UNSHAKEN TESTIMONY.
Time is the test of truth. And Doan's Kidney Pills have stood the test in O'Neill. No O'Neill resident who suffers backache, or annoying urinary ills can remain unconvinced by this twice-told testimony.

Mrs. E. B. Jones, O'Neill, says: "I suffered with backache. While sitting still the trouble wasn't so bad but when I went to get up I could hardly stand the sharp, knife-like pains. When I bent or walked around the misery was terrible. My kidneys were in a very disordered condition so I got Doan's Kidney Pills and after using a couple boxes the trouble was all gone." (Statement given June 21, 1916.)

On June 14, 1920, Mrs. Jones said:
"I think Doan's Kidney Pills are a wonderful remedy. I gladly confirm my former statement in which I told what Doan's had done for me."

SEE CHANGE IN PAPAL POLICY New Pope Believed Liberal In His Leanings.

Rome, Feb. 6.—Cardinal Achille Ratti, archbishop of Milan, has been chosen supreme pontiff of the Roman Catholic church to succeed the late Pope Benedict XV. His coronation as Pius XI will take place February 12.
After the announcement of his election the pope appeared on the outside balcony of St. Peter's and bestowed the benediction on thousands who waited patiently in the rain in St. Peter's square—the first time this occurred since the breach between the state and the church in 1870. For fifty-two years the blessing had been bestowed from within the basilica.

The election was completed without American participation. Cardinal O'Connell, archbishop of Boston, arrived when the new pope was blessing the multitude.
"Universal pacification" is the keynote of the new pope's policy, as indicated in a statement issued by Prince Chigi, marshal of the conclave, which made reference to the first blessing bestowed by Pius XI. Continual conciliation inaugurated by his predecessor, probable reconciliation of the state and church which has been esteemed for so many years, and an appeal to all nations to restore peace are said to constitute the most essential aims of the vatican policy.

Cardinal Gasparri will retain his office as papal secretary of state. This announcement, immediately after Pius XI had assumed the high pontificate, is regarded as significant, as Benedict XV required twenty-four hours for the appointment of Cardinal Gasparri and never previously had a newly elected pontiff elected chosen his secretary of state before two or three days.
That the new pope has decided to exercise his full authority was shown when some cardinals, attached to what has become known as the "irrecon-ciliables," attempted to persuade him not to appear on the outside balcony.
He listened to the arguments for a few moments and then said:

"Remember I am no longer a cardinal. I am the supreme pontiff now." The diplomatic corps and papal aristocracy were received in the vatican this afternoon. His holiness was accompanied by his entourage and escorted by noble guards in their red dress uniforms, and the Swiss guards in medieval costumes.

As the pontiff moved slowly along all knelt. He offered his hand and it was reverently kissed; then he proceeded to Clementine hall, where others received the papal benediction.

There was a touch of melancholy sadness and disappointment to hundreds of Americans mingling among the thousands in St. Peter's square, when Cardinal Bisleti dean of the cardinals deacons, appeared on the balcony of St. Peter's and shouted: "I bring you great joy."

The words spelled consternation to the Americans, and a few minutes later, as Cardinal O'Connell's automobile drew up to the large bronze gate on the right side of the vatican it was realized that one more conclave had been held without American participation.

La Tribuna calls attention to what it terms "the slight proffered to Americans." Cardinal O'Connell's fortitude and resignation in a most trying situation is commented on favorably by all Italian newspapers, which express regret that the conclave had not lasted a few more hours.

The crowds were slow in gathering today about the vatican, as the announcement that a pope had been chosen was not expected until Tuesday at least.

But suddenly the thin white smoke of the burning ballots issued from the historic chimney of Sistine chapel.
There was breathless suspense as the thin wisps floated upward, the assemblage watching to observe whether it should turn into a black cloud, but it remained light.

The confusion increased and there were whispers from one prelate to another and among the waiting throngs.
The names of Tacci, Maffi, Ratti were heard. Within the vatican the masters of ceremony rushed about. The similarity of names accounted for the considerable delay before the general public became aware of who had actually been chosen. Two of the Rome newspapers announced that Tacci had been elected.

Nothing came from the conclave until the new pope was officially announced from the balcony. The suspense was relieved when attendants came out with a rich velvet tapestry bordered with gold and bearing the papal arms.

Then there was more delay and next monsignor and prelates stood on the balcony awaiting the arrival of Cardinal Bisleti. Finally, at 12:30, the pontiffical cross was seen, followed by Bisleti, one of those accompanying him bearing a huge red gold book from which Cardinal Bisleti read: "I announce to your great joy that we have elected a pope." He then named Cardinal Ratti, archbishop of Milan, "who takes the name of Pius XI."

The immense crowds broke into cheering, lustily acclaiming Ratti, who was one of the most popular of the Italian cardinals. Waving to the multitudes, Cardinal Bisleti and his following proceeded inside the church.
Announcement was made that the new pope would bestow his first apostolic benediction from the outside of St.
Peter's.

When the name of the new pontiff had chosen was uttered it passed from mouth to mouth, all recalling with reverent memory the appearance of Pius X, and in the rain, with the cloud of umbrellas uplifted, the appearance of the supreme pontiff was awaited in a religious hush. Then the pontifical cross appeared again and Pius XI came, wearing the cardinal's hat, with a red cloak thrown over his shoulders.
Before administering the benediction the cloak and hat were removed, his holiness appearing in full pontifical robes.

Cardinal Achille Ratti, archbishop of Milan, was for several years papal nuncio in Poland, where his discharge of important ecclesiastical functions when the Polish question became acute earned for him the esteem of Benedict XV and the graduate of vatican authorities. It was because of this service that the red hat was conferred upon him on June 16, 1921, when a similar honor was bestowed on Cardinal Laurent.

Cardinal Ratti was born in Italy on October 12, 1858. For many years he was librarian of the Ambrosian library and archivist at Milan. Later he became librarian of the vatican. In this position he remained until the new republic of Poland established official diplomatic relations, and was assigned to Poland as the representative of the Holy See.

That country was then torn with the entanglements from religious brought about by the Communistic propaganda from soviet Russia and Archbishop Ratti counteracted the spread of radicalism. He also won the esteem of Polish Catholics by his efforts in behalf of destitute children orphaned by the war.

New York, Feb. 6.—With pealing church bells today and the singing of a triumphal Te Deum at St. Patrick's cathedral tonight. New York Catholics acclaimed the election of Cardinal Ratti to the throne of St. Peter. From churches throughout the metropolitan district representatives of clergy and laity sent out expressions of gratification at the choice of the college of cardinals. Church dignitaries, speaking for a dozen nationalities, pointed to the achievements of the former cardinal, Archbishop of Milan, in the fields of diplomacy, and education as foreshadowing a career for Pius XI worthy the macesake of the last Pius.

James A. Flaherty, supreme knight of the Knights of Columbus cabled the following message to Cardinal Gasparri: "In the name of the largest organization of Catholics in the world, I doubtfully request that you lay before his holiness, Pope Pius XI, a pledge of constant filial devotion from the Knights of Columbus of the United States and its possessions, Canada, Newfoundland, Mexico and Cuba."
