VOTE ON BONUS BEFORE TARIFF?

LaFollette Will Get Enough Support to Insure Action On Compensation at Once, Is Belief.

Universal Service.
Washington, June 20.—A majority of the republican senators went on record Monday in favor of passing a soldier bonus bill as soon as the tariff bill is out of the way. The vote in the republican conference was 27 to 11. Twenty-two members, many of whom favor the bonus, were absent.

No sooner had the announcement been made, however, than Senator LaFollette, who was among the absentees, gave notice that he will move Tuesday in the Senate to take up the bonus bill at once, displacing the tariff bill and keeping the bonus bill before the Senate until it is disposed of. It is believed he will get the support of about 25 democrats and probably enough republicans to carry the motion, thereby upsetting the plans of the majority conference.

Resolution McCumber's Proposal.
The resolution adopted by the conference was proposed by Senator McCumber, author of the bonus bill now on the Senate calendar. Before it was presented the conference rejected a motion by Senator McCumber to lay the tariff bill aside and take up the bonus bill immediately. The vote was 9 to 30, those supporting it being Senators McCumber, Lenroot, Kellogg, Sutherland, Capper, Jones, Townsend, Nicholson and Norbeck.

The anti-bonus senators who registered 11 votes on the adoption of the second resolution by McCumber, were: Edge, Dillingham, Ernst, Brandagee, Phipps, Wadsworth, Calder, Newberry, Nelson, Fernald and Warren.

Democratic senators, who favor the bonus, announced they would not subscribe to the policy of keeping the bonus bill behind the tariff. Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts, declared that most of the democrats will support a motion to take the bonus bill up at once.

HARDING GAINING SUBSIDY SUPPORT

If He Insists on Action Without Further Delay House Leaders Will Move to Have Wishes Met.

Universal Service.
Washington, June 20.—Indications multiplied Monday that President Harding will decline to consent to the suggestion of Chairman Campbell of the House rules committee, that the ship subsidy bill be allowed to go over several weeks until after the tariff bill is passed by the Senate and sent to conference by the House.

If he insists on action without further delay the party leaders in the House frankly state they will take steps to carry out his wishes. This attitude would seem to place the matter squarely within the judgment of the president, who, up to this time, has steadfastly rejected all proposals for postponement until after the November election.

The president will make known his decision to the House leaders at a White House conference Tuesday morning. Word was sent to the capital late today that Mr. Harding would receive the leaders at 11 a. m. The first indication that Mr. Harding may remain adamant in his demand for immediate action came after the return of the presidential party from a week-end cruise on the Mayflower. Speaker Gillett and Chairman Lasker, of the shipping board, were in the party. Chairman Lasker is anxious for the earliest possible action. Mr. Gillett has stated he will give his full support to whatever program the president desires.

Managing agents of 30 lines operating shipping board vessels will appeal to Chairman Lasker on Tuesday for relief from high operating expenses. They will also urge upon congress the immediate passage of the ship subsidy bill as the only means of saving the American merchant marine.

WITHERBEE FOUND DEAD IN A HOTEL

Mystery Surrounds Death of U. S. Army Colonel During World War Who Dies in London After Entertaining.

Universal Service.
Special Cable Dispatch.
London, June 20.—Mystery surrounds the death of Col. A. S. Witherbee, of New York and Washington, who was found in a dying condition in his apartments at the Savoy hotel Monday.

Colonel Witherbee, who was 62, was a resident at the Savoy for the last five years. He was extensively acquainted in England, France and Italy. Sunday night he entertained a number of friends at dinner, retiring at 5 o'clock Monday morning. The maids became alarmed when they were unable to arouse him at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon and called the management. When his room was entered he was found unconscious on the bed and barely breathing.

Physicians Use Strychnine.
Physicians worked over him for two hours, among other narcotic treatment using strychnine in an effort to stimulate the heart action but the patient failed to revive, dying at 3:30. While the physicians refused to discuss the case further than to say he died of heart failure, the coroner has ordered a post mortem examination with an inquest to be held Friday.

Universal Service learns from acquaintances of Colonel Witherbee that he has been much depressed recently over business affairs. His son and mother-in-law were drowned when the Lusitania went down and his wife suffered a nervous breakdown as a result of that loss, dying two years later.

Was Anxious to Return Home.
Colonel Witherbee recently returned from Ireland where he visited the grave of his son at Queenstown. He was anxious to make a trip to the United States for the last six months to attend to business affairs there and in Mexico but was unable to leave London.

He was given the rank of colonel in the United States army during the war while serving in the fire prevention corps. He has a daughter residing in Chicago.

PRO-TREATYITES WIN IN DUBLIN

Make Clean Sweep in Capital—Republicans Lose in Cork and Kilkenny.

BY DENNIS O'CONNELL.
Universal Service Correspondent.
Special Cable Dispatch.

Dublin, June 20.—The pro-treaty candidates made a clean sweep of the Dublin constituencies in the Friday elections, their victory being far more complete than even their most sanguine hopes led them to expect.

In northwest Dublin, Richard Mulcahy, the minister of defense in the provisional cabinet, Joseph McGrath, the minister of labor, Alderman Cosgrave, one of the treaty negotiators and Alderman Staines were elected.

In mid-Dublin Lord Mayor O'Neill and Alderman Byrne, both independent treatyites were elected with two of the coalition panel treatyites, Mrs. Tom Clarke, was defeated.

In South Dublin Dan McCarthy and Alderman Kelly, panel treatyites, with Dr. Keogh and Alderman O'Brien, independent treatyites, were chosen, while Countess Markievicz failed to hold her seat.

In County Longford Major General McKee, pro-treaty, headed the poll a large majority. The independent with a large majority. The independent pro-treatyites won in Galloway. The republican also lost in Cork and Kilkenny.

The whole result of the election is a triumph for the coalition program as arranged between DeValera and Michael Collins.

The friends of Michael Collins hope that the treaty victory will not be so complete as to provoke "Rory" O'Connor into action.

Already there is talk of a coup which republican extremists are said to be planning in order to show the world that the active minority is ready to continue to fight for independence.

There are indications that a general crisis is pending as the result of dissatisfaction among the government troops. DeValera has postponed his attack on the constitution on the pretext that he has only just received an official copy of the document.

MORRISON AND TOBIN FACE FIGHT

Gompers' Re-Election Assured But Clarke Groomed for Secretary and Franklyn for Treasurer.

BY EARL L. SHAUB.
Universal Service Correspondent.
Cincinnati, June 20.—Ten lawyers met here Monday night to formulate the course which the American Federation of Labor will take in an effort to annul court decisions considered adverse to labor.

The attorneys, meeting with a special committee on courts, were asked to outline the federation's policy on the following questions:

1. What shall the federation's attitude be in cases where laws favoring labor are declared unconstitutional?
2. What shall be the attitude of the federation in the Sherman and Clayton acts which the labor leaders declare are misinterpreted in the supreme court in the Coronado case?
3. What shall the federation do pending the passage of laws that will cut the power of the courts in handing down other decisions considered objectionable?

Answers Out Wednesday.
The answers of the lawyers were not made public Monday night but will be reported by the special committee to the convention federation Wednesday.

These questions indicate the federation is not going to adopt wholly the recommendations made by Senator Robert LaFollette who urged the convention to back a constitutional amendment that would prevent inferior federal judges from declaring laws unconstitutional and give congress power to veto supreme court decisions.

Labor leaders want to adopt some program that will be original with them so the federation will get the credit for any laws or amendments that may be put through as a result of their activities.

Samuel Gompers, president of the federation, and other leaders here, had advocated the plan advanced by Senator LaFollette until he beat them to it by public announcement. Now they are casting about for something that will produce similar results through different words and procedure.

Election Fight Develops.

A merry little fight is developing here against the Gompers' administration, although Gompers will face no opposition for re-election to president of the federation when officers are chosen.

The battle is centering against Daniel Tobin, treasurer of the federation, and Frank Morrison, secretary. Joe Franklyn is being groomed for treasurer and Clarke for the job Morrison has held so long.

Clarke is the candidate of the radicals who are seeking representation on the executive council. They believe that through him they can break into the inner circles that dominate the federation. They will have a hard fight, in behalf of Morrison.

Among the arguments to oust Morrison is that he is an administration man in the federation but an anti in his own union. He has been in office a long time and naturally has made enemies who will vote against him.

The only reason advanced for the removal of Tobin is that he should be given a chance to quit office in accordance with his recent threats to resign when he became peeved with the administration policies.

Gompers will no doubt be re-elected president. He sits in his place as secure and poised as a smug and fat little image of Buddha.

Schlinger Next Delegate.

Ben Schlinger, of Newport, Ky., is slated to be the next fraternal delegate to the British convention. He has the endorsement of Gompers. Others seeking the place are Ed McGibney and Ed Gayner. Two will be chosen.

Convention proceedings were colorless Monday. Committees reported on routine matters and only half the delegates were in the hall. The heat has taken all the pep out of them.

Spice will be injected into the convention Wednesday when the entire day will be spent in discussing court decisions and the methods for annulling those objectionable to the unions.

That night delegates will attend a mass meeting in Newport, Ky., where tin workers and foundry men have been on strike 11 months. They are fighting for the right to organize.

It has been intimated this meeting has been called to take the edge off a meeting to be held either that night or the next when William Z. Foster, head of the "outlaw" switchmen, will try to stir up interest in his "one big union" plan, which has been slapped twice by the convention.
