AGRICULTURE PROTECTED.
Damage done by the Underwood tariff law to agriculture has been repaired by the new Republican bill which has the support of the administration.

What will have a duty of 30 cents a bushel as against 25 cents in the Payne-Aldrich bill. Under the Underwood bill it was free.
Corn, oats, beef and other products are given proportionate protection.
The evils of free trade on agricultural products were very noticeable a year or two ago when the war-time demand was abated and Canada, Argentina and other countries began to send their products to this country. Canada shipped millions of bushels of wheat and there were shiploads of beef coming in from South American countries. Struggling under post-war readjustment, the American farmer found the added burden a real hardship.

It is not to be expected that all will be satisfied with the new bill. To predict the success or failure of a tariff bill now, with economic standards shifting almost with every change of the wind, would be futile. On the whole, however, it looks as though the bill just reported out of the Senate would effect a considerable improvement in industry and business. It may not be better than the Payne-Aldrich bill but it will undoubtedly cure some of the economic diseases brought on by the Underwood measure.—Wichita (Kan.) Beacon.

CAN'T DO THE WORK.
It's too much to try to work every day against a constant, dull backache, or sudden darting pain in the small of the back. Be rid of it. Try Doan's Kidney Pills. Your neighbors recommend them. Ask your neighbor!
Mrs. Minnie Bowen, O'Neill, says: "I had backache and a heavy dull pain in my kidneys that seemed to wear me all out. I couldn't get much rest at night and it was all I could do to keep at my work. There was a severe pain in the back of my head and through my shoulders. My kidneys were weak, and caused annoyance, but Doan's Kidney Pills relieved me completely."
The above statement was given June 20, 1916, and on June 14, 1920, Mrs. Bowen added: "I still think Doan's Kidney Pills are a good kidney remedy. It has been a long time since I have needed of a kidney remedy."

LARGE MAILING CONCERNS
USING NEW DEVICES TO EXPEDITE ALL U. S. MAIL
Washington, Sept. 4.—The Postoffice department is installing many labor saving devices for large concerns whose mail runs into thousands and tens of thousands of letters a day. These time and labor saving devices are installed for the purpose of expediting the handling of mails. In increasing numbers the large business houses, trust companies, mail order concerns, department stores and other large mailers are installing these machines.

For instance, there is a meter or "permit" machine which imprints upon mail which is issued under a permit the registration to that effect. Each one of these machines is numbered and each meter is numbered and both numbers are imprinted upon the mail as it goes through the machine. When the 10,000 letters have gone through the machine the meter is exhausted and automatically locks itself. It will not again function until it is taken to the postoffice and reset. When a firm, for instance, desires a machine that will handle 10,000 letters it deposits with the postmaster a sum equal to the stamps that would be required for those letters and is given the machine with the meter, which is set for that number of letters and is sealed in the presence of two postal officials.

Another labor saving device is that of pre-cancelled stamps put up in coils to be used by large mailers. Heretofore large concerns have purchased coils of uncancelled stamps which were placed on outgoing mail by stamp fixing machines.—These large bundles of mail very frequently were delivered at postoffice during rush hours and had to be run through cancelling machines which caused delay not only of that mail but of all mail. Under the new device the large purchasers of stamps will buy pre-cancelled stamps so that when their mail reaches the postoffice it is ready for immediate dispatch.

STATE MEN HERE TO ERADICATE THE BAR-BERRY BUSH

The U. S. Department of Agriculture, co-operating with the agricultural experiment stations is continuing its fight against the common barberry. The work is carried on in 13 of the chief grain growing states. In Nebraska there are twenty-eight men making a farm to farm survey in 14 different counties. Up to the present time 40 counties have been surveyed. About 100,000 barberries have been found and removed from 200 different farm properties in these 40 counties. Why eradicate barberries? The common barberry is the alternate host for the black stem rust of cereals. The rust overwinters on stubble and grasses in the black spore stage. In the spring the rust cannot pass to the grains directly. The black spores (seeds) are carried by the wind and those falling on the leaves of the barberries germinate and grow. In about two weeks a rust appears on the barberries. This is the cluster cup stage of the rust. This rust is in turn carried about by the wind and the spores (seeds) falling on the cereals and grasses germinate and develop into the red spore stage. This stage on the grains is known by the farmer as red rust. When the weather conditions become unfavorable for the rust it changes into the black spore stage. The black spores (seeds) have thick walls and are better capable of withstanding the unfavorable weather. By eradicating the barberry, the rust cannot complete its life cycle and all black stem rust coming from this source will be eliminated. Will the eradication of barberries completely control the rust menace? It is hoped that the eradication of barberries will control the bad rust epidemics.—Denmark eradicated its barberries in 1913. Since that time the country has not experienced a single rust epidemic. In some of the southern states of the U. S. the rust overwinters in the red spore stage. The barberry is not necessary in those states for the complete life cycle of the rust. Some of this rust may be carried northward and infect the cereals in the northern states. Investigators have found, however, that barberries spread rust in the northern states from two to three weeks before the rust becomes prevalent in the northern states. The barberries have been found to be responsive for the early infections on cereals and for the local epidemics. The eradication of the barberries will eliminate these local rust epidemics, at least.

Two representatives of the Department of Agriculture are in Holt county making a farm to farm survey for the common barberry. In general, the people are acquainted with the common barberry and give the men who are making the survey the best kind of cooperation. Barberries and posters are on exhibition in several towns in the county. The common barberry is a tall, erect shrub, often 8 to 12 feet in height, with grayish bark. The branches bear spines, usually in groups of three or more. The leaves are green or purple and have saw-tooth edges. The yellowish flowers and red berries are in long drooping clusters like those of currants. It is harmful. It spreads rust. Destroy it. The Japanese barberry is a low, graceful spreading shrub usually 2 or 3 feet tall, with reddish bark. The spines are small and usually single. The edges of the leaves have no teeth. The flowers are yellow and the berries are red but the flowers and berries occur single or in small bunches of two or three, like gooseberries. This bush is harmless. It does not rust. Do not destroy it. Plant if it is desired. The location of any barberries will be greatly appreciated if the same is communicated to A. T. Thiel, College of Agriculture, Lincoln, Nebraska.

LIST OF RAILWAY UNIONS WHICH ARE ON STRIKE AND THOSE WHICH ARE AT WORK

Washington, Sept. 4.—The similarity of the names of the railway labor organizations sometimes results in confusion, both as to the specific organizations and as to their affiliations.
The five Brotherhoods, which are in no way part of or affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, are as follows:
(1) Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.
(2) Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.
(3) Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.
(4) Order of Railway Conductors.
(5) Switchmen's Union of North America.
The first four of these are often referred to as the "Big Four," or the Train Service Employees. None of these organizations is on strike.
The following organizations, known as the "Shopcrafts Unions," and now out on strike, are members of the Railway Department of the American Federation of Labor:
(1) International Association of Machinists.
(2) Amalgamated Sheet Steel Metal Workers, International Alliance.
(3) Brotherhood Railway Carmen of America.
(4) International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.
(5) International Brotherhood of Boilermakers, Iron Ship Builders and Helpers of America.
(6) International Brotherhood of Blacksmiths, Drop Forgers and Helpers.
Among the more important of the other railroad organizations which are members of the American Federation of Labor are the following:
(1) United Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees and Railway Shop Laborers, which organization did not go out on strike, pending a rehearing of a reduction in wages ordered by the Labor Board as of July 1.
(2) Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employees.
(3) International Brotherhood of Firemen and Oilers.
(4) Brotherhood Railway Signalmen of America.
(5) Order of Railroad Telegraphers.

There seems to be an epidemic of "smart guys" driving through the country these days. One of this kind was passing a young lady who was just visiting a mail box in this vicinity the other day. He drove up and asked the young lady where he could leave his car stating that it was out of commission. The young lady beamed down upon him and replied that from the way he came up the road it would seem that there was not much the matter with his car but perhaps the neighbors would not object to his parking his car anywhere along the road so long as he conducted himself as a gentleman. The wise one did not tarry longer in that vicinity.
