

WORKS FOR CHILD MUST KEEP WELL

Mothers in a Like Situation Should Read This Letter from Mrs. Enrico

Chicago, Illinois.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a serious trouble. I had tried doctors and all said the same—operation. At first I only felt the pain on my left side, but later I seemed to feel it on both sides. I am a power sewing-machine operator and have a little girl to support. I work in a tailor shop and that line of work has been very slack this year and I am home part of the time. I do not like to take any chances, so I consulted my friends, and one lady said, 'Take Lydia Pinkham's medicine,' so I did. I have felt better right along and am in good enough health to go to work. I recommend your Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash to all."—Mrs. MARY ENRICO, 469 N. Carpenter St., Chicago, Illinois.

The "Sick Men" of Europe.

By Sir Harry Lauder, in the Elks Magazine.

WE USED to speak of Turkey as the "Sick Man of Europe." Today all the nations of Europe—victors and vanquished in the great war—are sick—woefully and dangerously sick. There is a cure for this sickness, but it is not to be found in the chancelleries, where jealousy and hatred, suspicion and land lust still prevail. It is a cure that must start at the bottom and progress upward. It will never begin at the top. The reason for this is evident. The diplomats do not know what is the matter with them; the common people are beginning, dimly, to understand.

How sick is Europe? In some cases nigh unto death. Take Austria! One can almost hear the death rattle! And Hungary is almost as bad! To the people of this once powerful dual monarchy life has become a pitiful struggle for existence. Confidence in the world—and in one another—has been lost. The peasants hate the dethroned nobility, and those who attempt to rule can barely keep their feet on the edge of the precipice, owing to their sick and reeling brains! Aye, Austria and Hungary are sick. And in all the high places of Europe there are no physicians to heal them!

Germany is sick! How sick only those who know and understand her inner life can realize. Germany is suffering from a fever that mounts to dangerous heights. She is sick morally and physically. She is still suffering from the moral poison instilled into her blood by the Nietzsche and Von Bernhardis—and, physically, she is on the verge of collapse!

Russia is sick! Just now the fever in her blood has developed into a case of blood pressure and uncontrollable delirium. Russia's illness began a blood lust that still resists all efforts to reduce it. Russia is sick on theories. The mind of Russia—or rather the minds of its self-constituted rulers—conceived an idea of government that only a mentally sick man could conceive. This idea of government has made an entire nation sick. There is a cure for this illness, but the nature of the cure has not yet dawned upon the men who have supplanted the czar.

France is sick. France's sickness might be described as "exaggerated fear"—fear of a restored and revengeful Germany; fear and suspicion of Great Britain dominating the world—and especially the Near East. Fear of Germany has led France to insist on immediate reparation, when it would be to her real interest to await the time when sick Germany has recovered her health. The sickly fear of British dominance in the Dardanelles has caused France to take an attitude that in the future will return again and again to plague her. Kemal's destruction of the Greek armies, made possible, it is charged, largely by French guns and ammunition, will be regretted in gallant France long after that brave people has returned to normal health!

Italy is sick! Between the radical age and the fascist fever, she is fighting for her life. Her leniency with Mustapha Kemal will not save her. Badly is Italy in need of a physician.

Britain Sick of War. Great Britain is sick from high taxes and much blood letting, and doubly sick from the loss of markets made inevitable in the aftermath of the great war. If she has been willing to forget Germany's wrong doing it has been because she realizes that under normal conditions Germany is a great market, and the "Tight Little isle" cannot exist without international trade. At the Dardanelles, Great Britain has tried to prove that she was still hale and hearty by interposing a barrier between Turkey and Europe; but the people have been too sick of war to show any enthusiasm for a new war in Asia.

Turkey seems to have had a temporary return to health. But this is deceptive. Turkey is still an invalid. Her sickness verges on insanity. The killing of Armenians, Greeks and other Christians in Smyrna revealed how sick she really is. She may get Eastern Thrace and Adrianople, but this will not make her well. The insanity of blood lust and religious hatred will remain to plague her and to sap her vitality.

Aye, they are all sick—these fusing, scheming nations! Each one, in its delirium, is openly or surreptitiously antagonizing the others. The hatreds engendered by racial sickness are almost unbelievable. Some of the diplomats would cut each other's throats—only it would be such bad form!

Lauder's Prescription. Of course, this European epidemic of sickness cannot go on interminably. There must be an end to it sometime. And what that end will be unless the one and only remedy is found, is not difficult to imagine. Chaos faces several of the once powerful nations of Europe. They are, indeed, sick unto death! No mere financial assistance will materially help. The sickness is too chronic to insure a return to health by gold and credit alone.

The only thing that can save Europe is a new renaissance of brotherly love. The only thing that can prevent Armageddon is a new understanding between the people of Europe and the transmission of this understanding to the ruling chancelleries—whether they are dominated by kings, presidents or prime ministers!

The world is sick for charity—not the charity of the purse, but the charity that spells L-O-V-E. Even we of the Anglo-Saxon tongue are apt to forget what the other fellow suffered. If we could visualize more clearly, and with more heart, the sufferings of France in the great war—her desolated towns and her decimated population—and would evidence this in a little more brotherly love, we would help France to regain the highway to health. Incidentally that would be a panacea for some of our own ills.

If the people of France could forget their bitterness—their sense of outrage—their smouldering hatred—and remember that, even in Germany, there were mothers who loved their boys and who wept in loneliness when they lost them on the field of battle—if they could only realize that Germany and the German people were never so sick as when they were at war—they would create a new feeling between the nations—a feeling of charity that would go far toward curing their own malady and have its reaction across the Rhine.

If Germany, by an infusion of kindly sympathy, could see the shell-furrowed plains of France, the impoverished, saddened peasants, the ravaged cities, pity that is akin to love would dissipate the feeling of hatred and the desire for revenge that holds both nations in the thrall of deadly anticipation.

The same would be true of all the other "sick men" of Europe. Jealousy and hatred and mortal fear have gotten under their skins. Envy of the other fellow has become an obsession.

Old Stuff and Bunk at That.

From Capper's Weekly. The president of the Chicago Board of Trade says prohibition has lowered the price of grain, the inference being that the bear gamblers haven't.

That is what the brewers and distillers began telling us about prohibition 30 years ago, while the first one state and then another went "dry." Notwithstanding, grain prices on the whole continued to advance further than they receded in the quarter century preceding the war. Since that time the world has never seen such extreme need for breadstuffs and hasn't enough to eat today.

The California grape growers supposed of course that national prohibition would render their vineyards useless. Instead the demand for fermented grapejuice, and the wider use of raisins as a food, requires them to grow five or six times as many grapes as formerly were turned into wine. In the same way the use of corn and malt grains has multiplied. Malted milk has an enormous sale.

John Barlycorn as a grain buyer never has been missed. The loss of his trade by farmers was almost immediately compensated for by an improved American standard of living, coincident and consequent upon the lessening of the drink evil. The president of the Chicago Board of Trade is talking bunk.

Storm.

A scudding moon and a rising wind,
Tossed trees all wild like waves at sea,
And rustling leaves,
And rustling leaves,
O! The wind is calling me.

Calling, calling with shaking throat—
Calling, calling with shout and sigh,
Out in the night,
Out in the night,
To the tortured earth and sky.

Its wet-strength grasps me, with shriek
and keening cry,
I am a shade, a ghost, a sprite,
Alone with the wind,
My love the wind,
Alone in the racing night.

Tanlac Put Him Back on Job, Says Davis

"I've never been much of a hand at praising medicines, but I can certainly say something good for Tanlac," said Geo. Davis, 110 Naglee St., San Francisco, Calif.

"I had a bad case of ptomaine poisoning and it came pretty near laying me out altogether. For three months I was in an awful condition and suffering constantly from diarrhea. I became weak all over and was going from bad to worse. I tried everything I knew of, but it was beginning to look like nothing would ever reach my case.

"Then, a friend of mine recommended Tanlac to me. And it's a fact, four bottles have made a clean sweep of my troubles and built me up to where I feel like a new man. I am working every day now and when it comes to recommending Tanlac I can't put it too strong."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.—Advertisement.

SALLIE'S ADVICE WAS GOOD. Pekinese Dog Was Due for Rude Awakening if He Went Too Far With That Cat.

As a present to their first baby Maj. Henry Vaughn and Mrs. Vaughn, who moved to New York from Spartanburg, S. C., were given a fancy-bred Pekinese dog. They moved out to the country for the summer, and sent for Sallie, the old negro cook, to come up and look after the baby and Ming Toy, the dog.

Ming Toy had never seen a cat before. So, when a big tomcat came to the back porch Ming Toy, in the strongest bark he knew, promptly bayed the cat, showing great bravery for such a foolish-looking dog. Sallie looked out the back door.

"Ming Toy," she advised, "lemme tell you sump'n. You'd better quit yore proferkin' wid dat tomcat. Fust thing you know, 'at cat's gwine to git mad and 'at ain't gwine to be no place for no dog laik you. Efn 'at ole cat gits started he's gwine turn you ever' way—but loose!"—Saturday Evening Post.

Thoughts Failed Him. Francis became disgusted with the boy next door and turned and left him without a word.

When being commended for holding his temper he replied: "O, that wasn't it. I would have told him what I thought of him if I'd been able to think of enough to say."

POISONED GLUE FOR BIBLES. Particular Protection Necessary for Books Intended for Circulation in the Gilbert Islands.

Not only must Bibles be attractively bound and well printed, but some of them must be perfumed, peppered and poisoned as well. Bibles going to the Gilbert Islands contain in the binding glue and the paste which fastens the cover a mixture of oil of cloves, cayenne pepper and corrosive sublimate. This is to ward off a certain worm, peculiar to these islands, which destroys the bindings of books. Twelve hundred such Bibles have been sent recently by the United States Bible society on their 15,000-mile journey to Ocean Island by way of Sydney, Australia. Rev. D. Hiram Bingham, the famous missionary translator, gave his life to the preparation of the Bible in the Gilbertese language.

Delicate Instruments. An English scientist has perfected a wireless receiving set containing instruments so fine that they are affected by waves less than half an inch in length—the smallest wave used ordinarily being about 200 yards long.

"JUST JOFFRE"—THAT'S ALL. Evidently Great French Soldier is Also Gifted With a Certain Sense of Humor.

Lord Curzon, the British foreign secretary, arriving in Paris, found the passenger elevator at the Quai d'Orsay station out of order and cheerfully adopted the suggestion of the station master that he might use the freight elevator. Just as the elevator boy was slamming the gates shut, there came rushing toward the lift a thickest, elderly man, breathing heavily. He made as if to enter the elevator, but the attendants waved him off. "I am just as heavy and as old as your lone passenger," the man declared, "why should you refuse to take me up?" "Because this is Lord Curzon," responded the railroad man impressively. "Oh, well, that's all right," replied the stranger, naking for the stairs, "I'm only Joffre."

Might Get Well. "The doctor generally comes in a hurry." "He knows if he delays you might not need him."

Do you hear the clock strike the night hours?

HOW often you have heard people say, "I can't drink coffee; it keeps me awake nights!" They've learned from experience; have you?

If you are a coffee drinker and fail to get sound restful sleep, it means that your nerves are over-stimulated and that health needs protection from coffee's drug, caffeine.

There's no sacrifice in making health safe, as so many thousands have found who have turned from coffee to Postum. It has a delightful coffee-like flavor, and is free from any element that can harm you. As many cups as you like, and no regrets.

Your grocer has Postum in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) prepared instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages) for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared; made by boiling fully 20 minutes.

Postum FOR HEALTH

"There's a Reason"

Made by Postum Cereal Co., Inc., Battle Creek, Mich.

The two forms of Postum are equally delicious; and the cost is only about 1/4c per cup.
