

That Aching Back!

...giving out? Tortured with dull, nagging backaches and stabbing pains? Does the least exertion leave you "all played out"? Likely your kidneys are to blame. Overwork, colds, insufficient rest and the hurry and worry of present-day living tend to weaken the kidneys. Backache is often the first warning. Headaches and dizziness may come, too, and perhaps annoying kidney irregularities. Help the overworked kidneys with Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's have helped thousands. They should help you. Ask your neighbor!

A South Dakota Case
Will Hinesh, railroad fireman, 131 Nebraska St., Huron, S. D., says: "The jarring of the engine put my kidneys out of fix. I had severe pains through my back and was sore and lame. I could hardly bend over. My kidneys acted irregularly. Doan's Kidney Pills took the soreness out of my back, the aches and pains left and my kidneys acted regularly."

Get Doan's at Any Store, 60c a Box
DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS
FOSTER-MILBURN CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

THE BEGINNING OF A NEW LIFE

Bulgaria and Oriental Europe Produce Sturdiest People.

Do you want to feel from 10 to 50 years younger?
Do you want to know the joy of Perfect Health?
You can get back the spirit of youth, your eyes will sparkle with new life and the rich glow of health will replace the faded yellow skin.

Bulgarian Blood Tea, used for centuries in Oriental Europe, is the most remarkable medicinal family preparation known in the world today. Composed of choice and rare herbs, just brewed by yourself and taken once or twice a week, will be the beginning of a new life for you. Your blood will become rich and pure; the flame of life will be rekindled—no more headaches, biliousness, constipation, indigestion or bone-racking aches or pains. Bulgarian Blood Tea is guaranteed to contain just pure herbs of marvelous medicinal and curative power gathered from fields, mountains and valleys of Europe, Asia and Africa. All drug stores now keep Bulgarian Blood Tea in stock, but owing to the enormous demand immediate application to your druggist is urged on account of the limited source of supply. Distributors of Bulgarian Blood Tea are authorized to sturn the full purchase price if it does not materially improve your health in three weeks' time. This evidence of faith in the power of Bulgarian Blood Tea is the guarantee of the Marvel Products Co., Marvel Building, Pittsburgh, who authorize this public announcement.

All Run Down Now Feels Fine

Eatonic Ended His Troubles

"Eatonic is the only thing I have found to stop my heartburn and I think it has been a great help in nervous spells," writes G. C. Johnson.

An upset stomach may cause lots of suffering all over the body. Eatonic helps in such cases by removing the cause of the misery, because it takes up and carries out the excess acid and gases and keeps the digestive organs in natural working order. A tablet after meals is all you need. Big box costs only a trifle with druggist's guarantee.

Not Alike.
Lawyer—So you want a divorce from your wife. Aren't your relations pleasant?
Client—Mine are, but hers are the most unpleasant lot I ever met.—Boston Transcript.

16799 DIED

in New York City alone from kidney trouble last year. Don't allow yourself to become a victim by neglecting pains and aches. Guard against this trouble by taking

GOLD MEDAL HARLEM OIL CAPSULES

The world's standard remedy for kidney, liver, bladder and uric acid troubles. Holland's national remedy since 1695. All druggists, three sizes. Guaranteed. Look for the name Gold Medal on every box and accept no imitation.

Ladies Keep Your Skin Clear, Sweet, Healthy With Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Talcum

Make Your Non-Alcoholic Thirst Quenching Appetizing Beverage. One can makes 10 gallons. Can only $2.25. J. & K. Extract Co. 1012 Milwaukee Ave., Chicago. Agents wanted.

For Irritated Throats
Take a tried and tested remedy—one that acts promptly and effectively and contains no opiates. You get that remedy by asking for

PISO'S

SIoux CITY PTG. CO., NO. 46-1920.

IS FAVORED LAND

Western Canada Country of Great Possibilities.

Soil, Climate, and Weather Conditions All Factors in the Production of Unrivalled Fruit, Vegetables and Flowers as Well as Grain.

As recently as last month—to be correct, it was the 18th of October, a time of year when one naturally looks for the "frost upon the pumpkin," and is inclined to wander through the woods in search of the ripened nuts, and admire the beautiful colorings that the autumn atmosphere has bestowed upon the leaves; when one goes to his closet, or maybe his pawnbroker, to find his heavy clothing—it was that I found myself the guest of a Western Canada housewife in her beautiful home on the outskirts of the pretty little town of Moosomin, Saskatchewan. The dinner! That's what Mrs. Wilde called it. I should have termed it a banquet. There were mullard duck, cooked to a turn, baked potatoes—and such big, mealy fellows they were, too—cauliflower—and say, did you ever taste one of those Western Canada cauliflower?—then dessert. What was the dessert? I can see it now. Strawberries, strawberries that had been picked that morning. Help yourself to the cream—and it was cream that is cream. But what I wanted to write about was the strawberries, picked on the 18th of October. As I ate, and turned my back while a second helping was placed in front of me, I could not but think how this goes to refute the once accepted idea that the climate of Western Canada is such that the ripening of strawberries at any season is one of the things that might be looked upon as next to impossible. Fortunately it is rapidly giving place to one which acknowledges that our sister nation to the north possesses a climate that makes it quite possible to develop and ripen strawberries even in October.

But there is more to add. On October 14, just a few days previous, Mr. A. B. Smith, near the same town, plucked a splendid mess of green corn from his garden. Near Rocaville, Saskatchewan, wild raspberries were picked during the same week. The fact of ripening fruit at this date may seem of little moment, but when you are told that corn did not suffer from any vagaries of weather, more attention may be paid to it. The question of Western Canada's climate is no longer the bugaboo it once was, and not so very long ago, either, when it caused thinking people to think, and unquestionably prevented many from going to Canada who under other conditions would have gone.

In various parts of this country, at different state and county fairs, the government of the Dominion of Canada, during the past few weeks, installed exhibits of the grains and grasses grown in Western Canada, and at the same time showed fruits and vegetables that were grown there. None of these was placed in competition with the home-grown article. But to judges and others there came the full understanding of what it would mean to the local exhibitor if they were. The Western Canadian—and many of the exhibits were grown by former Americans—does not lay claim to any special dispensation of intelligence in the matter of the culture of the articles placed on exhibition, but willingly gives credit to the soil, the climate, and such other indigenous conditions as the country as a whole possesses, as being factors that bring about the largest yields of the best of wheat, oats, barley, fax and rye, as well as vegetables. As is pointed out by the gentlemen in charge of these exhibits, and quite evident to all, the possibilities of growing vegetables and grain such as are shown can only exist where conditions such as have been mentioned exist.

In speaking of eating fresh strawberries and green corn in the middle of October I should not fail to refer to the beautiful bouquets that adorned the table, the sideboard, the window sills, and almost every other available vacant place in the room. Flowers!—there were asters, phlox, gladioli, peonies, poppies and I can't remember the names of them all, but they were there. Taken right from the garden, having a fragrance that gave the room tropical colors, and filled it with marvelously delightful perfumes. It was a very pretty sight. Then I went out into the garden, and took a photo of it. It was simply wonderful. I asked the good lady how she managed it. She said she had always been fond of flowers. In her old home, in one of the central states, she carried on garden horticulture, and had been acknowledged successful. "But my!" she said. "I never got such bloom, and such a variety as I do here." She admitted it was a lot of work, the watering, the weeding, the hoeing, but such work was a pleasure.

Well, such is some of the life in Western Canada, and as I left the farm home I concluded that much of our surroundings are as we ourselves make them.—Advertisement.

THE BEGINNING OF A NEW LIFE

Bulgaria and Oriental Europe Produce Sturdiest People.

Do you want to feel from 10 to 50 years younger?
Do you want to know the joy of Perfect Health?
You can get back the spirit of youth, your eyes will sparkle with new life and the rich glow of health will replace the faded yellow skin.

Bulgarian Blood Tea, used for centuries in Oriental Europe, is the most remarkable medicinal family preparation known in the world today. Composed of choice and rare herbs, just brewed by yourself and taken once or twice a week, will be the beginning of a new life for you. Your blood will become rich and pure; the flame of life will be rekindled—no more headaches, biliousness, constipation, indigestion or bone-racking aches or pains. Bulgarian Blood Tea is guaranteed to contain just pure herbs of marvelous medicinal and curative power gathered from fields, mountains and valleys of Europe, Asia and Africa. All drug stores now keep Bulgarian Blood Tea in stock, but owing to the enormous demand immediate application to your druggist is urged on account of the limited source of supply. Distributors of Bulgarian Blood Tea are authorized to sturn the full purchase price if it does not materially improve your health in three weeks' time. This evidence of faith in the power of Bulgarian Blood Tea is the guarantee of the Marvel Products Co., Marvel Building, Pittsburgh, who authorize this public announcement.

IS FAVORED LAND

Western Canada Country of Great Possibilities.

Soil, Climate, and Weather Conditions All Factors in the Production of Unrivalled Fruit, Vegetables and Flowers as Well as Grain.

As recently as last month—to be correct, it was the 18th of October, a time of year when one naturally looks for the "frost upon the pumpkin," and is inclined to wander through the woods in search of the ripened nuts, and admire the beautiful colorings that the autumn atmosphere has bestowed upon the leaves; when one goes to his closet, or maybe his pawnbroker, to find his heavy clothing—it was that I found myself the guest of a Western Canada housewife in her beautiful home on the outskirts of the pretty little town of Moosomin, Saskatchewan. The dinner! That's what Mrs. Wilde called it. I should have termed it a banquet. There were mullard duck, cooked to a turn, baked potatoes—and such big, mealy fellows they were, too—cauliflower—and say, did you ever taste one of those Western Canada cauliflower?—then dessert. What was the dessert? I can see it now. Strawberries, strawberries that had been picked that morning. Help yourself to the cream—and it was cream that is cream. But what I wanted to write about was the strawberries, picked on the 18th of October. As I ate, and turned my back while a second helping was placed in front of me, I could not but think how this goes to refute the once accepted idea that the climate of Western Canada is such that the ripening of strawberries at any season is one of the things that might be looked upon as next to impossible. Fortunately it is rapidly giving place to one which acknowledges that our sister nation to the north possesses a climate that makes it quite possible to develop and ripen strawberries even in October.

But there is more to add. On October 14, just a few days previous, Mr. A. B. Smith, near the same town, plucked a splendid mess of green corn from his garden. Near Rocaville, Saskatchewan, wild raspberries were picked during the same week. The fact of ripening fruit at this date may seem of little moment, but when you are told that corn did not suffer from any vagaries of weather, more attention may be paid to it. The question of Western Canada's climate is no longer the bugaboo it once was, and not so very long ago, either, when it caused thinking people to think, and unquestionably prevented many from going to Canada who under other conditions would have gone.

In various parts of this country, at different state and county fairs, the government of the Dominion of Canada, during the past few weeks, installed exhibits of the grains and grasses grown in Western Canada, and at the same time showed fruits and vegetables that were grown there. None of these was placed in competition with the home-grown article. But to judges and others there came the full understanding of what it would mean to the local exhibitor if they were. The Western Canadian—and many of the exhibits were grown by former Americans—does not lay claim to any special dispensation of intelligence in the matter of the culture of the articles placed on exhibition, but willingly gives credit to the soil, the climate, and such other indigenous conditions as the country as a whole possesses, as being factors that bring about the largest yields of the best of wheat, oats, barley, fax and rye, as well as vegetables. As is pointed out by the gentlemen in charge of these exhibits, and quite evident to all, the possibilities of growing vegetables and grain such as are shown can only exist where conditions such as have been mentioned exist.

In speaking of eating fresh strawberries and green corn in the middle of October I should not fail to refer to the beautiful bouquets that adorned the table, the sideboard, the window sills, and almost every other available vacant place in the room. Flowers!—there were asters, phlox, gladioli, peonies, poppies and I can't remember the names of them all, but they were there. Taken right from the garden, having a fragrance that gave the room tropical colors, and filled it with marvelously delightful perfumes. It was a very pretty sight. Then I went out into the garden, and took a photo of it. It was simply wonderful. I asked the good lady how she managed it. She said she had always been fond of flowers. In her old home, in one of the central states, she carried on garden horticulture, and had been acknowledged successful. "But my!" she said. "I never got such bloom, and such a variety as I do here." She admitted it was a lot of work, the watering, the weeding, the hoeing, but such work was a pleasure.

Well, such is some of the life in Western Canada, and as I left the farm home I concluded that much of our surroundings are as we ourselves make them.—Advertisement.

IS FAVORED LAND

Western Canada Country of Great Possibilities.

Soil, Climate, and Weather Conditions All Factors in the Production of Unrivalled Fruit, Vegetables and Flowers as Well as Grain.

As recently as last month—to be correct, it was the 18th of October, a time of year when one naturally looks for the "frost upon the pumpkin," and is inclined to wander through the woods in search of the ripened nuts, and admire the beautiful colorings that the autumn atmosphere has bestowed upon the leaves; when one goes to his closet, or maybe his pawnbroker, to find his heavy clothing—it was that I found myself the guest of a Western Canada housewife in her beautiful home on the outskirts of the pretty little town of Moosomin, Saskatchewan. The dinner! That's what Mrs. Wilde called it. I should have termed it a banquet. There were mullard duck, cooked to a turn, baked potatoes—and such big, mealy fellows they were, too—cauliflower—and say, did you ever taste one of those Western Canada cauliflower?—then dessert. What was the dessert? I can see it now. Strawberries, strawberries that had been picked that morning. Help yourself to the cream—and it was cream that is cream. But what I wanted to write about was the strawberries, picked on the 18th of October. As I ate, and turned my back while a second helping was placed in front of me, I could not but think how this goes to refute the once accepted idea that the climate of Western Canada is such that the ripening of strawberries at any season is one of the things that might be looked upon as next to impossible. Fortunately it is rapidly giving place to one which acknowledges that our sister nation to the north possesses a climate that makes it quite possible to develop and ripen strawberries even in October.

But there is more to add. On October 14, just a few days previous, Mr. A. B. Smith, near the same town, plucked a splendid mess of green corn from his garden. Near Rocaville, Saskatchewan, wild raspberries were picked during the same week. The fact of ripening fruit at this date may seem of little moment, but when you are told that corn did not suffer from any vagaries of weather, more attention may be paid to it. The question of Western Canada's climate is no longer the bugaboo it once was, and not so very long ago, either, when it caused thinking people to think, and unquestionably prevented many from going to Canada who under other conditions would have gone.

In various parts of this country, at different state and county fairs, the government of the Dominion of Canada, during the past few weeks, installed exhibits of the grains and grasses grown in Western Canada, and at the same time showed fruits and vegetables that were grown there. None of these was placed in competition with the home-grown article. But to judges and others there came the full understanding of what it would mean to the local exhibitor if they were. The Western Canadian—and many of the exhibits were grown by former Americans—does not lay claim to any special dispensation of intelligence in the matter of the culture of the articles placed on exhibition, but willingly gives credit to the soil, the climate, and such other indigenous conditions as the country as a whole possesses, as being factors that bring about the largest yields of the best of wheat, oats, barley, fax and rye, as well as vegetables. As is pointed out by the gentlemen in charge of these exhibits, and quite evident to all, the possibilities of growing vegetables and grain such as are shown can only exist where conditions such as have been mentioned exist.

In speaking of eating fresh strawberries and green corn in the middle of October I should not fail to refer to the beautiful bouquets that adorned the table, the sideboard, the window sills, and almost every other available vacant place in the room. Flowers!—there were asters, phlox, gladioli, peonies, poppies and I can't remember the names of them all, but they were there. Taken right from the garden, having a fragrance that gave the room tropical colors, and filled it with marvelously delightful perfumes. It was a very pretty sight. Then I went out into the garden, and took a photo of it. It was simply wonderful. I asked the good lady how she managed it. She said she had always been fond of flowers. In her old home, in one of the central states, she carried on garden horticulture, and had been acknowledged successful. "But my!" she said. "I never got such bloom, and such a variety as I do here." She admitted it was a lot of work, the watering, the weeding, the hoeing, but such work was a pleasure.

Well, such is some of the life in Western Canada, and as I left the farm home I concluded that much of our surroundings are as we ourselves make them.—Advertisement.

HARDING TO KEEP YANKS ON RHINE UNTIL SUMMER?

Authorities in Coblenz Do Not Believe He Will Decide Upon Their Removal Until Then; Soldiers Willing to Stay.

Berlin, Nov. 6.—Neither the Berlin government nor the leaders of the American forces now in the army of occupation along the Rhine expect a withdrawal before next summer. And except for the feeling that the cost of maintaining this force is somewhat heavy, there seems to be no direct desire to see the American soldiers leave the country.

The German government is putting forth a campaign for a reduction of American troops because of the financial burden so many men are placing upon the country, but while the British and French remain, the government would not care to see a complete withdrawal.

Herr Simons has advised the ways and means committee of the reichstag against actively pressing for measures to carry the men out of the Rhineland, on the grounds that such action undoubtedly would bring the nation into difficulties.

It is reported from Coblenz that the American forces are now costing the country $30,000 a day, or 6,500,000 marks.

Authorities in Coblenz do not expect Harding to decide upon the removal of these men at least until after his inauguration, and refuse to believe reports that President Wilson will remove them.

"We will remain here until summer," said American officers to the United News. "We are wanted by the Germans. The French want us to stay. They think we are a sort of protection, even if only a corporal's guard remain. And the men in the American corps are anxious to stay here. They are delighted with their splendid quarters and the treatment here."

JAPAN BITTER OVER CALIFORNIA VOTE

The Kokumin, 'Seeing Clouds,' Declares Action Contains Seed of Armed Conflict.

Tokio, Nov. 6.—General disappointment and, in two instances, hints of serious consequences, were the underlying notes of the comment of the Tokio press on the result of the California vote on the anti-alien land law.

The American election attracted great interest in Japan, but the California vote was the big subject of discussion in editorial columns.

The Kokumin was the chief paper which saw clouds ahead. It declared the action of California contains the seed for armed conflict and predicted further moves to deprive American-born Japanese of American citizenship would follow.

The Yordau declared that the California vote "perils the advent of a most dreadful storm."

Marquis Okuma, discussing the result in California, attributed the vote more to the English-Irish immigrants than to American-born citizens.

The Yomiuri considered the question in relation to the presidential election. It declared Harding was pledged to assist California in its anti-Japanese movement.

The Jiji, while expressing confidence in a happy solution, declared the democratic administration should try a solution of the problem before it steps out of power.

MRS. HARDING MAKES WHITE HOUSE PLANS

She'll Have No "Cops" at Gates, No Sheep on Lawn.

Marion, Ohio, Nov. 6.—Mrs. Warren J. Harding is already laying her plans for running the White House when she becomes its mistress.

"There are two things I'm going to insist on," she said. "I won't have any policemen at the White House gates and there'll be no sheep on the White House lawn."

Mrs. Harding made these observations in a humorous vein to a group of newspapermen in the front yard. Someone had recalled the incident of Mrs. Harding being chased away from the front of the White House by a policeman a couple of years ago.

"I've been too busy campaigning to buy any clothes this summer," she said, looking apologetically at the dress she had been wearing several months. "But you just watch me now."

WOULD KEEP "KIDS" OFF STREETS NIGHTS

Chicago, Nov. 6.—Alderman R. J. Mulcahy says much of Chicago's crime wave is "due to boys and girls being permitted to run the streets at night unchecked."

So next Wednesday the alderman will submit the city council a curfew ordinance compelling children to be off the streets by 9:30.

SAMOAN GOVERNOR SHOOTSELF TO DEATH

Washington, Nov. 6.—Commander Warren A. Terhune, U. S. N. governor of American Samoa, shot and killed himself there November 3, the navy department announced Friday. Terhune, appointed governor in 1912, left a wife whose home was in Hackensack, N. J.

BERGDOLL IS FOUND IN GERMANY

Berlin, Nov. 6.—Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, American draft dodger, has been located at Karlsruhe.

The fugitive is still at large. Washington has been notified of his whereabouts.

Bergdoll was convicted by court-martial of evading the draft and placed in confinement at the military prison on Governor's Island. A few months ago he was allowed to make a visit to his mother's home in Philadelphia under guard. While there he escaped and since that time he has been reported in various parts of this country and Europe.

HARDING GETS NEW MEXICO'S 3

That State Passes Out of the Doubtful Column, Giving Him 404 Electoral Votes; Kentucky to Cox.

Washington, Nov. 6.—Practically complete returns show New Mexico has passed out of the doubtful column and is republican by a majority exceeding 5,000, giving Harding and Coolidge 404 votes in the electoral college.

The wedge driven into the "solid south" appears larger and firmer than it did at first. Tennessee, in addition to casting its electoral vote for Harding and Coolidge, will send four and possibly five republican congressmen to Washington. Taylor, the republican candidate for governor, has been elected by a majority exceeding 40,000.

While Kentucky's electoral vote will be cast for Cox the republicans have elected Ernst, United States senator, and have made important gains in congressmen and in town and district results.

Missouri, in addition to going over to the republican column on the head of the ticket, elected many minor republican officials, aside from its usual representation in both branches of congress. Republicans have firm control of the lower house of the state legislature and indications are they also have taken over the senate.

No changes were reported in the Oklahoma situation, excepting the swelling of the republican majority. Illinois probably will show a republican plurality of 840,000 when all returns are in. This puts it ahead of Pennsylvania, with 750,000, and second to New York, with more than a million. Ohio will show a plurality for Harding of approximately 400,000 and the republican plurality in Indiana is growing as the belated returns come in.

HARDING INVITED TO A "TURKEY TROT"

Cuero, Tex., World's "Turkey Capital," Urges Him to Shake a Wicked Hoof.

Cuero, Tex., Nov. 6.—President-Elect Harding is invited to attend the Cuero "turkey trot" celebration here November 10, 11 and 12, as a part of his Texas vacation, in a telegram sent to Marion by Oscar C. B. Nau, secretary of the Cuero chamber of commerce.

"Ten thousand trotting turkeys parading through the streets is a sight which not even the president-elect of the Great American nation can see in any city of the world other than Cuero," Nau wired. "The wisest known democratic town in the world invites you to be a guest at the world's most unique celebration. Come down and shake a wicked hoof." Cuero is the turkey capital of the world.

Depew Upholds Extravagant Garb of Women

New York, Nov. 6.—Chauncey M. Depew gave an interview at Briarcliff lodge, in which he defended women's luxurious styles. Although in his 87th year, the former senator was in a jovial mood.

"Girls' clothes today are very stylish and extravagant," said Mr. Depew, "but they have always dressed up to their means. Women wear fine clothes because the men like to see them. The men are partly to blame for this extravagance. The responsibility, if responsibility you can call it, is about equally divided between the men and the women. You know none of us care to see a woman in homespun. If a man can afford it he always likes to see his wife in a new bonnet. If they do wear silks and other costly things, that helps industry and is a good thing."

"Prohibition is making the country dry, but the enforcement law is not doing it. It is the inability of everyone to get a drink easily. The fellow with a strong desire will find it, but the average man will not go far to look for it."

BREAD DROPS 2 CENTS IN LOS ANGELES

Los Angeles, Nov. 6.—The wholesale price of bread dropped two cents here Friday.

Another Royal Suggestion

Biscuits and Cinnamon Buns

From the NEW ROYAL COOK BOOK

BISCUIT! So tender they fairly melt in the mouth, and of such glorious flavor that the appetite is never satisfied. These biscuits anyone can make with Royal Baking Powder and these unusual recipes.

Biscuits
2 cups flour
4 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup milk or half milk and half water

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt, add shortening and rub in very lightly; add liquid slowly; roll or pat on floured board to about one inch in thickness (handle as little as possible); cut with biscuit cutter. Bake in hot oven 15 to 20 minutes.

Royal Cinnamon Buns
2 1/2 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
4 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder
2 tablespoons shortening
1 egg
1/2 cup water
1/2 cup sugar
2 teaspoons cinnamon
4 tablespoons seeded raisins

Sift 2 tablespoons of measured sugar with flour, salt and baking powder; rub shortening in lightly; add beaten egg to water and add slowly. Roll out 1/4-inch thick on floured board; brush with melted butter, sprinkle with sugar, cinnamon and raisins. Roll as for buns; cut into 1 1/2-inch pieces, place with cut edges up on well-greased pan; sprinkle with a little sugar and cinnamon. Bake in moderate oven 20 to 25 minutes; remove from pan at once.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure

Made from Cream of Tartar, derived from grapes.

FREE

Write TODAY for the New Royal Cook Book; contains 400 other recipes just as delightful as these.

Address:
ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO.
115 Fulton Street, New York City

BEADS PREFERRED TO BREAD GOT REPORT THAT COUNTED

People of the Levant Set Great Stock on Colored Glass of Every Description.

Beads are more necessary than bread to the Levant. Men, women and children wear and carry beads to ward off ill luck. Even the horses and donkeys have strands of beads about their necks "to baffle the evil eye," and the long horns of the work oxen are decorated with blue-and-white beads to keep them from falling prey to diseases.

In Athens, Constantinople, Tiflis, Smyrna and other cities of the Levant men of all classes carry short strands of fidget beads, which they play with while walking in the street, riding in street cars and trains just as nervous men in the West finger their watch-chains. Bead shops abound everywhere in the larger cities and general stores and market stalls sell them in the smaller places. Peddlers hawk them in the streets everywhere.

Light-colored amber beads of large size are the latest thing in beads for women. Meerschaum beads are also popular, and for the moment plum beads of all sorts have displaced highly ornate carved beads of the type which Syrians produce in great quantities for exportation.—Washington Post.

Heaps of People There.
A little boy who visited a large city for the first time, was amazed at the number of people on the streets.

When he returned home to the country his mother asked him what he thought of the great city.

"Oh," said he, "there were heaps of people there! I think there must have been a fair on it!"

A lot of people find it easier to use their hands and arms than their heads.

Coffee Dealer a Little Too Enthusiastic in His Praise of Goods He Had Condemned.

"Have you any of Blank & Co.'s coffee?" the stranger asked.

"Plenty of it, sir! How much would you like?" the dealer responded briskly.

"Do your customers generally like this coffee—I would want only something really good," the customer observed cautiously.

"Never had a more popular brand—it is fine—use it regularly on my own table," the dealer assured him.

"Well, I'm glad to hear you speak so well of it now. You wrote me a while back that the goods were so unsatisfactory that you would have to return them unless you were given a further special discount. I'm Blank, you know. Good day!"

An Accommodating Man.
Young Freshleigh drew his car up at the rural garage, and with a wink at his young lady passengers, he said to the proprietor, "For any gasoline?"

"Calculate I have," said the counterman.

"How do you sell it, by the glass or the spoonful?" asked Freshleigh.

"Well, that all depends, mister," was the calm reply. "Mostly, I sell it by the gallon, but when some gold-darned jackass from the city comes along and wants it by the glass, I generally accommodate him. How many glasses do you want?"—Boston Transcript.

No Stops.
"Hear about old Gottrich and his new sun-dial?" asked the man with the red ears.

"Yes; and he had his electrician conceal an arc light in a balcony above the sun-dial, so it would work at night and on cloudy days."

The Full-bodied Flavor of POSTUM CEREAL wins first place among table drinks with those who value health and comfort.

Boil Postum Cereal full fifteen minutes after boiling begins and the taste is delightful.

Costs less than coffee

Made by Postum Cereal Company, Inc. Battle Creek, Mich.