SOLD IN NEW YORK

Biggest Thing of Kind Ever Seen in That State, Declares Big Wholesaler.

The fact that 625,000 bottles of Tanlac have been sold in the state of New York since its introduction there less than one year ago, is a big business item that will attract unusual attention throughout the entire East, for nothing like it has ever happened before. It breaks all records.

Mr. George B. Evans, manager of the Gibson-Snow Company, the well-known wholesale druggists, with branches in Albany, Buffalo, Rochester and Syracuse, recently announced that the preparation was now selling in their trade territories alone at the phenomenal rate of approximately 500,000 bottles a year.

"If the present rate continues," said Mr. Evans, "this rate alone will probably require considerably over 750,000 bottles a year. This is a tremendous figure, but I am really conservative in making this statement."

Conserving Morals.

"You'll have to eliminate that murder scene," said the motion-picture censor.

"But the man has to be killed, or the whole plot is spoiled."

"Cut out the murder."

"Oh, all right. We'll flash a few lines on the screen stating that the conspirators bribed a chef to prepare spoiled fish for their victim and he died of ptomaine poison."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS

is greatly relieved by constitutional treatment. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced, your hearing may be destroyed forever. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system, thus reducing the inflammation and assisting Nature in restoring normal conditions.

"Wretch, out of my sight!"
"I was a man when I met you!"
"You're a worm now!"
"Gosh!" exclaimed the leading man as he paused to mop his brow, "this is warm work."
"We're not getting a nickel for it, either," groaned the leading lady.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Weak and Miserable?

Does the least exertion tire you out? Feel "blue" and worried and have daily backache, lameness, headaches, dizziness, and kidney irregularities? Sick kidneys are often to blame for this unhappy state. You must act quickly to prevent more serious trouble. Use Doan's Kidney Pills, the remedy recommended everywhere by grateful users. Ask your neighbor!

A South Dakota Case

Mrs. R. N. Banks, Howard, S. D., says: "Before taking Doan's Kidney Pills my kidneys were weak and I had such backaches I could hardly keep on my feet. I got up mornings, so tired I often had to go back to bed. My kidneys acted irregularly, too. Doan's Kidney Pills fixed up my kidneys and strengthened my back and I felt better in every way."

A Nightgown Tyranny.

William G. Shepherd, in Leslie's Weekly.

There is a federal law against Ku Klux Klanism. It was passed in 1871 after congress had investigated the white riders and their activities. This law calls night riding "rebellion." It makes it a "high crime" to "go upon the highways or upon the premises of another with the intent to deprive any person of the protection of the law; to hinder state authorities from providing such protection; to impede the course of justice in any manner."

President Grant was, and other presidents likewise are, authorized by this law to employ the army and navy, if necessary, to restore order in any state where "rebellion" exists, if the authorities fail to protect citizens from offenses of marauders. The president may suspend the writ of habeas corpus in any state where local officials cannot preserve the peace against "rebellion." No person may act as a junior in a case against a member of the forbidden "combination or conspiracy" who cannot swear that he has not been a member of the organization. All cases, under the law, are to be tried in federal courts. Any person who has knowledge that an offense is committed, and does not notify the authorities, can be fined $5,000, the money to go to the widow, or next of kin, of the person losing his life in "such outrage."

The penalty for Ku Klux Klanism, though the law does not specifically mention the Ku Klux Klan, is a fine of from $500 to $5,000; imprisonment, with or without hard labor, for six months to six years. Injured persons may also collect damages from the guilty parties.

Give me a cable from Atlantic, Ga., to Moscow or to Rome, and I will prove, in a few days, to newspaper readers Russians or Italians or any other folks where the cable leads, that certain portions of the United States are uncivilized places, regions of horrors.

When I was in Russia, a man who owned a flour mill was awakened at night in his home by peasants whose flour he had ground for many years and dragged into the yard; where he was stripped and whipped within an inch of his life. Then he was driven out of the village. Hundreds and thousands of such cases occurred in Russia, and the press reports of these incidents have caused the vast majority of Americans to believe Russia utterly uncivilized.

While I was in Italy, a poet named D'Annunzio took it into his head to supersede his government, and to carry out what, he thought, were the rights of Italy. He reigned with bloodshed and terror. While he was in power, the Italian government was the laughing stock of the world, and none of the nations would make any treaties or pacts with her, until she had shown her power over D'Annunzio. Newspaper reports of the "earrings-on" of D'Annunzio caused the world to doubt the quality of Italy's civilization. Italy herself finally put herself right in the eyes of the world by crushing D'Annunzio.

If you were to place a Russian or an Italian correspondent in some of the states in our country today, and tell him to find the sort of stories that I sought for in Russia or Italy in 1917 and 1918, he would have as easy a time as I had in getting the news he wanted—and, what's more, he would be able to create, in the minds of his distant readers, an impression of the United States that would cause Russians or Italians to look on the place with horror.

In other words, there are districts of the United States today as lawless, and as liable to witness horrible happenings, as any district in Russia or Italy or upset Germany or topsyturvy Poland or any other European land which we Americans look on as suffering from after war lawlessness. And this lawlessness, strange to say, is being committed not by illiterate and misused peasants, by bolshevists or by the paid soldiers of a mad poet; but by alleged good citizens of the middle classes, strangely moved to an alleged desire to enforce law by taking the law into their own hands.

In one of the great new towns of Texas recently, I sat in a magnificent restaurant where a body of business men were holding a noon day luncheon. The citizen with whom I was luncheon lowered his voice and said to me: "At least one third of those men belong to the Ku Klux Klan."
"What?" I said. "Do you actually mean to say that your best business men belong to the Klan?"
"Oh, not our best," he said. "Not our gentlemen. Only the brutal ones, who got the idea, during the war, what with the Liberty loan drives and the spy hunts, and so forth, that they were the saviors of the community."

The long and short of the matter is that an organization which calls itself the Ku Klux Klan is "riding" again in the Ku Klux Klan. Good citizens are protesting against its outrages; the press of the south is almost solidly against its activities; state legislatures are passing laws against it; and officers of the law are doing their best to run down its various local membership. It is thriving with difficulty in many communities; and yet, if we are to trust the word of its officials, it is growing in membership, both north and south, at the rate of 5,000 members a week.

From American Legion Weekly.
The occupants of the parlor car of the limited were startled by the abrupt entrance of two masked bandits.

"Trow up yer hands," commanded the bigger of the two. "We're goin' to rob all the gents and kess all the gals."
"No, pardner," remonstrated the smaller one gallantly. "We'll rob the gents but we'll leave the ladies alone."
"Mind your own business, young fellow," snapped a female passenger of uncertain age. "The big man is robbing this train."

Shoestring Remedy for Colds.

The next time you feel that you are catching a cold, stoop over it and tie your shoe. While you are at it you might as well tie both shoes. Loosen the strings and make a good job of the tying. The principle of the shoestring remedy is that in stooping over the blood is brought to the head and the circulation is otherwise favorably affected. Where there is perfect blood circulation there is immunity from the taking of cold.

Some More Truths.

WOULD you use a steam shovel to move a pebble? Certainly not. Implements are built according to the work they have to do.

Would you use a grown-up's remedy for your baby's ills? Certainly not. Remedies are prepared according to the work THEY have to do.

All this is preliminary to reminding you that Fletcher's Castoria was sought out, found and is prepared solely as a remedy for Infants and Children. And let this be a warning against Substitutes, Counterfeits and the Just-as-good stuff that may be all right for you in all your strength, but dangerous for the little babe.

All the mother-love that lies within your heart cries out to you: Be true to Baby. And being true to Baby you will keep in the house remedies specially prepared for babies as you would a baby's food, hairbrush, toothbrush or sponge.

Are You Prepared?

A doctor in the house all the time would be a good idea. Yet you can't afford to keep a doctor in the family to keep baby well or prevent sickness. But you can do almost the same thing by having at hand a bottle of Fletcher's Castoria, because it is a wonderful remedy for indigestion, colic, feverishness, fretfulness and all the other disorders that result from common ailments that babies have.

Fletcher's Castoria is perfectly safe to use. It is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. Children cry for Fletcher's Castoria, and mothers recommend it because they have found it a comfort to children and a mother's friend.

If you love your baby, you know how sweet it is to be able to help baby when trouble comes. You cannot always call upon a doctor. But doctors have nothing but good to say of Fletcher's Castoria, because they know that it can only do good—that it can't do any harm—and they wouldn't want you to use for baby a remedy that you would use for yourself.

OBJECTION WOULD NOT LAST

Suitor More Than Willing to Remove Cause for Prospective Father-in-Law's Ill Will.

The two lovers were talking over their troubles, particularly the parental objections offered to their marriage. "But," said the youth, "I can't for the life of me see why your father should place any obstacle in the way of our marriage."
"Well," explained the girl after some reflection, "I think it stands this way: Father, you know, is always boasting of his lineage. He is forever saying that his ancestors were gentlemen of leisure like himself, and that you have to work for a living."
"Well," continued the suitor, "tell him that I don't expect to after we are married."

The Burden of a Name.
son rose from his bed and began to mope," said a man at the club the other evening. "I think the most striking reason for this I ever read," he continued, "was that given by the second Duke of Wellington. Some one remarked to him: 'I cannot understand how it is that you with your interest in and knowledge of public affairs have taken so little part in them.'"
"Ah," replied the duke, "if you had sat so long under the shadow of a great tree you would have been as colorless as I!"—Boston Transcript.

Our Business.

It is therefore our business carefully to cultivate in our minds, to rear to the most perfect vigor and maturity, every sort of generous and honest feeling that belongs to our nature.—Edmund Burke.

Do you discriminate at the dining table—or are you thoughtless?

In thousands of homes, a "line" is drawn at the breakfast table. Tea or coffee is served for "grown-ups" and Postum for children. But some parents do not discriminate. Caffeine and tannin, the injurious contents of coffee and tea, seriously retard the development of the delicate nerve tissues in children.

Consequently, instead of rich, satisfying Postum, children are overstimulated by the drugs in tea and coffee; and so may grow up irritable and nervous. Any doctor can tell you that this is a great evil and should be corrected.

Although some parents feel a certain justification for the personal indulgence in coffee, yet the harm to them may be equally serious. It may take a little while longer for the drugs in coffee and tea to affect an older person, but in many cases the nervous system and allied bodily functions will become weakened. The surest way to avoid such possibilities is to quit coffee entirely and drink Postum instead. The change permits you to get sound, restful sleep.

Postum is the well-known, meal-time beverage. Like thousands of others you will like it because, in flavor, it is much like a high-grade coffee.

Do away with the distinction at the table. Serve delicious Postum, piping hot, to all the family. One week's trial and it is likely that you'll never return to tea and coffee.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink with the meal) is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes.
