ELECTION RESULTS DO NOT CHANGE PRINCIPLES OF SOUND GOVERNMENT

Republican Party Will Carry On Its Program of Economy and Construction.
(By John T. Adams, Chairman Republican National Committee.)

The political off-year always witnesses a decided reaction from the majorities of a presidential election. With very few exceptions, the Congress elected in off-years has been of opposite political faith to the administration. In view of this, the retention of control of Congress by the Republicans is gratifying.

This is especially true in view of the spirit of unrest which prevails throughout the country as an aftermath of the great war. Such a spirit always visits its dissatisfaction upon whatever party may be in power. At such times the only thought that appeals to a great class of people is to "vote for a change" regardless of the issues involved or the records of the contending parties.

In addition to this situation, there were issues of real importance in some states which took precedence over national issues, and in other places opposition to the present administration raised "fake" issues in order to bring the public.

The results do not change any of the fundamental principles of economics and government. Neither do they shake the determination of the Republican party and this administration to stand by these principles. Today the Republican party is more than ever the one party of construction and Americanism as against the forces of destruction and internationalism.

Reduction of public expenditures and taxes continue to be the dominant issues in every community as well as in the nation. This Republican administration will continue its program of rigid public economy which has already resulted in a slashing of public expenditures and reduction in public debt and taxes.

The party will remain steadfast to those underlying principles of all enduring governments. It will continue to support law and order and stand four-square against the vicious and destructive theory of government by class, passion and prejudice.

It will continue to stand against the influences of internationalism which would undermine and ultimately destroy those things which have made America a great and honored nation. It will continue to stand for the protection of our industries, our wage-earners, our agriculture and our trade, against those forces which would sacrifice them to class or foreign interests.

Improving agricultural and industrial conditions fully justify the policies of this administration which has had only one purpose—the welfare of all the people. Under the leadership of President Harding the Republican party will continue with energy and zeal the work of reconstruction which has brought about so remarkable improvement since March, 1921.

The last attack came on after having the measles. After taking the first few of Doan's Kidney Pills I could see a change for the better and kept on with them until I had used three boxes which I got at Reardon Bros. Drug Store. I was cured of the trouble and my kidneys were put in a strong and healthy condition."

5,285 INSPECTIONS PER CAR

The faithfulness of performance so universally remarked in Dodge Brothers Motor Cars, is due, in no small part, to the thoroughness with which each unit is inspected during the process of manufacture and assembly.

A trained staff of 1100 experts is employed in this work alone, and approximately 5,285 inspections are made on each car.

So exacting and rigid are the standards applied to these inspections that the slightest variation, either in workmanship or material, is sufficient cause for immediate rejection.

Dodge Brothers are almost over-scrupulous in their constant aim to make each car as sound and perfect as is humanly possible.
