WANTS FINDINGS SET ASIDE.

The Rock Island railroad Saturday afternoon filed in the United States district court objections and exception to the findings of Special Master John F. Stout in the 2-cent passenger litigation between the railroad and the state railway commission. The findings which were filed January 1, were against the Rock Island and in favor of the state commission.

The railroad brought a suit in the United States court asking it to enjoin the railway commission and Attorney General C. A. Davis from enforcing the 2-cent fare act passed by the legislature in 1907. The other railroads doing business in Nebraska joined with the Rock Island and a restraining order was obtained which tied up the law and made it inoperative. Judge T. C. Munger appointed John F. Stout, a prominent Omaha lawyer to take evidence and report his findings to the court. Mr. Stout heard a mass of testimony and then took the case under advisement.

The Rock Island asks the court to set the findings of the special master aside. It files a number of objections to the findings. It alleges that when the special master stated that its earnings were over 10 per cent on intrastate business he reached an incorrect conclusion.

The plaintiff says that the operating income and the total operating expenses of its Nebraska lines from June 30, 1909, to 1914 inclusive and the fiscal years ending June 30, 1915, and December 31, 1917, show a deficiency from business from all sources on its Nebraska lines. The railroad objects to the valuation placed on its property, contending that the special master did not use the right formula in arriving at the facts and that in reality his formula shows a deficit instead of an income, contrary to his findings.

The plaintiff insists that the special master used entirely erroneous figures in arriving at his conclusions. Objection is made to the findings that mail and express matter are distinct branches of the service and in no way are they related to the income derived from purely passenger traffic.

The plaintiff alleges that the findings that the property used in intrastate business in Nebraska is $538,420.36. The special master is alleged to have taken figures from the defendants, which it contends are wrong.

The special master should have separated the branch lines from the main line and objection is made to the holding that a fraction of over 10 per cent is a fair return upon the value of property in the Nebraska intrastate traffic because the evidence showed at the hearing that a net return of 25 per cent would not have been unreasonable or unjust, and that further that the evidence indicated conclusively that the revenue derived from the Nebraska intrastate traffic was unremunerative and confiscatory.

What Edison Did

during the War

YOU wondered—everybody wondered, and practically nobody knew how Edison "did his bit." At last the official announcement is out! Come in and get your copy of the bulletin: "What Did Edison Do During the War?"—or write, if you can't call.

It tells what Edison did while Chairman of the Naval Consulting Board—how he spent months at sea, experimenting and inventing devices for foiling the German submarines.

The bulletin also tells how Edison stood the gaff and kept the price of the New Edison down to bed-rock during the era of high costs and soaring prices. The New Edison has increased in price less than 15% since 1914—part of this increase is war tax. The bulletin also tells Mr. Edison's views on our Budget Plan which makes the New Edison easy to buy.
