"Well, want to marry my daughter, I suppose," snapped the grumpy old millionaire as he glowered at the young man before him. Then, adjusting his glasses, he added: "By the way, aren't you one of my daughter's former suitors?"

"N-n-no, sir," faltered the timid youth.

"Well, you are now," said the old grouch as he turned away. "Get out!"

REFUSE TO RUN TRAINS FOR FRENCH

Traffic Tieup Predicted—Many Miners Quit—French Soldiers Man Trains—Labor Being Imported.

BY C. F. BERTELLI, Universal Service Correspondent.

Paris, Jan. 21.—The great railroad strike in the Ruhr and Rhineland is on. One half of all the railroads in the occupied territories went on strike at 5 o'clock Sunday night. The balance of them will leave their posts Monday.

By Monday night, it is predicted, the railroads will be tied up completely and the French will be unable to move the coal they are taking from the requisitioned mines.

The famous Paris-Berlin express was stopped at Dortmund Sunday evening when the engine and train crews quit.

Other Strikes Under Way.

In addition to the rail strike which is counted on by the Germans to paralyze, besides the railroads, a large part of the traffic on the canal systems fed by the railroads, strikes are now on in 18 mines and many factories.

All the banks at Essen, Dortmund and Bochum have been closed and have announced they will remain closed until the French release their grasp on the Ruhr branches of the Reichbank, seized during the week.

The reports received by the French press indicate that a general strike is likely to be in effect by Tuesday.

Streets in Cities Guarded.

French machine guns have been strung across the streets of Essen and Dortmund to prevent the striking railroads and miners from staging hostile demonstrations. Thus far, no serious incidents are reported.

Czecho-Slovakian and Italian laborers en route to the Ruhr to take the place of strikers, were halted at the German frontiers. They will be detained and are expected to go to work under supervision of the French Monday.

Referring to this importation of outside labor, Sunday night's Intransigent says:

"This is the commencement of the de-Prussianization of the Ruhr."

Sunday evening's socialist papers attack the morning Matin for saying: "It is possible that the war will be reopened."

Premier Poincare and Minister of Reparations Barthou Sunday morning completed the new French plan for a moratorium providing Germany obtains a loan of 3,000,000,000 gold marks. Of that amount 500,000,000 marks would be used to stabilize the exchange rate of the mark and the remainder would be applied on reparations to France. Under the plan France would retain her hold on the Ruhr until all the conditions were fulfilled.

The French communist party at their meeting Sunday afternoon here voted in favor of the order from the Third Internationale at Moscow for a general strike throughout Europe on January 31, as a protest against the French invasion of the Ruhr.

By H. W. Smith, Universal Service Special Correspondent.

Essen, Jan. 21.—A life and death struggle is developing for possession of the Ruhr, though for the most part the struggle still remains beneath the surface.

On the one side is the great determination never to release the stranglehold on the Ruhr until the French have been paid their claims in full. On the other side is the conviction that the real aim of the invaders is to dismember Germany and hold in perpetuity what is claimed as security only.

The struggle may break out into open conflict at any moment.

Soldiers Man Trains.

Apparently for no other purpose than to demonstrate that they are independent of the Germans, so far as maintaining operations in the Ruhr are concerned, the French ran two trains to Essen from Dortmund Sunday afternoon.

The trains were manned by the military and claimed to have made a speed of 75 kilometers per hour (about 45 miles). The officer in charge of railway operations told me Sunday afternoon that he had made preparations to fill all the places of German railway men who might strike throughout the Ruhr and that he would be able to carry provisions for the French.

I asked him how Dortmund would get its food, and he answered: "We cannot be expected to send food to them."

The Paris-Berlin express was diverted Sunday at Cologne. The railroad station at Dortmund was closed Sunday. A serious situation is reported at Dortmund where the whole railroad staff went out as the result of an order by the French to shift back to the Ruhr empty cars diverted by the Germans.

DIES AGED 125.

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 20 (A. P.)—Eveline Booth, a negro woman, of Oglethorpe county, Georgia, is dead at the age of 125 years, 9 months and 11 days, according to information made public here by Dr. William Davis, director of the department of vital statistics of the state board of health. She died December 24, 1922.

REV. GRANT STANDS PAT IN SERMON

Fails to Recant as Ordered by Episcopal Bishop—Restates to Big Audience Plea for Freedom of Ideas in Religion.

BY EARL L. SHAUB, Universal Service Correspondent.

New York, Jan. 21.—The Rev. Percy Stickney Grant, rector of the church of the Ascension, who was ordered by Bishop William T. Manning to recant his liberal utterances or leave the pulpit, Sunday put the next move into the controversy squarely up to the Episcopal church. He did not resign. Instead, he stood pat and restated many of his utterances to which the church took exception last Sunday.

This was taken by many as a deft to church authorities and an indication that he will fight to the finish for his views. His sermon was so worded, however, that it was at most an indirect and subtle deft and not an open one.

Voices Plea for Freedom.

The church has the alternative of dropping the matter or trying the rector on a charge of heresy.

"Do you want freedom or do you want authority?" Rev. Grant cried. "If you want freedom, have it!"

"Do you want an American church? If so, have it!"

"Do you want an unshackled clergy? If so, have it!"

"Do you want the truth as the minister sees it, or do you want him to conceal the truth? If you want the truth, have it!"

"Do you want the church to be silenced by sinister financial interests?"

Big Crowd Applauds.

"Do you want to keep young men out of the church? When you ask your sons to go to church with you, do you want them to reply: 'Please, dad, don't ask me to listen to such bunk?'"

This was met by prolonged applause from the congregation that packed the fashionable edifice to the walls, jammed the doorways and extended to the sidewalk outside.

The rector reiterated that the belief in the virgin birth of Christ was not a tenet of the early Christian church but was the result of the teaching of theologians who lived long after the days of Christ and his apostles.

He said also that Christ Himself defied the doctrine that he was equal with God and to prove it he cited these passages:

"My Father is greater than I," and "None is good but God."

"I prefer to get my views of what Christ taught from his associates rather than from theologians," the rector said. "I prefer St. Matthew to Saint Augustine. Now, the first three gospels clearly state that Jesus was not equal with God."

The reading of the second lesson in the service ended: "Blessed are ye when men shall revile you for so persecuted they the prophets."

Finances in Congregation.

Mrs. Rita D. Acosta Lydig, former wife of W. E. D. Stokes and of Capt. Philip Lydig, whose engagement to the Rev. Dr. Grant was announced last April, was in the congregation.

One of the rector's former assaults against the rules of the orthodox church was delivered recently when Bishop Manning failed to give his consent to the wedding because Mrs. Lydig was twice a divorcee. Mrs. Lydig is wealthy, attractive and socially prominent.

While the Rev. Dr. Grant did not say what his future course will be, he intimated he would be guided by his conscience, defining it as a more inflexible guide than the usual ecclesiastical attitudes and traditions.

He referred to his fight for liberality, saying:

"Pain is the call of a wounded spot for new blood. Liberal pains are the cry for new blood in politics, religion and economics."

"Before you erect a new building you must tear away the old," he said, and added:

"Well, it's the same with ideas." Criticizes "Dead Ideas."

He spoke of the evolution of the mind as well as the body, saying Providence protects a man in his evolution.

"It is better to have a living idea that is part of the day," he said, "than a full dress idea that is dead."

"We must have the fullest freedom of speech so when we hear ideas we can put them to the test of reason."

He said that to suppress ideas is to "blackjack the soul."

DISORDERS IN THRACE HALT TRAIN SERVICE

Universal Service.

Rome, Jan. 21.—The Orient express which runs from Paris to Constantinople, has been suspended through the Balkan states.

The discontinuance of the transcontinental train is due to the growing disorders in Thrace, where the Greeks are reported mobilizing for a new war on the Turks.

Smallpox Has Afflicted Monkeys.

Explorers of the Brazilian wilds have reported finding monkeys showing clear traces of having suffered from smallpox, says a message from Rio de Janeiro, according to the New York Times. George Clarke Bleyer, an expert in life in the Brazilian forests, points out that there is no good reason why wandering animals and insects should not carry smallpox germs from human victims to their simian cousins.

Ancient Mine Workings.

A discovery of considerable archeological interest has been made 30 miles north of the Leeupoort tin mines in the Transvaal, near the Bechuanaland border.

A prospector has unearthed what is apparently a portion of an ancient smelting plant and a quantity of slag, which is being submitted to expert examination.

Nearby were old workings and a substantial body of ore containing a whitish metal, thought to be platinum or molybdenum. Mining engineers have left for the scene of the discovery.

GOT OLD GENTLEMANS "GOAT"

College Boy's Expression Made Him Fear Money Had Been Wasted on His Education.

Whenever old Eben Toothaker doesn't understand what you say he says, "What say?" So do his neighbors. It is not strange that he doesn't understand his college boy son's way of asking the same question.

Old Eben's wife noticed that he was somewhat depressed the evening after the boy had got back to the farm from his first year at college.

"What's the matter, Eben?" she asked. "Mary, I've spent $900 on that boy's education, and I'm afraid it's wasted," said Eben. "He don't know as much as he did when he went to college."

"Why, what do you mean, father?" "Well, tonight I said to him that it looked to me 'sif it might rain tomorrow, and what do ye s'pose he said?"

"Why, I don't know. What did he say?" "Well, sir, he begged my pardon!"—Youth's Companion.

His Wife's Voice.

While visiting my brother one evening I heard some one singing in the yard. Supposing it to be the maid, I said, "She thinks she has some voice."

My brother said, "I guess that is Mary." Mary was his wife.—Exchange.

News to Him.

"My wife has been nursing a grouch for a week." "That so? I didn't know you were ill."

"And whose boy are you?" the visitor asked of little Robert.

"Mamma's boy and papa's boy," was the prompt answer.

"Well, well! That's fine!" the visitor commented. "But just how can you be both mamma's boy and papa's boy?"

But Robert had evidently thought along these lines himself. He came back promptly with:

"Why, that's easy; can't a wagon have two horses?"

NO CANARIES IN CANARIES

Marines Who Had Expected to Stock Up There Met With Some Disappointment.

Canaries are scarcer than hens' teeth in the Canary Islands, according to the United States marines of the cruiser Pittsburgh, who arrived at Gibraltar recently after a visit to Las Palmas, the principal seaport of those islands.

The marines expected to find canaries hopping all over the islands, waiting for salt to be sprinkled on their tails. Disillusionment came with their first visit ashore.

The islands got their name from canis, the Latin name for dog, and the marines say there are fewer canaries in the Canaries than there are snakes in Ireland.

Relatives and sweethearts of the sea soldiers who were promised a shipment of feathered songsters at an early date will now have to wait until the marines have an opportunity to visit a bird store in the United States.

Any marine on the Pittsburgh is ready to sell a canary cage for a song.—From Letter to the Philadelphia Evening Public Ledger.

Appearances Sometimes Lie.

Geneva, three and one-half years old, has a baby brother seven months old and is, therefore, "wise" as to the articles required to provide for all the needs and comforts of an infant.

She was in a store the other day when a woman, a stranger to both Geneva and her aunt, entered. The newcomer was nicely dressed and carried a combed leather handbag, closed at the top by a drawstring.

Walking up to the woman, Geneva asked: "Have you a baby?"

"No," said the surprised woman. "Then," asked the little girl, "why have you this?" laying her hand on the bag that the woman carried.

Dangers For Animals.

According to Dr. William T. Hornaday it takes 80 skins to make the average mink wrap, 200 for a squirrel coat and 250 for a black mole coat, 80 skins may go to the making of a striped skunk jacket, and 300 to a Siberian ermine wrap. Before many years, if the present rate of slaughter continues, many of our most interesting animals will be practically extinct; even now the trapper is forced rather afield, and skins once unobtainable are being used to supply the deficiency.
