The Party of Achievement

Elsewhere in this issue appears an expose of democratic chicanery and misrepresentation. It has been charged time after time by the local democratic candidate for state senator, that the county was paying for the bridges on the federal aid road running north from O'Neill with funds from the county bridge fund and that as a consequence the county board was unable to build other bridges. Last week's edition of the democratic organ contained this direct charge in a signed article by Mr. Robertson and in several editorial paragraphs presumably from the pen of the talented editor of the sheet. The utter falsity of the charge is exposed by the publication of photographs of the state warrant in payment for these bridges and the letter of State Engineer George Johnson to the county board which accompanied the warrant. The warrant and the letter are on file at the office of the county clerk awaiting the regular meeting of the county board. They are public records and may be seen by all. There is no subterfuge or misstatement in the letter of Mr. Johnson and the warrant for the payment for the bridges which Mr. Robertson said the county would have to pay. The entire truth of this statement may be verified by inspection of the record or by inquiry of the state department of public works, regardless of any assertions to the contrary. The record does not lie.

W. J. Bryan was flatly accused of betraying a trust by Mrs. Mamie M. Clafin, former state president of the W. C. T. U. at the state convention of that organization at Lincoln Tuesday. The accusation and denunciation came after Bryan had delivered a speech before the convention. Bryan had accepted an invitation to address the convention a year ago and before he became identified with Senator Hitchcock, the enemy of prohibition. At that time and since his arrival in Lincoln he pledged the ladies that he would not deliver a political speech. The promise however was violated and Mr. Bryan delivered a talk for the wet Mr. Hitchcock. The ladies should not be surprised at Mr. Bryan's betrayal of their confidence. It is not the first time that Mr. Bryan has betrayed a trust. In 1912 Mr. Bryan was elected by the Nebraska democrats as a delegate to the democratic national convention. He was elected at a primary election and was instructed by the mandate of the democratic voters to support their choice, Champ Clark, for the democratic nomination for president. Mr. Bryan, who always has claimed credit for the primary, paid no attention to the instructions given him by the democratic voters at the polls, but on his arrival in Baltimore declared that the Nebraska democrats did not know what they wanted, and used his then immense influence to defeat Champ Clark and nominated Woodrow Wilson.

Frequent and many complimentary references to the speech of Senator George Norris are to be heard upon the streets. Senator Norris abstained entirely from personal attack upon Senator Hitchcock, contenting himself merely with showing by the record that Senator Hitchcock from motives no doubt sincere had seen fit to line up with wealth and the big interests in opposing taxation of them to lighten the burdens of the common people. Senator Norris at the conclusion of his speech advised those who thus favored the big interests to vote for Senator Hitchcock, but to vote for his opponent if they do not believe this system right.

CHARLEY BRYAN'S MUNICIPAL RECORD

Lincoln Journal: A search through the city archives reveals that not only did C. W. Bryan vote against the stipulation of settlement between the city of Lincoln and the Lincoln gas company which meant something like $400,000 in cash rebates to the consumer, but he once cast his vote against a proposed reduced municipal scale. In both of these instances, he stood alone. His explanation will be that he had something better for the people than his colleagues were proposing. He never has been able to pull in harness with anybody else. On September 20, 1916, Commissioner Schroeder, head of the municipal water and light department, submitted to the council a resolution fixing the following new rule schedule; on all services a fixed charge of 40 cents per month; five cents per k. w. h. for the first ten k. w. h.; four cents for the next thirty k. w. h.; three and one-half cents for the next 400 k. w. h. and three cents for all current consumed over 500 k. w. h. Mr. Bryan complained that such plan of rate fixing was not in accord with public policy. He voted no. Commissioner of Finance Dayton, in explaining his affirmative vote, said:

"The new rate is a reduction to the people in the cost of lighting. I know it is the purpose of Mr. Schroeder to still further reduce the rate when it is possible to do so."

For the reduction; Schroeder, Dayton, Hensley, Wright.

Against the reduction: Bryan.

For the stipulation settlement of the gas controversy; Schroeder, Dayton, Zehrung, Wright.

DEMOCRATS CONTINUE MISREPRESENTATION

Continuing the policy of falsification and misrepresentation exposed by The Frontier, the democratic machine last week published in its official organ another set of tax figures in which the state tax on certain lands in 1921 is made to appear larger than it really is.

That the democratic fake statistician is paying no attention whatever to the official records in compiling his propaganda is evidenced by the fact that in his last week's tabulation he got the state tax on the Lena Grof land lower than it really is. Herein is presented the tabulation of false tax statistics as published by the democratic committee, with the true state tax for 1921 on the lands in question as ascertained from the office of the county treasurer appearing in black faced type.

Any one may ascertain the falsity of the democratic figures by inquiry at the office of the county treasurer:

Name	Description	Tax	Falsified Tax	True Tax
H. J. Bauman	all of 295-16	197	197	197

HITCHCOCK'S OPINION OF BRYAN

Hitchcock made a speech at Lincoln on April 16, 1920, in which he said: "I believe an unnecessary hardship is worked in depriving people of light wine and beer that is not intoxicating and some time the people will insist on a more reasonable law. These are my views. Some of the democratic candidates for delegate to the national convention are well known dry men. The liquor interest is wiped out and has no need of further consideration. "Mr. Bryan did not always hold his present extreme views on prohibition. We all support Mr. Bryan 20 years ago when he would not let a word on prohibition into the democratic platform which he wrote. One democrat once asked for a plank protecting prohibition states from liquor. Bryan said no, not a word must go in the platform."

"Bryan once insisted on that great brewer, Fred Metz, sr., of Omaha, carrying the electoral vote of democratic Nebraska to Washington. Who was it who won the banner for getting the most recruits in the Bryan Volunteer club? I will tell you. It was Harry Hayward, partner of Walter Moise of Omaha, who won the Bryan banner. I have committed no sin, only that I have not changed my opinion quite as often as Mr. Bryan has."

BRYAN'S OPINION OF HITCHCOCK

A Wall Street Representative.

In the Commoner of April, 1920, Bryan gives his frank opinion of Hitchcock as follows: "The statement of my views explains why I can not support Senator Hitchcock for the Democratic presidential nomination. The senator's record follows:

"1. Eight years ago he was the Nebraska representative of the Wall street group that tried to secure for Governor Harmon the democratic nomination for president and he has since indicated no change of heart. His nomination would be a triumph for Wall street and a rebuke to the Baltimore convention.

"2. He joined the republican members of the currency committee opposing the currency bill now a law. He stood with Wall street in fighting this measure, the most important economic reform accomplished by the Wilson administration, and his nomination would be construed as a pledge to put Wall streets in charge of the Federal Reserve system.

"3. He is opposed to prohibition. He opposed it before Nebraska adopted it, and even after Nebraska had adopted it by 29,000 majority, he voted against the submission of the national amendment which was ratified by the Nebraska legislature with but one dissenting vote. The national amendment has now been ratified by 45 states, including every democratic state, and we are now living under an enforcement law passed by more than two-thirds of both houses. Senator Hitchcock has declared for such an amendment of the enforcement law as will restore the use of wine and beer, without defining the alcoholic content, thus reopening the entire question and trying to make the party the champion of an outlawed traffic. His nomination would be an offense to the conscience of the nation. It would make the liquor question the paramount domestic issue and condemn the democratic party to disgrace as well as defeat.

"4. He opposed equal suffrage even after Nebraska had conferred suffrage upon woman by statute. He voted against submitting the national suffrage amendment at a time when his vote would have carried the resolution and given to a democratic congress the honor of submitting this great amendment. In so doing he declined to follow the wishes of his constituents expressed by the unanimous vote of the Nebraska legislature. His nomination would doubly offend the women voters of the nation—he would tie the mother's hands and at the same time permit the saloons to rob her of her children.

"5. After fighting for the ratification of the treaty for eight months, he helped his irreconcilable foes of the treaty to defeat it and now, holding in contempt the needs of our own nation and the welfare of the world, he seeks to further his ambition by using the treaty as an issue."
