Has Anyone Laughed At You Because -

You are dissatisfied? "Nothing suits you" has been fired at you. "Will you ever be content?" has been hurled at you, hasn't it? At any rate you are not one to stick in a rut. You are casting about for the future, you want something better. These laughers will be right though, unless your dissatisfaction takes its shape in action rather than in growlings.

Your Get-away Here Is: To believe that actions speak louder than grouching-and get up and move heaven and earth to after what you hate to endure.

IF YOU like brains, try these: Beef Brains in Corn Patties. Remove a slice from the top of large corn muffins and remove the center's ith a spoon, leaving a firm, crisp wall. 'arboil the brains in acidulated water, add them to highly seasoned white sauce and fill the muffin pattles, sprinkle with grated cheese and place in a hot oven to brown well.

Scotch Hash.

Chop one onion and cook in a little beef drippings, then add cooked meat which has been put through a meat grinder and one-fourth as much dry bread crumbs. Moisten with a little soup stock if at hand (or water will Potato and Ham Croquettes.

Take three cupfuls of hot riced potato, three tablespoonfuls of sweet fat, salt, pepper to taste, a tablespoonful of minced parsley, one cupful of minced ham, a few dashes of cayenne and celery salt, a teaspoonful of onion juice and the yolk of an egg. Mix and shape into balls, roll in egg and crumbs and fry until brown.

Olive and Oyster Canape.

Take one cupful of green olives stoned, one cupful of oysters, two tablespoonfuls of butter, one of minced onion, one tablespoonful of finelyminced red pepper, one and one-half teaspoonfuls of lemon juice, one teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce, onehalf teaspoonful of beef extract. Cook outter, olives, pepper and onions and one tablespoonful of flour for five minutes. Parboil the oysters in their own liquor, adding water to make a cupful. Pour the liquor into the flour and vegetable mixture, stirring until smooth. Add the seasoning and oysters and serve on squares of buttered oast garnished with whole olives.

Baked Apple Dumplings. Cut rich pastry into six-inch squares. In the center of each place a cored, pared apple. Fill the centers with sugar, cinnamon and a whole clove. Wet the edges of the pastry and fold over the apple. Bake about forty minutes in a moderate oven. The last of the baking brush the tops with white of egg and sprinkle with sugar. Serve with hard sauce.

YOUR CAPITAL

F YOU are drawing a thousand dollars a year you are getting interest on $25,000. Twenty-five thousand dollars therefore is your capital.

Every dollar that you add to your early income means that your capital is increased by $25.

Double your salary and you double your capital. Quadruple your $1,000 a year and you can consider yourself worth $100,000, which is a tidy for-

The capital that you carry under your hat, you do not need to risk in speculation. It is immune from bank burglars and stock jugglers. It is yours as long as you keep your health and retain your earning capacity.

Always consider your brains as your capital. Take the same care of them that the banker takes of his funds and those entrusted to him. Bad habits, sloth, shiftlessness, impair your capital. So does ill health.

Avoid all of-them if you can. Keep your body in good physical condition, for if it is not, your brain will not be able to earn the interest that it ought to.

Get rid of bad habits. All of them cut your capital down. Add to your capital as regularly as you can. Add not only to your earning power, but to the reserve of money that all men ought to establish as soon as possible. When the capital that is under your hat and the capital that you have invested in good securities are both working for you, you will be beyond the reach of want and on your way to prosperity and independence. But remember that both kinds of capital must be cared for and safeguarded, or they will shrink instead of Make them grow, while the growing is good. Capital of one kind or another is the only insurance against the miseries of poverty and old age.
