

Opening Farmers Produce Station Cream, Eggs, Poultry

Under the Farm Bureau Marketing Plan the first Produce Station will open

Next Saturday, July 2, 1921

In the Arthur Ryan Building, Across the Street From the Gallagher Store

To make a profit on farm produce it seems necessary to shorten the route from the producer to the consumer. That is the policy the Farm Bureau expects to carry out in its marketing program, which is just starting. Ice cream will be served free to all visiting the station the first day whether you have produce or not. The station is yours and it will be a success if you patronize it.

The Station is Located in the Arthur Ryan Building, Across the Street from the Gallagher Store.

The Chevrolet garage and sales agency moved to the Brennan store building to accommodate us.

Since we would not deal with Swift & Company they have put in a station. Do not get the locations mixed up and leave your produce at the wrong place. Make the business big from the first day. Bring in your Cream, Eggs and Poultry Saturday. Produce will be purchased from all farmers. CASH WILL BE PAID TO ALL.

LOCATES REFORMATORY NEAR LINCOLN

The State Board of Control have located the reformatory in Lancaster county, near the city of Lincoln, having purchased the old Hayward Military Academy building, three miles outside the city of Lincoln, from a group of Lincoln capitalists. They will attempt to convert this building into a suitable building to be used as a reformatory. They paid $37,500 for the building and will have to purchase 200 or 300 acres of land adjacent thereto, which will cost in the neighborhood of $300 per acre. It is our opinion that there is no economy in the purchase of this old building, as it will have to be entirely remodeled before it can be used for the purpose for which it was purchased, and oftentimes the cost of remodeling exceeds the cost of erecting a new building. The Lincoln correspondent of the World-Herald has the following regarding the location of the reformatory in a recent issue of that paper: "Lincoln politicians and business men are trying to keep cool and talking about the purchase of the Western Military Academy building west of the city by the board of control for the new state reformatory. "The board was being vigorously criticized for its action. "It is false economy to buy an old building, a 'dead horse' even for $37,500, the critics were declaring when nobody knows just how much more it is going to take to make it into a reformatory where prisoners are to be kept. It is a poor location, others said. It should have been located at Fremont or Auburn, others thought. The building will have to be practically torn down and rebuilt in order to put it into shape for a reformatory, it was declared. "The word goes around that the board of control bought a building," one man said. "It is better to say that someone sold a building." "Some of the critics were of the opinion that the purchase of the building was in violation of the law passed by the last session of the legislature, which appropriated $300,000 for the erection of the new state reformatory. "The law specified that a building was to be built and that the work was to be done by convict labor" it was said today. "The board is not building a building."

Mike Ford is the fastest runner in the world, bar none. He can beat Erny Reed, Leo Mullen or J. D. Cronin, all of whom claim to be some step-pers. Their diversion is attempting to run down jack rabbits. Mr. Ford doesn't attempt, but does run them down and captures them alive. Last Sunday evening while the four were driving out near the old Sauser place north of town they scared up a young blacktail jack rabbit and immediately got out of the car and took after the rabbit across a field of listed corn. The other three soon gave up the chase, but Ford kept on and in a final spurt just before the rabbit reached the fence on the opposite side of the field overtook and picked up his victim alive. The rabbit was brought to town and given to little Miss Quilty, who is taming it. Any other little kid wanting a live jack rabbit just write a letter to Mr. Michael Ford, General Delivery, O'Neill, and he will run another one down next Sunday. Mr. Ford never runs on week days.

When approaching a horse from the rear, in an automobile, one should never honk the horn harshly or tauntingly, says Mike Horiskey, and to substantiate his assertion Mr. Horiskey is relating an incident of Sunday afternoon, when with a companion, in his Packard, he was viewing the bounteous crops north of the city. It seems that during the drive he overtook a band of horses being driven in the same direction. Horiskey honked the honker mildly and all the horses but one immediately trotted from the roadway to the side ditches. The one, deep in meditation over his sad plight of being a working horse in hot weather, paid no attention to the clarion warning to vacate and continued to saunter on his chosen path. Repeated blasts failed to arouse him from his mood and finally the car ran up almost upon him and the horn shrieked hoarsely. Then Dobbin expressed his displeasure with automobiles with a glance behind and kicked a front lamp off, bracket and all, before he left the roadway.

Omaha News: "An Omaha bank closed its doors the other day.

"Most Omahans will recall when such an event would have produced more or less hysteria, and brought a mob of depositors to storm the doors of this and other banks.

"Today we see state and bank officials going quietly about the adjustment of affairs, and another bank calmly preparing to take over the defunct institution's deposits.

"The guarantee fund is the answer."

This is the only bank in O'Neill offering this protection.
