NEW IN WORLD OF HARMONY

Recently Invented Device Seems to Offer Undreamed-of Possibilities to Composers of Music.

Added possibilities for orchestral composition are revealed in a device perfected by Bernard Samuels, European musician. Competent judges in the world of harmony believe that his "areophor" will greatly advance scoring for wind instruments by tinting future compositions with new and strangely beautiful harmonies, and will also prove a blessing to the musicians themselves by saving their health and nervous energy.

This instrument is said to provide a means of holding a tone indefinitely; while the performer is resting his lungs. This is accomplished by foot pressure on a dust-proof bellows. A small bellows operated by one foot supplies the air. Connected with this is a rubber tubing which terminates in a small metal reed fastened near the mouthpiece of the instrument. Both the reed and the regular mouthpiece are held in the mouth of the musician. By a sort of stopcock both are controlled.—Washington Star.

Difficult to Comprehend
Father was trying to explain standard time to little Harry, but Harry was not sure that he understood.

"After all, it is no great matter," said the father.

"You are now only in the fourth grade. When you have gone to school longer, you will learn all about it."

"Maybe so," said Harry, with a reassuring smile. "The teacher says that even lots of eighth-grade boys and girls don't understand longitude and latitude."—Wayside Tales.

IOWA TO HONOR HARDING TODAY

Bowed Heads Will Pay Silent Tribute to Dead as Funeral Train Crosses State

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 5.—Iowa citizens who were deprived of the opportunity to honor President Harding during his term as the leader of the nation, will honor his memory as his body crosses the state enroute to Washington on a magnitude equal to that which they wished to accord him personally.

From every village and city along the route the funeral train will travel, Monday comes word that ceremonies and demonstrations to show the grief of the people at the president's death have been planned.

Will Suspend Business
Business is to be suspended and the populace of virtually every town will gather along the train route, American Legion, boy scouts, lodges and other organizations will line the tracks with drill teams and the whole state will be in mourning.

The funeral train will enter the state at Council Bluffs long before dawn Monday, but this will not lessen the number of persons gathered at stations standing with bowed heads as the body of the president is borne across Iowa.

Abandon Escort Plan
At Boone, probably the only set ceremony will be held. Representatives of every Masonic commandery of the state will gather for brief ritualistic services in honor of the man who recently was to become one of their number of the 38rd degree. Chapters of the Masonic and other orders will have a prominent part in the silent tributes as the special train passes other towns along the route.

Military demonstrations were planned at Council Bluffs and numerous other cities.

Plans for the sending on an official committee to Omaha to accompany the train through the Hawkeye state have been abandoned, it was announced late Saturday by Governor Kendall.

The governor was notified that the famous transcontinental train had no accommodations for such an escort committee. Messages then were dispatched to the various members advising them of the change in plans.

Crossings to be Guarded
Chicago and Northwestern railroad officials here announced Sunday that all railroad crossings in Iowa would be guarded by patrolmen on each side of the tracks to insure passage of the train through this state without accidents. The road will run a pilot train.

Orders have been issued that all freight and work trains shall keep of the main eastbound track for one hour in advance of the schedule of the special. All westbound trains are to halt when the pilot train is met and remain at a standstill until the funeral train passes.

Sufficiency of Coolidge Oath Is Questioned

Washington, Aug. 5.—The visit of Justice Stafford, of the district supreme court, to President Coolidge Sunday afternoon raised anew the question of whether the oath administered the new chief executive by his father early Friday morning was sufficient.

The father, Colonel John C. Coolidge, is a notary public, holding a commission issued by the state of Vermont. The question is whether this is sufficient authority to make binding the obligation, or whether a strict compliance with the constitution would require the administering official to hold a federal commission empowering him to administer oaths.

The president, according to Secretary Clark, regards the oath administered by his father all that is required and he has no intention of taking a second oath. He desires, however, to be sure that the judicial authorities agree with him in the matter.

The two vice presidents succeeding to the presidency preceding President Coolidge were Roosevelt and Arthur. President Arthur took the oath twice, President Roosevelt only once.

In the case of President Arthur he was first sworn in by the chief justice of the New York supreme court, holding a state commission, and upon his arrival in Washington had Chief Justice White, of the United States supreme court, administer the oath again.

The one oath taken by President Roosevelt was administered by a federal judge in New York at Buffalo, where President McKinley was assassinated.

It is understood that a final decision in the case of Mr. Coolidge was not reached at Sunday's conference.

IRVING FISHER'S WEEKLY INDEX

New Haven, Conn., Aug. 5.—Last week's wholesale prices of 200 representative commodities averaged 153 per cent of the pre-war level, according to Prof. Irving Fisher's weekly index number. The purchasing power of the dollar was 65.4 pre-war cents, this week's index number shows.

Both the commodity prices and the purchasing power of the dollar are relative to the pre-war period of 1913. Thus the "low" prices in January, 1922, for instance, exceeded pre-war prices on the average by 38 per cent; that is, the dollar was worth 72.5 pre-war cents.

A summary of conditions follows:

Year	Index	Purchasing Power
1913	100	100
1920 May (peak prices)	247	40.5
1922 January (low)	138	72.5
1923 1st quarter average	161	62.0
1923 2nd quarter average	163	61.5
July average	153	65.2
Last week's average	153	65.4

COOLIDGE HEARS HARDING TRIBUTE

Accompanies Mrs. Coolidge to Congregational Service as First Church Worship as President

BY GEORGE M. BATTEY, Universal Service Correspondent
Washington, Aug. 5.—Fifteen hundred people taxed the capacity of the First Congregational church where President and Mrs. Calvin Coolidge Sunday morning attended divine services.

Despite a temperature of 90 degrees, with excessive humidity, more than a thousand persons congregated at points of vantage near the church to get a view of the presidential couple. Three-fourths of throng in and out of the edifice were women.

The new executive heard a brief sermon on the subject, "Love is Here." The pastor, the Rev. Jason Noble Pierce, who was senior chaplain of the second division in France during the world war and a fellow trustee with Mr. Coolidge of Amherst college, paid tribute to President Harding and expressed confidence that God will guide the nation's destiny under his successor.

Accompanied by Stearns
The presidential party arrived at the church a few minutes before 11 o'clock Sunday morning. Accompanying the president and first lady were Mr. Coolidge's most intimate friend, supporter and adviser, Frank W. Stearns, Boston business man, and Mrs. Stearns.

The president wore a black Prince Albert coat with waistcoat and trousers to match, a silk hat, four-in-hand tie of black, broken with narrow diagonal white stripes, and black shoes.

Mrs. Coolidge took his arm as they mounted the double tier of stone steps leading from the sidewalk to the church. They bowed to several members of the church near the door whom they have known since they first began worshipping with this congregation after Mr. Coolidge came to Washington as vice president. The president is not affiliated with the Congregational faith, but always has accompanied his wife to the church, of which she has been a member since early childhood.

President Given New Pew
President Coolidge was given pew No. 6, on the fourth row in the center, formerly occupied by Senator Murray Crane, of Massachusetts, with whom Mr. Coolidge was intimately associated in politics. As Vice President Coolidge had occupied a rather inconspicuous pew on the left side of the church.

The president stood at the end of the golden oak bench while Mr. and Mrs. Stearns and Mrs. Coolidge passed in in that order, and then seated himself next to the aisle. Twelve members of the church occupied the other seats in the same row.

Both the president and Mrs. Coolidge joined with the congregation in singing the "Hymn of Hope."

Mrs. Coolidge was dressed in a gray summer frock with small dark figures, a black satin hat turned up in front and tipped with a black feather, and dark blue suede shoes with straps. She carried in her hand a small beaded purse.

ESTIMATE HARDING ESTATE AT $800,000

Friends Say Late President Acquired Fortune From Marion Newspaper

Marion, O., Aug. 5.—Close friends of the late President Harding estimate his estate probably is worth between $700,000 and $800,000. Before he assumed the presidency, Mr. Harding was regarded as wealthy, having amassed a fortune of some dimensions from the Marion Star, a newspaper which he had owned since 1884, until it was sold recently. The controlling interest held by Mr. Harding, was said to have brought more than a half million dollars.

At one time or other, Mr. Harding had been a stockholder in practically every industrial enterprise in Marion. At the time of his death, he was a director in the Marion County Bank, the leading financial institution of the city, and of the Home Building and Loan and Savings company.

Mr. Harding's last will, made just before he left Washington for Alaska, has not been probated.

LAND BROUGHT UNDER PLOW

Two Million Farms in the United States Artificially Irrigated to Point of High Production.

Under the system of federal co-operation the reclamation of America's arid lands proceeds today with increased speed and confidence. Before 1860 the number of farms under irrigation in the United States was 696, comprising 409,000 acres; in 1910 the acreage had increased to 14,433,285, while by 1920 the government census shows 1,916,391 farms under irrigation, with an irrigated acreage of 201,716 and an area subject to irrigation under projected systems in excess of 34,000,000 acres. The present gross area under irrigation in the United States, all of which is the result of not more than 70 years' activity, represents one-fifth of the aggregate lands now being irrigated on the earth's surface. In addition we have many great projects in view, including the Columbia river project, which contemplates the reclamation of 450,000,000 acres of arid land, and the Colorado basin, with 7,000,000 acres, while bills in congress and appropriations already provided furnish many hundreds of millions of dollars and include development in all parts of the country where irrigation is in practice.—Edgar L. Hampton in Current History.
