Petersburg Resident Says She Had About Lost Hope of Getting Better—Now Well and Happy.

"Tanlac has been such a blessing to me I can't help singing its praises," said Mrs. T. J. Archer, highly esteemed resident of 1147 Shepard St., Petersburg, Va.

"I had indigestion so bad I couldn't eat a thing without being in misery for hours, and the pain around my heart caused by the gas seemed all I could stand. I constantly had headaches and awful spells of dizziness. Then to make matters worse rheumatism in my arms, shoulders and knees almost drove me to distraction, and for three months I couldn't do a stroke of work."

"I had just about decided it was no use to take any more medicine when my husband brought me a bottle of Tanlac. Now I never have a touch of indigestion. Headaches and dizzy spells are a thing of the past, and rheumatism has left me entirely. I never have known a medicine to equal Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

SCRAP U. S. COURT RULES, LABOR'S AIM

A. F. of L. on Eve of Its Convention Is Ready for Drive to Defeat Harding Regime and Elect New Solons.

Cincinnati, June 12.—Plans to scrap supreme court decisions considered adverse to labor will be made by the American Federation of Labor at its annual convention which opens here Monday.

"Even the supreme court cannot prevail forever against a united public sense of our outraged justice," declared Matthew Wolf, vice president of the federation Sunday night.

"The convention will be devoted to the business of developing a strategy against the powerful forces of industrial and political greed," he added.

Determined to Win.

This strategy, say grim, determined delegates, will upset the decisions by defeating the Harding administration and electing congressmen who will pass laws rescinding the court action.

They propose to use all the financial strength they can muster in their fight against old guard lawmakers. They plan to put hundreds of speakers on the stump.

One of their principal targets will be Senator Lodge. They say the Massachusetts election will be a repetition of the administration defeats in Indiana, Pennsylvania and Iowa.

Plan to Abolish Rail Board.

And when they have done this they hope to abolish the railroad labor board which recently reduced wages on transportation lines.

While delegates seem unanimously in accord with this, the convention will not be without friction.

One of the big fights that loomed up Sunday night will come up when some of the building trades unions attempt to have the carpenters thrown-out of the convention.

President of the Federation.

It was because Samuel Gompers, saw this coming that he went before the building trades department Saturday and asked them to invite the carpenters back into their fold and patch up their differences.

He was turned down cold. The building trades men are bitter because the carpenters withdrew last year rather than submit to a decision against them in a dispute with sheet metal workers.

Gompers Defeat Big Topic.

The Gompers defeat is the one topic among delegates.

Many cannot understand why a leader of his diplomatic ability should make such a proposal in the face of such opposition.

His reason, however, was to heal the breach and prevent the bigger fight to be made against the carpenters on the convention floor. It was his only chance. He took it and lost.

This slap does not mean the building trades love Gompers less but that they hate the carpenters more. Gompers will no doubt be re-elected president of the federation. No one has come forth yet to oppose him.

All to be Re-elected.

Indications are that all the present officers will be re-elected.

In discussing the campaign which Gompers said the convention will map out against "political and industrial greed," Mr. Wolf said:

"We have not shaped the issues that confront us. They are shaped by those who consider humanity least and profits and property most.

"Our ranks are solid within. This is fortunate, for we need all of our thoughts and strength to use against the enemy without.

"Corporate wealth has been welding its units together for the purpose of restoring industrial autocracy. It has invaded political fields more strongly than ever to aid in its program.

Enter With Optimism.

"However, we go into our convention with optimism. We have supreme faith in the American sense of justice. Tyrants, no matter what their guises, must find their Waterloo. Even the supreme court cannot prevail forever against a united public sense of outraged justice.

"The handwriting is on the wall. The great, blind wave of reaction that followed the armistice has stopped. It is receding. The advantage is again with progress. There is a most desperate struggle ahead, but every sign of the hour points to the outcome."

Gompers Discusses Issues.

Speaking of the issues faced by labor Mr. Gompers said Sunday night:

"Those who oppose and antagonize our movement have heaped issues upon us.

"We are shocked by things that have happened. Twice within a few days the supreme court of our land has rendered decisions fitting only to the dark days of old. There is a bold and brazen movement at work to destroy every progressive institution and to submerge human rights for the sake of profiteers and industrial autocrats.

"Our consideration of industry and industrial problems will be from the point of view of service to the masses of our people. Our consideration of political problems will be from the point of view of freedom and progress for humanity."

HALT HUNT, WARD CASE GANG PLOT

Powerful Group of Blackmailers Is Determined to Obstruct Search for "Bill" Jackson and Charlie Rogers.

Universal Service.

White Plains, N. Y., June 12.—The powerful group of blackmailers involved in the Ward mystery are making desperate efforts to obstruct the search for "Bill" Jackson and Charlie Rogers, the fugitive witnesses who are hidden somewhere in the Adirondacks, it was declared Sunday.

Information has reached the Westchester authorities that the super-blackmail band have supplied almost unlimited funds to keep Jackson and Rogers from telling their stories to the authorities. The latest information from the border country indicates that the fugitives are being harbored in an underworld retreat in Clinton county. This secret hiding place, according to information reaching White Plains, has been used at various times by fugitive smugglers and rum runners.

Authorities Consider Plans.

If Rogers and Jackson are not captured before the May grand jury completes its investigation of the slaying of Clarence Peters by Walter S. Ward, they probably will be brought before another grand jury. In case Ward is indicted for murder in the first degree, as is being freely predicted in White Plains, the testimony of Rogers and Jackson may be used to secure a superceding indictment.

It was learned Sunday that when the grand jury reconvenes Tuesday there will be about 25 witnesses under subpoena to testify. The most important testimony is expected from Ralph Ward, brother of the confessed slayer, who is expected to tell much of the alleged blackmail plot in which his brother was concerned that led to the killing of Peters. The story of blackmail told by Ward will either fall or stand on the testimony of his brother.

Ward's Wife Under Subpoena.

If Ralph Ward corroborates Walter's story in detail, the defense will score a great victory. He will be called upon to produce his bank books and canceled checks. The authorities are anxious to get these to ascertain the truth of the widely circulated stories that Walter borrowed large sums of money from Ralph to meet the demands of the blackmailers and made frantic efforts to get further loans on the evening of the murder of Peters.

In addition to Ralph Ward, Mrs. Beryl Curtis Ward, wife of the slayer, and her mother, Mrs. Anne Willard Curtis, are under subpoena before the grand jury. Just what testimony Mrs. Curtis can give in clearing the case is a mystery. There is much speculation in White Plains as to just why she has been summoned. Another witness concerning whose testimony there is much speculation is Mue, "Pifi" Zeigler, former governor in the New Rochelle home of Ward. This woman has been sought by the authorities for a week. Saturday, Martin Taylor, of St. James, L. I., communicated with the Westchester authorities and told them that Mue Zeigler was employed in his home. A subpoena server was immediately dispatched with the necessary papers that will require her appearance before the grand jury Monday.

KATO TO REMAIN NAVAL MINISTER

By Retaining This Post and Becoming Premier He'll Carry Out Arms Parley Program, Is Report.

Universal Service.

Special Radio Dispatch. Tokyo, June 12.—Admiral Baron Kato, who has accepted the premiership of Japan, will retain also the post of minister of the navy which he held in the Hara and Takahashi cabinets to personally carry out Japan's obligations under the Washington disarmament conference treaties.

His selection and acceptance means Japan will carry out the spirit of the agreements. Kato's delay in acceptance brought the Selyu-Kai party to terms and while his cabinet is largely a Selyu-Kai body, representation on the several posts indicates the admiral secured majorities in both houses before acceptance and brought hitherto conflicting elements together.

Baron Uchida remains foreign minister in the new Kato cabinet and War Minister Yamanashi also retains his post. This is taken to indicate there will be no change in the foreign policy pursued by the Kato ministry from that of the preceding cabinet.

TIME HAD BROUGHT CHANGES Aunt Jane Not Now Quite as Considerate as She Had Been in the Courting Days.

In the days when Uncle Joe and Aunt Jane were courting they sat in the garden one night under a summer moon, silent and adoring.

"Joe, dear," suddenly said Aunt Jane at last, "I want to ask you something."

"Ask me anything, darling."

"Something is tickling my neck," she whispered. "If I let go one of your hands to drive it away would you mind very much?"

Their home is now noted for its extreme neatness, and Uncle Joe has been thoroughly trained to keep it neat; how thoroughly is shown by the fact that on a recent afternoon he went into the kitchen to get a drink. For a moment Uncle Joe stood before the sink gazing at the shining faucets. "Guess you've just washed up the sink, ain't you?" he inquired at last.

"Yes, I have," she replied. "Why?"

"Well," exclaimed Uncle Joe, with a slight sigh, "I did think I'd relish a drink of water, but I guess I can get along without it."—Los Angeles Times.

Literary Amenities. George Moore, the English novelist, and a group of other literati were discussing recent books. Mr. Moore wished to refer to the author of a new publication, but could not recall his name. "You know," said Moore, "the man with the funny name. Dear, dear, what is it? You know, a stupid name, a silly name." "Shaw!" suggested some one. "That's it," said Moore. "Shaw! What an extraordinary name!"

"I don't seem to be able to get central, Mary, but I'm sure those burglars won't be through in the cellar for some time yet."

"It's a good thing Jack has gone over to Gloria. He'll appreciate me all the more after he tires of her."

"Lots of time, George, dear. Just try again and give her a little more gas. That train will stop rather than hit us."

"I feel I'm going to lose my petticoat before another block, but I'll probably look snappier without it."

"Ten years in Sing Sing? Thank you, judge. I've always wanted to wear a light suit, but I never had the courage."

"Triplets? Hot dog! That just completes the children's baseball nine!"—Life.

More Artistic. "Dearest," he said, sighing like a furnace, "it doesn't seem like the same old smile you used to give to me."

"Oh, no, Jack," replied the sweet thing, "this is a new one. I have been studying at a school of dramatic art."—Florida Times-Union.

HAD-NAVAL OFFICER GUESSING

Peculiar Combination of Names Seemed to Be Almost Too Much Out of the Ordinary.

While Lieutenant Commander H. B. Parsons, navy recruiting officer at Houston, Tex., was sitting at his desk a few days ago a young man entered and said he wanted to enlist.

"What is your name?" the officer asked.

"Bryan Dry," was the reply.

"You are a namesake of William Jennings Bryan, I take it," suggested the officer.

"Yes, sir."

"What is your home address?" was the next question.

"Moonshine Hill."

Parsons found on further inquiry that there is a Moonshine Hill in Texas and that Bryan Dry was one of its young inhabitants. Without more questioning, the applicant was signed up for a term of service in the navy.—Kansas City Star.

What Figures Are For.

"What good are the figures set down in these railway time tables?" asked the sarcastic and angry would-be passenger.

"Why," explained the genial station master, "if it weren't for them figures we'd have no way of findin' out how late the trains are."
