PROFESSIONAL GHOST CATCHER

Professional Ghost Catcher Tenders Services To Investigate Connolly Ghost Lights.

Walter Adams, professional ghost catcher of Chicago, with bank references and such, would investigate the ghost lights that nightly gambol about the pastures on the ranches of James Connolly and Thomas Gallagher in northwest Shields township. Mr. Adams, who has been reading about the weird manifestations, has become deeply interested in the subject and has addressed the following letter to M. H. McCarthy, who has referred his communication to Mr. Connolly, custodian of the ghosts:

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 30, 1923.
Postmaster, O'Neill, Neb.—Pardon my formality and inquisitiveness. I just read in today's Chicago Herald and Examiner an interesting news item—"Fiery Spooks In Fields Defy Human Traps." Is there anything to this? The reason I ask is that if that statement is correct I would like to get in touch with some one where we could make arrangements for an investigation of these Fiery Spooks.

Please advise me at your earliest convenience. I am reliable and responsible. Bank references if required. Thanking for the favor, I am respectfully,

WALTER ADAMS,
1017 N. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.
(P. S. In northern Holt county.)

LITERARY DEPARTMENT HOLD FIRST MEETING

The first meeting of the Literary department of the Woman's Club met at their club room Wednesday afternoon, with Mrs. A. L. Cowperthwaite, chairman.

The program opened with community singing with Mrs. Clifford Scott at the piano.

Mrs. F. J. Dishner read an interesting paper upon "Fundamentals of the Novel." The paper was an exceptionally good one and was a great help to correctly read and assimilate the novel.

Mrs. George Longstaff reviewed the book "This Freedom" so well that those who had not read the book could follow the story and get the substance of the story easily. Mrs. Longstaff was greatly assisted in the review from the fact that the scene was laid in England in a part of the country of which she was thoroughly familiar.

Mrs. C. B. Scott led the discussion. Mrs. A. L. Cowperthwaite, Mrs. Clifford Scott and Mrs. J. P. Gilligan gave character sketches which were very interesting.

Miss Edna Bay gave an excellent talk on Gilder, Nebraska's painter.

The next meeting of the club will be held the last Wednesday in October.

O'NEILL PEOPLE SUFFER IN LOUISVILLE FLOOD

The disastrous flood of last Friday night swept down the Mill creek valley and caused the death of twelve people who were at that time at the home of Will McCarver and who had just returned from the funeral of Mrs. John McCarver who met her death a few days before by being burned to death following the explosion of an oil stove in the residence which was washed away Friday night with the twelve people inside. This residence was owned by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Eager of this city.

The World-Herald of last Sunday, in speaking about the Louisville flood, contained the following mention:

"A man from O'Neill, Neb., moved into Louisville yesterday. He stored his furniture in a little annex in the rear of the house he was to occupy. Today the house was a wreck and the annex, with the furniture, had been whipped by the flood clear around the house, into the creek and crashed into a tree. Every bit of the furniture was ruined."

The above article is thought to have reference to Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Thornton, who have been making their home in the parsonage at Marquet chapel, north of O'Neill and who shipped their goods to Louisville some time last week, where they intended to make their home. Mr. and Mrs. Thornton drove to Louisville last Friday. They had a son there and Mr. Thornton has a brother residing in Louisville who had rented him a house. No report has been received from the family since they reached Louisville.

The restaurant conducted by Mr. and Mrs. Wm. O'Neill, on lower Fourth street was raided Thursday evening about six o'clock, by J. C. Broady, deputy state sheriff, assisted by local officers. Life's Little Tasks.

A wise man has said that the most insignificant thing becomes full of interest if studied deeply enough. Beneath the microscope of zest and will the content of the trivial is capable of indefinite enlargement. The disordered minutiae of life fall into pattern when seen as the raw material on which purpose and personality must work. They become "dim fragments" meant to be united in some "wondrous whole"; a heap of beads waiting for the magic string of character to make a necklace of them, and perhaps even in the process change glass to jewel. It is a saving thought that, if "Hoc age" means "Just do this," it means no less that whatsoever the hand finds to do should be done with all the heart and mind and strength.—London Times.

The Question.

Lawyer (to rattled witness)—Did you, or did you not, on the aforementioned day, Tuesday, January 18, 1890, feloniously and with malice aforethought, listen at the keyhole of the third floor rear apartment, then occupied as a residence by the defendant in this action, on Nineteenth street near Park avenue, and did you not also on the Friday following the Tuesday in January before referred to in the year 1890 communicate to your wife the information acquired and repeat the conversation overheard as a result of your eavesdropping on that occasion, with the result that the gossip of your wife gave wide and far currency to the overheard conversation before mentioned? Did you or did you not? Answer yes or no.

WAS JUST LIKE THE REST

Teacher in Small Town Finds Every One Related to Every One Else.

I went to a small town to teach school, and found that every one seemed to be related to every one else. That cut me off from all chance for friendly gossip, for one could never tell when she would be gossiping in front of some adoring aunt or cousin.

I was explaining this, laughingly, to a girl in the town who had been nice to me.

She remarked: "Yes, that is so, but I am one exception—we have no relatives here outside our immediate family—you may gossip to me about any one."

"Well, the people I want most to gossip about are some newlyweds—don't know their name, but she calls him 'darling Donnie dear,' and they are too silly to be around sane people."

"Oh," replied my friend, "I had forgotten about my brother Don and his wife—they've been married about a month, but we don't think they are sillier than anybody else."—Exchange.
