SENATOR IS IN TROUBLE BY IMPOSING SILENCE

Tells Eight Hundred Persons In Great Confidence That He Will Save the Cattle Men.

Washington, June 27.—Senator John E. Kendrick of Wyoming, is in a peck of trouble.

In the first place he is a Democrat and that is a source of trouble in a Republican administration elected by a popular majority of eleven millions.

He also attempted to lead not only his Democratic colleagues but his Republican ones as well into supporting a packers' bill partly fathered by himself. He was to be the great savior of the cattle and sheep men from the ravages of the Chicago meat packers.

But just as he was about to put it over the ground slipped from under him and the safe and sane House bill regulating the packers was adopted as a substitute by a majority of three votes and Kendrick was left in the lurch.

But the chief reason for the peck of trouble is that he wrote a confidential letter to eight hundred persons and instructed each of them to keep it a state secret.

He wrote this letter to bankers and stock men with the evident intention of interesting them in the passage of a bill proposed by a Republican Senator.

He, a Democrat in a Republican Senate, thought to interest these men in a bill proposed by him authorizing the War Finance Corporation to lend $50,000,000 for the relief of the live stock interests. "As a member of the Committee on Banking and Currency I have been actively interested in such bills as have come before us looking toward relief for our live stock and farm interests," he says. "The Bursum bill, among others before our committee, provided for the employment of the earnings of the federal reserve banks as loans to the live stock producers. It seems to me that the plan could not fail to be beneficial to the live stock interests if put into effect and the money loaned with as little delay as possible, conditioned of course, upon necessary discretion and good judgment as to security."

NOT FOR HER

Houston Post: An old dame at a railway station asked a porter where she could get her ticket. The man pointed in the direction of the ticket office. "You can get it there," he said, "through the pigeonhole."

"Get away with you, idiot!" she exclaimed. "How can I get through that little hole? I ain't no pigeon!"

EDITORIAL GRAFT

Birmingham Age-Herald: "Hum!" sighed the editor of the Chigerville Clarion, as he glanced over a poem, pinched off the stamp inclosed for its return, if not available, and threw the manuscript into his waste basket.

"Aren't you going to send back that poem to the author?" asked the visitor who had dropped in for a little chat.

"Nope," said the editor. "I charge the stamp for reading it."

WELL MIXED

Detroit Free Press: William Lyon Phelps, the brilliant occupant of the English chair at Yale, has added a new mixed metaphor to his large and amusing collection. This addition is from one of the novels of W. L. George, the English writer whose recent American lecture tours failed so lamentably.

Mr. George's gorgeously mixed metaphor runs:

"The cloud that tried to stab their happiness was only a false rumor whose bitter taste could not splinter the radiance nor dim the effervescence of their joy."

EDITOR LEAVES TOWN.

Capper's Weekly: In a recent letter to The Breeder's Gazette, Mr. F. M. Woods, of Lancaster county, Nebraska told how a Nebraska printer got an auction sale and an account of a wedding mixed together. The resulting article, wrote Mr. Woods, read like this:

"Married at the home of the bride's township one mile north and two miles east of Mr. and Mrs. John Jones, highly respected residents of Thursday, Jan. 27, Miss Ethel Drinkwater by the Rev. 18 head of Shorthorns consisting of four bridesmaids dressed in pale blue and carrying calves by their sides. They had tulle veils * * * sired by the noted Kentucky jack Bombina 3d. Also forty-six head of hogs, including the groom's father from North Dakota, where he is engaged in missionary work, and is immuned by the double process. These shotes are thrifty, and all relatives of the bride and groom. They all gathered in the spacious dining room after the ceremony, and partook of 300 bushels of seed oats; 1,000 bushels of corn, 10 large sacks of millet and alfalfa. The bride is the youngest daughter of one trusty incubator, capacity 600 eggs, one Jno. Deere five-room cottage and a trip to Omaha, after which they drew 10 per cent interest from date. Free lunch at noon."

CALLED DOWN.

Birmingham Age-Herald: "That new floorwalker gets on my nerves," said Estelle, at the handkerchief counter.

"Mine, too," said Bertha, the gloves saleslady. "Thinks because a poor girl has to earn her own living, she's a slave, yeah, a slave. I gave him a piece of my mind this morning."

"What did you say?"

He strolls up an' says, 'Miss Burke, show a little more interest in the customers, please, an' I upped na' told him we wasn't staging a department store scene an' he wasn't no movie director."

Houston Post: Walter found his mamma talking to a very stout woman.

"Walter," said his mother, "this is your great-aunt."

"Yes," said Walter, gazing at her ample proportions, "she looks it!"

What Makes A Good Tire?

A GOOD TIRE cannot be determined by its tread, side wall or attractive appearance.

So many manufacturers, believing that the public would swallow "good looks" and forget quality, have flooded the market with inferior tires.

Every car owner should remember that a tire is only as good as its service. Service is the only reason for buying a tire.

Conditions in the tire market today are such that the car owner and dealer cannot afford to put money in anything but standard, dependable tires. Low price is no assurance of a good buy. Unsatisfactory tires are not cheap at any price.

You make no mistake with Millers—the most talked-about tire in America.
