

THIS YOUNG MOTHER

Tells Childless Women What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did for Her

Millston, Wis. — "I want to give you a word of praise for your wonderful medicine. We are very fond of children and for a considerable time after we married I feared I would not have any owing to my weak condition. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and now I have a nice strong healthy baby girl. I can honestly say that I did not suffer much more when my baby was born than I used to suffer with my periods before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound years ago. I give all the credit to your medicine and shall always recommend it very highly."

—Mrs. E. H. JANSEN, Millston, Wisconsin.

How can women who are weak and sickly expect or hope to become mothers of healthy children? Their first duty is to themselves. They should overcome the derangement or debility that is dragging them down, and strengthen the entire system, as did Mrs. Jansen, by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and then they will be in a position to give their children the blessing of a good constitution.

STOMACH PAINS GONE

Eatonio Made Him Well

"After suffering ten long months with stomach pains, I have taken Eatonio and am now without any pain whatever. Am as one raised from the dead," writes A. Percifield.

Thousands of stomach sufferers report wonderful relief. Their trouble is too much acidity and gas which Eatonio quickly takes up and carries out, restoring the stomach to a healthy, active condition. Always carry a few Eatonios, take one after eating, food will digest well—you will feel fine. Big box costs only a trifle with your druggist's guarantee.

How Dates Grow.

The Arabs live almost entirely on this fruit when crossing the desert. The date is the fruit of the date-palm, which grows best in Persia, Palestine, Arabia, and the North of Africa. The stem reaches a height of 50 feet to 70 feet and throws on a magnificent crown of large leaves and a number of spadices. In the female plant these bear bunches of dates weighing from 20 to 25 pounds.

DISEASE OF MANY PHASES.

"What is encephalitis meningitis?" Mrs. V. R. W. writes: "What are the symptoms? What are the chances of recovery of a boy 13 years old who has had it for 19 months following an attack of influenza? He is in what the doctors call its third stage—a sort of creeping paralysis affecting his right side. He walks with difficulty and at times he can scarcely feed himself. His voice is shrill. He is sleeping very much better than he has been and his appetite and digestion are good. He weighs 96 pounds, a gain of 10 pounds since last summer."

Answering your question, I presume you have in mind so-called lethargic encephalitis or sleeping sickness. According to Drs. Dunn and Heagy, who described the disease as it appears in America in the American Journal of Medical Sciences, about two-thirds of the cases get well. The longer it lasts the better the chance of recovery. On the basis of this opinion your boy has an excellent chance to recover.

Many writers refer to after effects from which patients do not recover fully for a long time. However, very few cases have so many after effects as does this boy 10 months after the onset of the disease. It is not easy to answer the question as to the symptoms, since they are not uniform. A patient generally begins by having some disturbance of vision. Double vision is the trouble most frequently encountered.

Soon lethargy develops. The patient seems to be in a natural deep sleep, from which he can be awakened and kept awake for a short time. At this stage it will be a fair guess that there is some trouble with the brain or cord or the membranes surrounding them and the physician will draw off some of the spinal fluid for microscopic and chemist examination. Neither examination will show any evidence of trouble. Drs. Dunn and Heagy say that the diagnosis rests on trouble with vision, lethargy, and a negative spinal fluid.

Sweating is a prominent symptom. Another striking peculiarity is the lack of fever, considering the severity of the illness. If there is any fever it is low and it does not last long. In an analysis of the symptoms in 115 cases, double vision was the first symptom in 19, and was present in 55. Disturbance in one or another nerve controlling eye muscles was present in 12 cases. In 15 cases there was paralysis of the great motor nerve of the face. There was lethargy in 75 cases. It was the first symptom noticed in 54. Insomnia preceded the lethargy in four cases. Headache was the first symptom in 12 cases. Trembling was present in 35 cases and cataplexy in 2.

Thus we see that no one symptom was present in all the cases. Nor was any combinations of symptoms present in every case. Is it any wonder that physicians disagree in their diagnoses sometimes? Tanson, reviewing the history of the disease in France, says in 1870 the type changed from one in which lethargy dominated to one in which spasmodic contraction of muscles, trembling, and nervous irritability overshadowed the other symptoms.

A Mexican Plea. "Ah, Qué bonitos Son los enanos, Los chiquititos, Y Melicanos."

How jolly are the dwarfs, the little ones, the Mexicans.

Hidden by the slinging of wind through sugar cane. Out comes the pretty one, Out comes the ugly one, Out comes the dwarf with the wicked smile and thin.

The little women caper and simper and flutter fans. The little men laugh, stamp, strut and stamp again.

Dance to the bagpipe drone Of insect semitone Swelling from ground slashed with light like zebra skin.

The little Cardinal, the humming bird whose feathers flare Like flame across the valley of volcanic stone.

Like an arrow from a rainbow That the armored plants have lain low. Stops to watch the dwarfs as they dance out of sight.

Hair long and black as jet, is floating yet on amber air. Honey shaded by the shadow of Popocatepetl's cone.

Their fluttering rebobos Like purple petals' roses Fall through tropic din with a clatter of light.

The crooked dwarf now ripples the strings of a mandolin, His floating voice has wings that brush us like a butterfly.

Music fills the mountains With a riot of fountain. That sprays back on the hot plain like a waterfall.

Smaller grow the dwarfs, singing "I'll bring shoes of satin," Smaller they grow, fade to golden notes, then die.

Where is the pretty one, Where is the ugly one, Where is that tongue of flame, the little Cardinal?

'ARMOUR-SWIFT PLAN FOR PLANT DEMOCRACY, BUNK'

—DENNIS LANE

Gompers at Chicago Conference—Hoover and Wallace Offer to Mediate—U. S. to Probe Railway Heads.

Chicago, March 15.—Dennis Lane, secretary treasurer of the Meat Cutters and Butcher Workers, Monday night characterized the plan of Armour & Co. and Swift & Co. for "plant democracy" as "bunk".

Those two packing companies Monday announced they were going to give their employes a voice in plant management. The plan provides that employees elect delegates to a general board. The management will have an equal number of representatives on the board.

This body will make recommendations on employment, wages, working conditions, sanitation, recreation and matters of interest to the men. Execution, however, will remain in the hands of management.

This announcement came while both the packers and employes were preparing for their conference next Monday with Secretary of Labor Davis, when the wage controversy will be mediated.

"Public Won't Be Deceived."

"The public will not be deceived by this attempt to slip one over," said Mr. Lane. "Nor will the men become confused and stand for it. Unfortunately for his purpose, Mr. Armour cuts wages arbitrarily."

"Mr. Armour would now organize a company union which won't have the power to consider the cut and change in working schedules already effected. Instead, he says, that the next time he wants to cut wages he will put it up to the board on which the labor side will have representation but which will be controlled by Mr. Armour."

Lane will be one of the two men who will represent the unions at the conference Monday. He has asked that the heads of the packing houses be present.

No Trouble At Omaha Plants.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, will arrive in Chicago Tuesday to confer with employes here. Although the men had threatened to strike Monday, they decided to await the outcome of the conference with Secretary Davis. There were no disturbances here. Dispatches from Omaha say the packing districts of that city are quiet.

TWO BIG FIVE HEADS ARRIVE IN WASHINGTON

Washington, March 15.—Two representatives of "the big five" packers arrived in Washington Monday to take part in a conference called by Secretary of Labor Davis to settle the dispute between the packing companies and their employes relative to a 12 1/2 per cent. decrease in wages which became effective Monday.

Representatives of the packing houses employes have not arrived. Secretary Davis Monday afternoon wired Dennis Lane, secretary of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workers of North America, asking him to postpone the first meeting of the arbitration council from Friday to Monday, March 21.

The packers are represented by two Chicago attorneys, James G. Condon and Carol Meyer. One of the representatives of the packing house employes is expected to be Dennis Lane. The other has not been designated.

At the request of Secretary Davis, Secretary of Commerce, Herbert Hoover and Secretary of Agriculture, Henry C. Wallace, have consented to represent the government on the mediation board.

CUYLER, ATTERBURY, GRAY TO TESTIFY

Chicago, March 15.—At the request of Frank P. Walsh, attorney for the packers, the federal wage board Monday summoned four railroad executives to testify at the wage hearing Wednesday morning.

The men who have been called are T. DeWitt Cuyler, chairman of the railway executives association; Robert H. Binker, his assistant; W. W. Atterbury, vice president of the Pennsylvania lines, and Carl R. Gray, president of the Union Pacific.

Mr. Walsh informed the board it would be impossible for him to go on with his case unless he could question railway executives. He charged a conspiracy between the railroads and the packers to cut wages and increase working hours.

"Thousands of jobless men and women are being driven to begging in order to get a place to sleep," Mr. Walsh said in charging that a conspiracy exists to break labor unions.

"When this board comes to consider wage schedules," he continued, "the railroad owners will argue that wages of railroad workers should be reduced because the wages of packing house employes have been lowered."

"The packers will argue that wages in that industry must be reduced because railroad wages are about to be reduced. I for one, am apprehensive of the economic and political consequences that will ensue when we have hordes of hungry men, women and children in this country."

WOMAN SEES BURGLAR GET HER $40,000 GEMS

Lying motionless in bed, Mrs. DeMossin, through half closed eyes saw the intruder rather up gems laid tiptoe out of the apartment.

CLARA, HERSELF, DON STAND TO SAY "I AM INNOCENT"

Widow of Dead Millionaire Tells Startling Story About Him and Girl—Defense's Love Notes Bared.

BY SAM BLAIR.

Ardmore, Okla., March 15.—Clara Smith Hamon takes the witness stand Tuesday in her own behalf, the last direct testimony witness in the trial which is to determine whether she shall be punished for the fatal shooting of Jake L. Hamon, politician and southwest empire builder.

The widow testifies.

Defense testimony already entered in direct and cross-examination has given clear indication of the story she can be expected to tell. This story will contain few novelties and it is assured she will repeat a version of the shooting coincident with that given in interviews with this correspondent and published after I found her last December in Chihuahua, Mexico. So far evidence in chief is concerned, the state has played its last card in the game of which a woman's freedom is the stake. The last card—the state's last witness—was the widow of the oil king. At points her testimony may have been technically out of bounds but the defense attorneys seemed to have little objection to bringing forth the deluge of tears the indication of which showed in the dimness of her eyes, the tight clenching of her fingers and the contractions that came and went across her throat. Not a word of cross-examination was asked.

Was on Clara's Heels.

Mrs. Hamon, costumed in the dead black that compels attention, raised her head high when she took the witness stand, gazed fixedly above the jurors' heads and began telling an ordinary story of an ordinary early married life. But very abruptly the narrative swerved from the usual. She was telling of her first visit to Ardmore, hard on the heels of her husband and Clara Smith eight years ago. She was describing the room into which she had forced an entrance and in which Hamon and the defendant had lived together. "She was speaking with as much rapidity as possible, realizing, perhaps, that her statement was not admissible as evidence and determined, therefore, to pour out the words before the expected objection.

Again Visited Their Rooms.

"I saw in the room a picture of Miss Smith with a very beautiful dress on—a beautiful dress indeed. The attorney general noted the evidences of breaking restraint. The attorney general did not desire that the state be accused of the staging a tear appeal to the jury. He asked some other questions, and, finally, brought the subject of the examination around to Mrs. Hamon's second visit to Ardmore, about three years ago. She told again of visiting the Jake Hamon-Clara Smith rooms in the Randolph hotel here.

Demanded Clara's Fur Coats.

She told of seeing Clara Smith Hamon whirl and leave one of the communicating rooms as she entered. She told of finding in the woman's room a revolver, which she confiscated, photographs of her husband, which she requisitioned, and two "beautiful fur coats."

Exhibit Love Letters.

"And she had two magnificent fur coats and I never in my life even had one fur coat," she cried with a touch of violence that brought on a defense attorney to his feet with an unconscious objection.

Of course, the objection held good, but it was evident that the defense had not obtained any complaint against the testimony of this one witness. "Mrs. Testimony" was effective. Just how effective could only be determined when the jury Tuesday will receive testimony of the other woman. Before the state closed its testimony, three exhibits were exhibited. Two were love letters, written by Clara Smith, as she was then—in 1915—before her marriage to Jake Hamon's nephew, through which she entitled herself to the name of Hamon. The third was an unexplained contract, which read:

"For a consideration of $1 and other valuable considerations, the receipt of which is hereby acknowledged, I hereby release any and all claims that I have or may have against Jake L. Hamon and this is in settlement in full for relations existing between us and for claims of money.

(Signed) "Clara Smith."
Clara Warned Hamon.

The date of the contract was January 27, 1916. The letters were sent from Kansas City. One of these letters begins with a condemnation of Hamon because he permitted "Mrs. H." to write one of Clara's associates "who didn't even know you were married" and to tell "everything."

"I won't do that any longer," wrote Clara. "And I'm telling you for the last time. If you don't stop it I will one way or the other. I know you can do that much to keep me. If you ever go to see her again, don't speak to me."

POTTER PALMER'S HEIRS GET TAX MONEY BACK

Chicago, March 15.—Judge George Paige in federal court Monday ordered the collector of internal revenue to pay the heirs of Potter Palmer $1,665,050.

This amount was collected as an inheritance tax on the estate of the Chicago millionaire. Attorneys for the heirs brought suit, claiming that the heirs brought suit, claiming that Potter Palmer died before the law was passed and that the government had no right to the tax. Judge Paige upheld their contention.

HARDING TO ASK ALLIES TO BEGIN PAYING AMERICA

In Address to Congress April 11 He'll Stress This—Ready To Push Separate Peace—Tariff Plans Made.

Washington, March 15.—The special congress is to be called by President Harding for April 11, it was formally announced in the White House Monday, by Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts, following a conference with the executive.

It is understood that Senator Lodge told the president that congress would be unprepared to be convened by April 4, the date most frequently mentioned for the calling of the special session. President Harding then delegated Senator Lodge to announce that the call will be issued for the later date.

To Follow Wilsonian Plan.

The president, it was learned Monday, will start preparation of his first message to congress before the end of the week and will follow the custom revived by his predecessor, President Wilson, in reading the address personally before a joint session of both houses; many subjects dealing with our foreign relations, untouched by his inaugural, will be taken up by President Harding in his message. Ranking first in importance will be a declaration of policy regarding repayment to the United States of the $10,000,000,000 of the war loans to the allies. The president, it is understood on high authority, will declare flatly for early initial payments on capital and interest of the money advanced by this country to the allies.

Recommendations by the president for a separate peace with Germany and Austria will be followed by the passage of the Knox resolution declaring the termination of the technical state of the war, it is understood.

To Reorganize Departments.

Reorganization of the executive departments, together with recommendations for creating a new department of education and public welfare, also is to be included by the president in his address, along with a number of other subjects. It is understood that the message is to be a long one, specifically setting forth the necessity for new legislation along many lines.

President Harding on Monday asked the Senate to remain in session over Tuesday, in order that he may send in more nominations for confirmation. Senate leaders signified compliance with this request, but are understood to be prepared to adjourn Tuesday night.

BY JOHN GLEISSNER.

Washington, March 15.—Congress will pass an anti-dumping bill to protect American markets against the wholesale importation of European goods at ruinously low prices, as soon as it convenes in special session April 11.

Members of the Senate finance committee and the house ways and means committee decided this Monday, after a protracted session attended by the Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and a corps of his assistants.

At the same time it was agreed, the basis of collecting duties on imported goods should at once be made the value of the goods in the American market and not the value in the country of origin. This would be accomplished by an amendment to the existing Underwood tariff and, it is believed, would greatly increase revenues and at the same time afford protection.

For Action on Tariff.

The disputed question of whether enactment of a permanent tariff law or new revenue laws should first engage attention was not finally determined, although opinion was overwhelmingly in favor of giving the tariff precedence. Senator Fenrose, chairman of the finance committee of the upper chamber and Chairman Fordney of the house ways and means committee, will lay the matter before President Harding Tuesday, at which time it is expected a definite program may be agreed upon.

The conferees also reached these conclusions:

1. The plan of an emergency tariff should be abandoned, with the anti-dumping bill and the new method of collecting tariff serving as a substitute.
2. Demands of the farmers for protection should receive early and adequate attention.
3. Provisions should be made in the revenue revision for raising funds necessary to put the soldier bonus into operation.
4. The permanent tariff should yield $700,000,000 annually or more, an amount equal to two and a half times the present tariff.
5. Revenue laws and the tariff should be designed to bring in approximately $5,000,000,000 annually, an amount no less than now required.

HOMELESS IN VIENNA NOW NUMBER 40,000

Vienna, March 15.—At the municipal "Office for Dwellings" here 40,000 names are on file of people who are absolutely homeless. JOSEPH A. YORK, well-known business man of Portland, Me., who says he feels twenty years younger and has gained sixteen pounds on four bottles of Tanlac. Declares he can now eat three square meals a day.

"I am now able to eat three square meals a day for the first time in two years," was the emphatic statement made recently by Joseph A. York, well-known business man and highly respected citizen of Portland, Maine.

"I am now sixty-nine years of age, and in all my life I have never run across a medicine that I consider in a class with Tanlac. I have just finished my fourth bottle and this medicine has benefited me even beyond my greatest hopes. Besides gaining sixteen pounds in weight, I have been built up and strengthened until I feel all of twenty years younger."

"For the past two years I have been in a miserably run-down condition, and was compelled a short time ago to give up all idea of business as I was too weak to look after anything. I was nervous, worn-out, had no appetite, and suffered most all the time with indigestion. Some days I would eat scarcely anything; in fact I was afraid to eat because I knew I would suffer afterward. Sometimes I had such severe cramping pains after eating that I would almost die. My nerves were all unstrung and the least thing would worry me and I never could get a good night's sound sleep. In fact I just lost interest in everything and was greatly discouraged over my condition."

"The ordinary treatment failed to do me any good, and as I had read so many statements from people I know here in Portland who had been benefited by Tanlac, I decided to give it a trial. And now I know for myself what it will do, for I have simply taken a new lease on life. I am now able to look after my work as usual, and never felt better in my life. I am able to eat three hearty meals a day and everything agrees with me perfectly. I eat anything I want and never feel a touch of indigestion. I never thought there was a medicine that could do me so much good, and I am only too glad to have the facts about my case given to the public."

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.—Adv.
