LOCAL BIRD LORE.

Careful observation during the spring, summer and autumn of 1922 has revealed an astonishing variety of made the best fair outside of Lincoln. feathered creatures that make this city and vicinity their "home, sweet home.

The list below were positively identified on the grounds of the O'Neill

Black-Billed Billed Cuckoo, Northern Woodpecker, Texas Wood Red-Headed Woodpecker, House Wren, Brown Creeper, Black-Capped Chickadce, Robin, Turtle Dove and Bluebird.

Many other birds, resident in the Far East and Far West, pass through here, since we are about half way between the coasts.

Someone has proposed that all golf links be made bird refuges. The timbered section of the local grounds have been a protected refuge since the birth of the O'Neill Country club. Cats and crows have been given the absent treatment and today you can find all the winter and a few specimens of summer birls yet on the premises. Half a dozen species never before known to nest in this vicinity are thought to have been attracted by the trimmed groves and absence of crows.

Would you believe it if we said that less than a week ago half a dozen robins were seen in the grove west of the cemetery? No one could expect it. But there they were, and are, perhaps, still in the vicinity. In addition to the list given above a number of other birds such as owls, snipe, hawks and terns were found. Oh, yes; a large bird with silver wings, green head and golden throat—onot yet identified.
