Mrs. Perkins was reading the paper. Suddenly she exclaimed: "Here's sad news. It seems a Mrs. Smith, who had just engaged our old cook, Mary Casey, was run down and killed by a motorcar on her way home from the employment office."

"Well," commented Mr. Perkins upon due reflection, "she had a narrow escape from Mary."

TO MAKE NEARLY 50 CHANGES FOR "INEFFICIENCY"

Batson, Deputy Revenue Commissioner, Among First to Go—Burns Begins Exhaustive Probe of Graft Charges.

Washington, April 3.—The wholesale cleanup of the bureau of engraving and printing, which came as such a dramatic surprise to official Washington, is to be followed by an even bigger shake-up in the personnel of the treasury department.

It was learned by Universal Service Sunday night that nearly 50 important changes in important positions in the treasury department will be made before the governmental house cleaning is over.

The changes to be made are not for political reasons but the result of what is termed "glaring inefficiency" in the administration of certain bureaus of the treasury.

Batson to Be Replaced.
It is understood that E. H. Batson, deputy commissioner of internal revenue, in charge of income tax collections, will be among the first of the treasury officials who will be replaced.

Mr. Batson is a republican and during his administration has had more than 1,500 employees of the internal revenue under his charge. Most of these have been engaged in auditing income tax returns. The startling statement was made Sunday night by those in a position to know, that despite the huge force employed at this work, the treasury department is still auditing income tax returns for the year, 1918. In other words, the work of this particular bureau is behind nearly four years.

Instance of Inefficiency.
As an instance of what this inefficiency amounts to the case is cited of a man who for two years has been trying to pay the government an income tax of $90,000.

He has made numerous attempts to get the treasury to accept a certified check for the amount but has been unable to do so because he is told that the auditors have not yet reached his account which is more than two years old and therefore cannot give him a receipt.

Many instances of a similar nature have occurred, it is said, all of which mean loss to the government. Notwithstanding these conditions, customs receipts are constantly on the increase, greatly complicating the situation. Receipts for the month of March increased $10,000,000 over those of March, 1921.

Word for General Cleanup.
Because of these conditions the word has come down from administration leaders for a general re-organization of some of the bureaus of the treasury department along business lines. To relieve the congestion it is understood that the new changes will affect a decentralization of the income tax forces.

James L. Wilmet, dismissed director of the bureau of engraving and printing, Sunday night refused to make any comment upon charges against his administration.

The dismissed official stated he had seen the printed charges of inefficiency, graft and general maladministration, which are held responsible for President Harding's sweeping order dismissing Wilmet and 31 other high officials of the bureau. When told of the nature of these charges Mr. Wilmet stated he was "not going to make any statement at this time."

He added that he hoped there would be a complete investigation of his administration of the directorship and expressed the intention of remaining in Washington for some time with the hope that he would be called to testify in defense of himself and the other dismissed officials.

To Probe Every Phase.
The secret service of the treasury department, which administers the bureau, together with a special force of investigators of the department of justice under Chief William J. Burns, Monday will begin one of the most exhaustive probes in the history of the government service.

Every phase of bureau activity since the entrance of the United States into the world war is to be thoroughly investigated for evidence of criminality.

The most important phase of this investigation, and the one which will be taken up first by the government agents will be to place the responsible government securities, said to have made their appearance in many sections of the country.

Evidence alleged to show instances of graft on the part of some of the dismissed officials also are to be rigorously followed up.

A complete reform of the administration of the big government printer will be launched by the newly appointed officials. The gross negligence of the health and welfare of the 6,000 employees is to be corrected, safety devices installed, and a general cleanup instituted.

"BLACK JACK" TAKES TO BED WITH BAD COLD

Washington, April 3.—General Pershing has taken to his bed with a bad cold contracted as a result of the recent warm weather.

General Pershing leads such an active life that he has often said he hadn't time even to catch cold. It was first thought that he had the "flu" but his physician has stated the illness is a bad cold, necessitating his remaining indoors several days.

BELFAST BATHED IN BLOOD DESPITE NEW PEACE PACT

Many Murders, Fire, Bombing And Other Tragedies—Baby Killed by Sniper—Republican Troops Mobilize.

London, April 3.—In spite of the new peace pact with the government of southern Ireland, Belfast was bathed in blood early Sunday morning.

Following the shooting of a regular constable from an empty house on the border of the Catholic district and the wounding of a special officer accompanying him, armed gangs rushed into the Catholic quarter and began shooting.

An ex-soldier, Joseph Walsh, and two children, who were in bed, were shot, the father fatally. The children were aged 7 and 2½ years. A gang burst in the door of another Catholic home and shot the man dead in bed. His wife had been buried the afternoon before.

In a third home where the head of the house was ordered to "put up your hands," he replied "all right" as three shots were fired. His wife found him dead when she hurried in from another part of the house.

Another man was shot dead while at work in his back yard. Later Sunday forenoon a young girl was carrying the younger of the Walsh children along the street and was shot by a sniper. The bullet passed through the girl's arm and killed the baby.

Walsh's brother, 15, was shot at his mother's house and thrown headlong down stairs. The mother said 15 of her family served in the war and only two returned. One of these two was killed Sunday.

Two further deaths in hospitals Sunday brought the total since March 1 up to 66.

An unknown man was shot on the border near Newry.

At Adavoyle the Orange hall was burned.

Late Sunday night John Mallon, 65, was shot dead in his own house in the York area.

Dublin, April 3.—There was considerable response Sunday to the call of the republicans for mobilization of five Dublin battalions of the Irish republican army. In spite of the appeal of Minister of Defense Mulcahy that men of the army should not identify themselves with the new movement, parade battalions, all over half strength and two of them at three-quarters strength, marched through the streets of Dublin Sunday with colors flying.

None of the men was in uniform and only a few carried rifles, though all of them had six shooters.

In an assemblage at the Market Place the new republican executive body administered the new oath to all of the officers and ranks. This oath is practically the same oath taken by the Irish republican army of old days, except that the army does not now hold allegiance to the Earl of Eireann.

In the parade there was also a "woman's auxiliary" of Stan Fein the marchers ranging in ages from 10 to 60 years.

Boy Scouts also took a part in the demonstration Sunday.

OLD TOWN LEVEE WITHSTANDS FLOOD

Crest of Flood Is Expected to Reach Helena Some Time Today.

Memphis, Tenn., April 3.—Old Town levee, near Helena, Ark., is in fine condition and will be able to withstand the sweeping floods which are dashing against her sides. Engineers in charge there said over the telephone Sunday night that the break of 100 feet which began late Friday night had been repaired. These engineers have built a new levee a few yards back of the threatened break. They are now constructing a second levee back of this new one.

A gauge set at Old Town showed no change in the stage of the Mississippi in the last 12 hours.

The crest of the flood is expected to reach Helena some time Monday with a stage of slightly more than 52.2 feet.

At Memphis the Mississippi is falling, Sunday morning the gauge stood at 42.5, a fall of one-tenth since Saturday night. It is expected to register a fall of three-tenths by Monday morning.

In the lower Mississippi preparations are being made to battle with the flood, which will reach there in the next week or 10 days. At Vicksburg, Miss., government engineers have stationed steamers at convenient points to render immediate aid if necessary. There is no fear of breaks in the lower Mississippi, according to engineers, who report all levees in good condition.

Rescue work around Vicksburg continues. Boats are bringing in refugees and livestock from land unprotected by a levee system and where thousands of acres are covered with back water.

Dubuque, Ia., April 3 (Special).—The body of James Kennear, Des Moines insurance man, who disappeared during the early part of last winter, was found in Dubuque harbor Sunday afternoon. It is believed Kennear jumped off the Dubuque bridge into the Mississippi river.

The work was done entirely by the scouts and it is a proof of the value and permanency of the order. The building is about 30 by 45 feet, two stories high with two large porches. Before Disarmament.

The edifying tale of little George Washington and the cherry tree had been related by a fond mother to her offspring with the hope that he might gain inspiration for a better life, but he remained unimpressed.

"Don't you see the lesson, Billy?" she asked. "George could not tell a lie. He told the truth even though his father stood there with a cane in his hand."

"Huh!" said Billy. "That's nothin'. George had the hatchet, didn't he?"—American Legion Weekly.

Artisans Who Love Beauty.

In Lafayette, Ind., the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paper-hangers has issued a brochure descriptive of their four-story office building erected in that city. The building is in the Italian style of architecture—peculiarly appropriate for the home of an organization interested in the decorative arts. It is stated that the "color effects attained in the building are evidence that this age has developed not only marvelous materials to work with, but the artistic genius to put these materials to gether beautifully."

How Was He to Know?
I had an armful of statements which I had just brought down from the fifth floor. As I went into the main office I saw the cashier behind a desk in the center of the office. The desk being quite large, I had to reach over so as not to spill the statements, and in doing so my foot, unawares to me, became entangled in an electric lamp cord. As I started to walk away I was suddenly jerked from my feet and I found myself on the floor beside the lamp. In conclusion I will say that it didn't take me long to vacate the place.—Chicago Tribune.

Speaking of Farms.
I was out with a number of young married people who were talking about farm improvement. One man spoke of having to buy a silo, and said they cost so much.

Of course, I thought it was like a thrashing machine and said: "Why can't you borrow one?"
Every one started to laugh. Then they explained to me what a silo was.—Exchange.

William found a pocketbook But the string jerked it back

It looked like a happy discovery as it lay there on the sidewalk—until the discoverer reached to pick it up. Then the hidden string jerked it away. All William got was disappointment.

That's the way a good many people have found it to be with the comfort and cheer they thought they had secured in tea and coffee. When they came to depend on it—there was a hidden string, and nothing left but disappointment.

The drug, caffeine, in tea and coffee, is a nerve stimulant. Constant stimulation of the nerves often produces rebellion that takes the form of sleeplessness, headaches, irritability, high blood pressure. That's the string to tea and coffee.
