Declares Tanlac Ended Indigestion, Chest Pains and Palpitation-Lost Strength Restored.

"Tanlac has improved my general condition ten times more than Lanticipated," recently stated Herbert A. Guptill, a well-known school teacher of Kezar Falls, Maine.

"My trouble began with a sudden loss of strength. Almost everything I ate disagreed with me and caused a sickening sensation that remained with me for hours. For months I found breathing difficult on account of indigestion, and had such chest pains and palpitation I thought my heart was affected. I also suffered greatly from headaches and nervousness, seldom slept well, and felt tired and wornout all the time:

"Since taking Tanlac no kind of food hurts me and I have a wonderful appetite. I have gained ten pounds, breathe freely, sleep perfectly, and feel as strong and well as ever in my life, Tanlac is certainly a superior medi-

Island Officials and Nassau Merchants Involved in Illegal Booze Traffic With U. S., Congressman Charges.

Universal Service. Washington, Jan. 28 .- Charges that the Bahama Islands and some of their officials are growing rich through exportation of bootleg liquor to the United States was made in a statement Sunday by Representative John Jacob Rogers, of Massachusetts, republican member of the House committee on foreign affairs.

This follows publication of the an nual report of the Province of Quebec, quoting a member of its legislature as charging the "Quebec liquor commission with making millions in American bootlegging.

"I have been advised by the department of state," said Mr. Rogers, "that 2,000,000 gallons of liquor have been smuggled into the United States from the Bahama Islands since the prohibition act became effective. More than half of the illicit liquor has been brought to this country during the past year.

Trade Thoroughly Organized.

"The traffic is at its height today. In the early days of prohibition a few ships inaugurated the practice. Their profits were such that great capital and organized procedure were introduced, with the result that present smuggling between the Bahamas and our north Atlantic coast ports is an established, if illegal, practice.

"The government of the islands is deriving relatively immense revenues from the traffic. In 1922 the amount was $1,200,000. With some of the members of the executive council and the merchants of Nassau enriching themselves thereby there is absolutely no public sentiment against the prac-

"The official data which I have received reads as from a book of fic-tion. From 1917 to 1919, inclusive, when no liquors were reshipped from the islands, the average annual imports were 50,000 American proof gallons. This, it may be said, is the extent of the consumption in the

"What happened in 1921? Even at that time before the smuggling became systematized, the imports were 445,000 gallons. In the following year the total increased to 568,000 gallons. exact figures for the year just ended have not been tabulated, but for the first nine months of 1922 the imports amounted to 900,000 gallons, and the quarter ending December 31 last, will bring the total for the 12 months period to 1,200,000 gallons.

"Thus in the three years there were released from the Bahama customs for consumption 2,213,000 gallons; the 213,000 gallons are a generous allowance for liquor drunk on the islands.

"The vessels, nearly all flying the British flag, usually clear for the French port of St. Pierre, Miquelon, or for Tampico, Mexico. In the first instance, the vessels really unload their cargoes off New York or some other north Atlantic port; this was the case of the ships which kept the dry navy so busy beyond the three mile limit of New York, a week or two ago.'

When Taylor sold papers he was a poor lad and had a hard time making ends meet. He used to gaze through the windows at the fine clothing and wonder how people could afford to buy them.

Senate Battle Expected to Open When Borah Reintroduces World Conference Resolution.

Universal Service. Washington, Jan. 28.-America's part in the European crisis precipitated by the Franco-Belgian invasion of Germany wil be debated at length in the Senate this week when Sena-tor Borah, of Idaho, reintroduces his resolution urging President Harding to summon a world economic confer-

Senator Borah is preparing a detailed argument in support of his proposals, which he expects to lay before the Senate Monday or Tuesday.

Two powerful Senate groups are counted upon to lead the attack on the Borah proposal.

Administration leaders who three weeks ago persuaded the Idaho senator to withdraw his resolution are expected to renew their opposition on the ground that it is untimely and embarrasses the president and Secretary of State Hughes in their efforts to assist in the solution of the European problems.

Senator Johnson, of California, and other "irreconcilables" advocating American isolation will point with disapproval to the Borah proposals as seeking to involve the United States in the European tangle.

Senator Borah is determined to bring his resolution to a vote if he can. Europe, he maintains, is on the verge of a disaster that will profoundly affect American business and agriculture, and the United States is the only nation in a position to sponsor a conference which will save the world from chaos.

Both the president and Secretary Hughes take the position that the American government would be unwarranted in offering mediation or its good offices in an effort to settle European differences.

A plea for entrance of the United States in the League of Nations to solve the present Franco-German difficulties was made in the Senate Saturday by Senator Owen, Oklahoma, democrat.

Reed Flays Germany. In a brief, but aggressive speech following Owen, Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, the only man in the Senate who fought in France, and a member of the American Legion, declared much "maudlin sympathy" was being wasted on Germany in the Senate and called for "an American policy of minding our own business" while France tried to collect reparations from Germany.

Reed declared that sympathizing with the Germans was like sending flowers to a murderer condemned for his crime.

PIGEONS FLY FAR AND FAST

Forestry Service Has Had Occasion to Acknowledge Their Aid as of High Importance.

The United States forestry service, not content with such modern fire spying and reporting equipment as airplanes and radio, has been experimenting with carrier pigeons. Recently, in an Idaho forest, a carrier pigeon was taken by a packhorse over mountains, kept at its destination overnight and released the next day. It was subsequently found that it took the pigeon exactly thirty minutes to cover the eighteen miles to its home coop. In another recent test the pigeon was sent to headquarters with a message asking for fire-fighting assistance. Soon after, however, it was found that the fire was under control. Word was sent by a second bird that the requested assistance would not be required, and it reached the central camp just in time to prevent the assisting expedition from starting .-Washington Star.

While Joan twisted about in her seat, turning this unenlightening answer over in her mind, the car came to a stop.

"But, mamma!" she said, still puzzled, "where does the electricity go when the street car stops?"
