway and transport workers, will be avoided.

The newspapers still regard the general situation as grave, even though a temporary settlement should be effected.

J. H. Thomas, head of the railway union, in a speech outlining his position, declared that the miners are willing to assist the mine owners in every way possible to increase production.

He urged the railway men to do nothing which might weaken the miners' cause or render negotiations more difficult.

MRS. M'SWINEY CAN'T SEE HIM

Protests Against Refusal; He Remained in State of Coma Sunday.

London, Oct. 25.—Lord Mayor Terence MacSwiney of Cork remained in a state of coma throughout Sunday, says the latest bulletin.

The lady mayoress went to Brixton jail Sunday afternoon to visit her husband, but after waiting 20 minutes was refused admittance to the sick room. The lord mayor's brother who remained at the prison throughout the day was allowed to stay at the bedside only a few minutes.

MacSwiney's two sisters waited at the prison gates all day but were not allowed to enter. The sisters joined MacSwiney in his strike Saturday.

The lady mayoress visited the home office on Saturday and protested against the restrictions on visits to the lord mayor by his relatives. They were informed that the restrictions were due to medical considerations.

COOLIDGE ATTACKS THE ADMINISTRATION

Frederick, Md., Oct. 25.—Gov. Coolidge in an address here Saturday charged the Wilson administration with inefficiency and extravagance and with having humiliated the country by being subservient under the Prussian menace for almost three years. He said that because of unpreparedness the United States entered and for months participated in the war behind the protection of the allied army and navy.

"It was and is humiliating to the people to realize that, for almost three years, our government was subservient under the Prussian menace."

KNOX CRITICIZES WILSON AND LEAGUE

Chicago, Oct. 25.—Senator Knox, of Pennsylvania, former secretary of state, who has been prevented by ill health from making a contemplated western speaking trip in behalf of Senator Harding, issued a statement Saturday through Senator Harry New, chairman of the republican speakers' bureau, bitterly criticizing President Wilson and attacking the League of Nations covenant.

New York, Oct. 25.—Mrs. Laura Wilson could have received more, but she didn't. A jury awarded her $200,000 for loss of her husband's love, saying they would have made it $250,000 if she had asked it.

TOOK POISON BY MISTAKE?

Applebaum and Wife, Former Singer With Bonci Coming to Sioux City, Rushed to N. Y. Hospital.

New York, Oct. 23.—Mischa Applebaum and his wife, Helen Yorke, the noted Boston concert soprano, leaders of the so-called humanitarian cult, were taken from their apartment here Friday night and rushed to the Knickerbocker hospital, believed to have taken bichloride of mercury.

The police said the couple had taken four tablets apiece.

Applebaum, a lecturer of some note on such topics as capital punishment, which he opposed, had been divorced from Mrs. Irma Applebaum, who got a decree in Reno, charging incompatibility of temperaments.

Miss Yorke, who only recently sang in a very successful concert with Bonci, the famous Italian tenor, in the Lexington opera house, married Applebaum in Justice Guy's court, April 6, 1920. She is from Wicker Hill, Boston.

Late Friday afternoon Applebaum rushed out of his apartment and called to the elevator operator: "Send for a policeman; we have taken poison by mistake."

Patrolman Singer, who responded, found Miss York lying across the bed.

He obtained several eggs which he fed raw to the couple as an emetic.

An ambulance arrived soon afterward and the surgeon gave the couple emergency treatment.

At the hospital it was said they were resting easily, but a surgeon added that sometimes bichloride of mercury does not begin to assert its deadliness for four days.

A bottle of bichloride of mercury tablets which the policeman found on the mantle of the Applebaum apartment was appropriately labelled and also was inscribed in conspicuous letters, "poison."

BREATH NO SIGN MAN IS LIQUOR CARRIER

Georgia Supreme Court Holds Being Drunk is No Violation of Law.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 23.—You can't blame a man for drinking, and the fact that a man's full of the stuff is no proof he possesses liquor. The Georgia supreme court says so.

The court recently reversed a lower court conviction based on the fact that a man was said to be intoxicated.

The court held:

While one cannot lawfully keep, have, possess or control intoxicating liquor or beverage, the mere drinking of whisky, except as declared in the penal code, is not unlawful. Whisky may be administered by a physician, taken unawares, or taken from the hand of another, merely for the purpose of drinking whisky.

In the circumstances last supposed, the act of taking whisky from the hand of another is merely incidental to the act of drinking the whisky, and can in no proper sense be held to be within the inhibition of a criminal statute which declares that it shall be unlawful "for any person or individual to have, control or possess, in this state, any of the said enumerated liquors or beverages."

The legislative intent and purpose is manifested when the words "have," "possess" and "control" are used in association, the court held.

PLOTTED TO DYNAMITE POLK COUNTY JAIL

Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 23.—A plot to blow up the Polk county jail here has been frustrated through the vigilance of county officers, Sheriff Charles Saverud announced Friday.

According to Saverud he received a "tip" several days ago that a prisoner in the jail had worked out details of a plan to destroy the building and had sent word to two accomplices of his who were at liberty to carry it out. The plot failed because of a strong guard, which he stationed around the building, Saverud said.

The identity of the plotters is known, the sheriff said, but he withheld their names.

FAVORED THE LEAGUE AND ASKED TO QUIT

Petersburg, Ind., Oct. 23.—During a recent sermon the Rev. L. E. Seely, pastor of the Baptist church here, severely criticized the attitude of Warren G. Harding, republican candidate for president, on the League of Nations. Some members of the church informed Mr. Seely after the sermon that he was employed to do church work and not mix in politics.

Mr. Seely told them that he regarded elimination of strife and the extension of a helping hand to suffering nations and persons among the first duties of the church, and that he believed that he was doing his full duty as pastor in advocating support for the League of Nations.

The official board of the church was called together, and as a result of its deliberation Mr. Seely was asked to resign, which he did.

DENIED PART OF ESTATE.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 23.—Paul H. Watson, of Saratoga, N. Y., is not entitled to share in the $275,000 estate of Levy Bell, his father-in-law, the supreme court here ruled Friday. Bell died in Denver in December, 1911, leaving two daughters and three sons. He was a resident of Pennsylvania. Bell's will provided for each of the daughters and Watson claimed the share due his wife who died shortly after her husband.

EXPOSE PLUMBER RING IN NEW YORK

Public is Made "Goat" of Secret Order Making Millions Through Contract Fraud Schemes.

New York, Oct. 23.—A "Lodge" embracing 425 master plumbers, having initiation fees, dues and various secret rites—and in which the general public is the "goat"—was revealed Friday at the hearing of the joint legislative committee investigating the building industry.

Many of this "lodge" known as the "Code of Practice" handle plumbing contracts in all parts of the United States.

Through various witnesses it was brought out the procedure followed by this organization, both as to big and little jobs, was this:

All members would receive a "green card" from headquarters when bids were to be submitted on a contract.

In return they would send in bids on "pink cards" not to the builder but to headquarters.

These bids would be compared and returned, some times with corrected figures.

The member whose "turn" it was to have the contract would then submit a new bid to the builder and his "lodge brothers" would see that their bids were all higher.

In this way, competition was completely eliminated and plumbers were able to make contracts infinitely higher than they otherwise could have done.

Testimony showed that the "code of practice" did about $900,000,000 worth of business a year. Of this they paid in $4,000,000 as dues or "insurance." One million dollars of this was supposed to go to John T. Hettrick, a lawyer, who is alleged to have evolved the scheme and headed the "lodge."

Under examination by Samuel Untermyer, counsel for the committee, Milton Schnaier, a plumbing contractor, reluctantly expressed the belief the other $3,000,000 a year went to the "super union" as protection against union plumbers being called off a job without any pretext. The hearing was adjourned until November 4.

M'SWINEY SCREAMS "TAKE FOOD AWAY!"

Struggles Violently Against Imaginary Doctors—Too Weak to Resist.

London, Oct. 23.—Lord Mayor Terence MacSwiney of Cork, hunger striking in Brixton jail, continued to alternate between violent delirium and a semi-comatose state Friday, according to the latest bulletin issued by the Sinn Fein information bureau.

during his delirium, he is possession of his mental faculties since Wednesday morning, the bulletin said.

MacSwiney is physically and mentally incapable of resisting the "forcible feeding" by the jail doctors his delirium, but he is possessed with a sense of resistance.

He struggles violently against imaginary doctors and screams from time to time:

"Take it away!" (meaning food.)

WOMAN TEACHER SHOT BY BOY PUPIL'S MOTHER

Chicago, Oct. 23.—Incensed because her son had been reprimanded, Mrs. Carmila Rindoni, Friday shot Miss Rosalind I. Reynolds, a teacher, twice.

The shooting occurred after Mrs. Rindoni had called at the McLaren school to interview her.

There was a short argument and Mrs. Rindoni pulled a revolver from her skirt and fired twice.

She escaped.

The teacher will recover.

LEAGUE TO SETTLE VILNA TROUBLE

Paris, Oct. 23.—Settlement of the Vilna incident has been turned over to the League of Nations entirely and France will make no further reply to the Polish note sent jointly to France and Great Britain, the French foreign office announced Friday. The League of Nations already had the matter in hand and Leon Bourgeois, the French representative in the council of the League of Nations, is awaiting a report from the league's commission sent to Suwalki.

G. O. P. ASKS MONEY.

New York Oct. 22.—An appeal for contributions to the republican national campaign fund was sent out today by James G. Blaine, the party's eastern treasurer. In a circular letter mailed broadcast over the eastern states, Mr. Blaine explained the difficulty of getting into successful operation the plan of subscriptions limited to $1,000 had caused expenses to accumulate faster than cash so that the national committee had had to borrow money.

DENTON CASE STILL MYSTERY

Los Angeles, Oct. 23.—With a deeper cloud of secrecy thrown about the Denton murder investigation Friday, by the district attorney's office than at any time since the discovery of Denton's body, rumor persisted that a complete "solution" of the crime was in the hands of Chief Deputy District Attorney William C. Doran. Doran refused to make any statement.

ALEXANDER MAY RECOVER

Athens, Oct. 23.—King Alexander has weathered the crisis and probably will recover unless complications set in, according to authentic information here.

At 10 o'clock Friday night the king was found in bed. His temperature was 101.5.

THE NEW EUROPEAN TANGLE

France is reported to be steadfastly opposed to the coming Austrian plebiscite in favor of union with Germany, and the voting may never be held in consequence. Austria desires union with Germany for political and economic reasons, the present state being considered impossible because of its isolation. The neighbors of Austria, except Italy, wish to prevent a union, claiming that it would push a wedge of pan-Germanism that much farther east. A union of Bavaria, and Austria into a new state is also mentioned as a possibility. The shaded portions of the map show the territory involved in this possible union.

ALWAYS UNPOPULAR.

From the FINDER.

Humanity is prone to run in ruts and always slow to adopt new ideas. From earliest times, ridicule, ostracism and even death have been the portion of him who would lead the wheels of progress from the rut of "well enough."

Bathing in a bath tub as late as 1842 was condemned as a corrupt and luxurious and denounced by the medical fraternity.

William Harvey, who discovered the circulation of blood, enjoyed a lucrative practice before he announced his discovery, but thereafter he was called "crack-brained" and trade fell off.

Luigi Galvani, who experimented on frogs and discovered galvanic electricity, was thought to be crazy.

Daguerre, inventor of the Daguerreotype, was put in an asylum for the illness of human beings to a tin plate.

The Bavarian Royal College of Physicians claimed that railroads would ruin the health of the people because the rapid motion would give travelers brain disease.

Professional.

This stirring poem was written when President Wilson asked the congress to declare that a state of war existed, in April, 1917.

Not for a flaunted flag, O God,
Not for affronted power,
Not for a scurried hope of gain,
Not for the pride of an hour,
Not for vengeance, hot in the heart,
Now do we swing to war;
Not for a weak mistrust lest peace is a shame strong men abhor,
Not for glory—for oh, to kill
Should be a sacred war;
Not for these! But to war on war
And sweep it from earth's path!

An Historic Record.

From the Zanzibar Gazette.

A report on the dome of the Rock of Jerusalem is shortly to be published and will be of great interest to the Mohammedan world. It may not be generally known that this place is the third in sanctity of all the sanctuaries of Islam, and indeed for a short period it actually formed the Kibla towards which all Moslems prostrated themselves in prayer. Among the more important religious associations of this rock we may mention that it was here that David and Solomon were called to repentance and on account of a vision David chose this site for his temple. On this same spot Mohammed ascended to the seventh Heaven after his night journey from Mecca, and lastly it is to be the scene of the Great Judgement. The historical associations are not less striking, and such famous names as Omar, Abd-el-Malik, Saladin and Sultanman, are all connected with the Rock.

It Was Great, Anyhow.

From Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

The man stumbled after his companion, who, woman-like, went straight ahead, regardless of all obstacles. Angry murmurs from the unseen people whose toes they trampled on followed them like the wash of a steamer. Just as despair was seizing him he saw her straight ahead. She had obtained a seat. And investigation showed that the one next to hers was empty. Into it he sank gratefully. The picture was one of love and bravery, with the usual fair heroine and handsome hero and beetle-browed villain. As they watched he slipped an arm around her slender waist and drew her to him. But the picture struggled for a moment, much to his surprise. Then she yielded and he felt her nestle close to his manly chest. Five minutes later the picture ended and the lights went up. Then he understood. The picture was the wrong girl!

Men, Women and Fashions.

From the London Chronicle.

Bloomsbury has been invaded by a large party of strangers, who are the subject of curiosity. The men, outwardly, are unquestionably Americans—suits, hats, shirts and socks have the "Noo Yark" accent. But the women with large graceful cotton headresses and blouses in vivid tints, have an almost mediaeval appearance. All talk a tongue unknown even to the cosmopolitan boarding house keepers. They are Finns, who have "made good" in America and are returning to their old country for a holiday. The wait in London is for a boat. The Americans, satisfied of the men's clothes while the women remain faithful to those of their native land raises the question of whether men are more susceptible to the fashions of a new country than women. The dress of these human birds of passage suggests that they are.

The Woman Voter Speaks.

Always before, I asked you what you thought
And shaped my thought by yours—the way I cut
May garments by a pattern: "He says this,"
Or "He says that," I'd quote, with wifely pride.
Almost, I smile at the absurdity
Of setting up my thought against your own—
You, whose approval gave my heart content,
Whether it was for hat, or dress, or shoes,
Or for the dish you thought I reasoned well.
And yet—do you remember?—childhood's cares,
Bedtime, and prayers, and food, you left to me.
"Go to your mother, children," you would say:
"She knows what it is best for you to do!"
How did I know? And how, again, today,
When the sad world is crying at my door
For food and clothing, and maternal care,
How know I what is right for me to do,
Or how to use the power so strangely given?
I grope, and grope, and try to feel my way;
And yet, as birds are guided through the air
This migrant Autumn, so I seem to see
A Light—a Light like that which guided once
The shepherds to the Babe of Bethlehem.
I cannot argue—I can only feel!
I find no answer for your clever words;
It may be in the centuries to come,
When I have grown as wise as you are now,
I, too, shall smile, as at a twice-told tale,
When poets yearn for universal peace.
But yet—I know not! Let me dream my dream!
Maternity is going to the polls!
—Florence Van Cleave, in the New York Times.

Wilsonism.

From the New York Post.

Senator Lodge has at last discovered that President Wilson is not a candidate in this campaign. Nevertheless he is still disturbed over the peril of Wilsonism. Wilson has been, in his view, an actor of autocrats. Did you ever hear of so dictatorial a man, he asks his audiences in effect. When it comes to bossing things, he hints, the man in the White House is a world-beater. He is Caesar and Napoleon and a Diaz rolled into one. But isn't Senator Lodge in danger of overdriving the picture? If Wilson is so exceptional a man as all that, is it likely that Governor Cox or anybody else could imitate him? By Senator Lodge's showing, Wilson is so rare a villain that the presence of another in his class would be the surprise of the century. Lodge should remember the law of averages and be reassured.

Conversation.

From Pipp's Weekly.

On a Detroit street car, young man and woman meet, evidently having renewed acquaintance after some time.
She—Why, George! How are you?
Gee, your eyes are red, got a cold?
"None, been driving in the wind."
"And your face seems pinched, been working too hard again?"
"None, guess I need a shave."
"You look worn, don't you feel very well?"
"Yep, danced too late last night."
"Have any more trouble with the arm you sprained?"
"None, forgot I sprained it."
"Well, isn't that fine."
Silence for a couple of blocks, then:
He—Spy?
She—Yes?
He—I have got a corn that hurts.

Lots of 'Em.

From the Louisville Courier-Journal.

"So you had trouble locating me," said the stranger to the old man, as he alighted at the country station. "Didn't your master give you a description of me?"
"Yes, ma'am, but that's so many gammen wif red noses coming on that dar train."

Her Questions.

From the Boston Globe.

The Girl at the Window—Yes, madam, this is the information bureau. What do you wish to know?
The Woman Outside—I'd like to know how much you paid for that georgette crepe waist you're wearing?

Chinese Are Honest.

Honesty is a prevailing virtue among most Chinamen. Some of them in their native towns and cities leave their places of business unguarded while they go out for half an hour or more. Should customers arrive in the meantime they find the price of goods plainly marked, select what they want and leave the money for them.
