HUNDREDS HEAR LLOYD GEORGE'S PEACE APPEAL

"Little Welchman" Makes Strong Speech at Minneapolis—Warm Welcome

BY JAMES R. NOURSE
Universal Service Correspondent
Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 15.—In this outpost of middle western Americanism, David Lloyd George Monday was given the greatest reception he has had since beginning his tour of the continent.

Nothing done for him in the dominion of Canada from which he has just come, exceeded in cordiality and real enthusiasm, the welcome extended to him here. Crowds upon the streets cheered him upon his arrival, followed him to the hotel and applauded some more, and at a formal luncheon at which he delivered an amazingly eloquent speech, gave him a most vociferous greeting.

And the 1500 or more men and women who succeeded in crowding into the banquet room were privileged to the greatest speech he has delivered since crossing the Atlantic. It was carried by radio to other hundreds on the outside.

Makes Deep Impression
It was an appeal for a visitation of the Angel of Peace, "with its great wings hovering over a stricken land." It sounded the call for a union of purpose between the English speaking peoples to bring peace to the world. It was heard by leaders in the political, civic and social world of Minneapolis, and made an impression that not soon will be forgotten. You are the continent of peace and in God's name keep it the continent of peace," Lloyd George exclaimed, pointing out the differences between conditions as he found them in America and as they exist in Europe.

"I wish Europe would follow your example. But we have driven away the Angel of Peace by the agony of conflict, by preparations for war. I want you to help us make peace," he said.

Taken Into Sioux Tribe
Lloyd George's visit to Minneapolis was made memorable by an initiation ceremony, immediately following the luncheon, which inducted him into the Sioux tribe of American Indians. The title of Wambi Nopa, which means "Two Eagles," was conferred upon him by Chief Brave Eagle. This title was chosen because it signifies the eagle of war and the eagle of peace.

Another incident of his visit was a private meeting with Minnesota's farmer-labor senators, Shipstead and Magnus Johnson, both of whom attended the luncheon. They said they were greatly impressed by their meeting with him and also with his speech.

Seated at the luncheon table, the guest of honor was treated to several songs in the Welsh tongue which he heartily enjoyed. J. A. Proser, head of the Dunwoody Institute, who presided, told Lloyd George that there were many Welshmen in this community, adding facetiously that many of them could sing their native songs better than they could the Star Spangled Banner. To this Lloyd George replied that there are at least two bars in the American anthem which came from an old Welsh melody.

Pays Tribute to Jews
An engrossed scroll, bearing an address in ancient Hebrew, was presented to Lloyd George by Dr. Maurice Lefkowitz, and in accepting it the former premier paid high tribute to the Jewish race.

In his main speech, Lloyd George said he had already delivered 29 speeches, despite the fact that he came to this country to learn the cause of its great progress. He raised a laugh when he said he had heard a great deal about the middle west, particularly as "a part of America that baffles politicians." The audience heartily enjoyed this witticism at the expense of Governor Preus, Magnus Johnson, Henry Shipstead and former Senator Kellogg, all of whom were seated near him and were recently paired in stirring political battles in this state.

Sounds Call for Peace

After paying tribute to the industries of the middle west, Lloyd George plunged into the theme of his speech, sounding the call for a renewal of peace and discarding the preparations for war. He said:

"Your industries are the industries of peace—haversacks, as I came along; flour mills, plows. There are cities in Europe, there are cities in the continent of America, whose prosperity, whose life depend on the fact that they are arsenals for the manufacture of the weapons of war, the mechanisms of war. Minneapolis is the arsenal of peace, not guns, not cannons, not explosives, not poison gas, but harvesters, and the means of producing food for mankind."

"Your interest above all is the interest of peace. There is no city in the world which has such an interest."

Government Keeps Hands Off Honduras Campaign

Universal Service
Washington, Oct. 15.—The United States government is maintaining a policy of strict noninterference in the presidential campaign now being waged in Honduras.

A spokesman for the state department stated that there is nothing this government can do in the matter which would not at once be misinterpreted by critics, and therefore nothing will be done.

The Adventures of Raggedy Ann and Raggedy Andy

by Johnny Gruelle

Wanda and Winda, the two pretty young ladies who used to be Witches, surely knew how to make delicious taffy candy with nuts in it. They made a whole lot too, for there was Raggedy Ann and Raggedy Andy and Little Ned Gnome and Percival and Penelope; everyone just waiting for the candy to cool.

And the best part of it was, before they made the taffy candy with nuts in it, everyone had worked upon the two sisters' little tumbledown shanty and had turned it into the coziest little place you could care to see. The candy had been placed outside on the window sill to cool and Raggedy Ann was playing upon the little piano with one hand.

Raggedy Ann could only play "Peter, Peter, Pumpkin eater" but it sounded very nice because the little piano tinkled so musically. Raggedy Ann played it over and over until Little Ned Gnome cried, "Listen! What was that?"

It was a noise outside the cozy little house.

The noise went, "Scratchy-scratchy!" just like that only a little lower.

Little Ned Gnome tiptoed to the window and peeped out, for the noise sounded just like someone shuffling as quietly as possible up to the window.

"Oh, dear!" Little Ned Gnome suddenly cried, "Someone is running away with the lovely taffy candy!"

"And it has all the nuts in it!" Wanda cried.

As all of our friends ran out of the house, they saw a strange little man with crooked legs running down the path, lickity split with the large plate of taffy candy.

"Who is he?" Raggedy Andy asked.

"It's Crooklooke, the Magician!" Wanda and Winda replied. "He used to be our friends when we were two mean little old Witches, but now, I guess he can tell we are not Witches any more and he has taken our candy!"

"We will run and catch him and take the candy away from him!" Raggedy Andy said.

"Oh! But you mustn't!" the two sisters said, "Crooklooke is a very mean little Magician and if you follow him, he may change you into anything he thinks of! A pig, or a monkey or anything! Do not follow him! We will make some more candy without nuts in it."

"I am not afraid!" Raggedy Andy replied as he started running in the direction Crooklooke had taken.

"And I shall go with Raggedy Andy!" Raggedy Ann cried. "All the rest of you must wait here until we return with the taffy candy!" And she ran after Raggedy Andy and Crooklooke, the Magician.

Raggedy Ann and Raggedy Andy and Little Ned Gnome and Percival and Penelope were sitting near the ice cream soda water fountain in the deep, deep woods when the two mean little Witches, Wanda and Winda, came flying up on their magical flying broom.

"Oh, dear!" Raggedy Ann cried, "Now the mean little old Witches will capture us again!"

"Let us run just as fast as we can!" Raggedy Andy suggested.

"Do not run!" the two Witches said, "We shall not try to capture you again."

And when the Raggedys and little Ned Gnome did not run, the two Witches came and sat down beside them.

"We shall not try to take the magical Wishing Pebble and the Magical Wishing Stick away from you any more!" Wanda Witch said.

"When we had the Wishing Pebble and the Wishing Stick, we could not get them to make our wishes come true!" Winda Witch said.

"And so, we have come to ask you to forgive us for causing you so much trouble, Raggedy Ann and Raggedy Andy and Little Ned Gnome," Wanda Witch said.

Raggedy Ann took her nice blue bordered pocket hanky and wiped Wanda Witch's eyes, and Winda Witch's eyes, for both little old Witches were crying as if their Witch hearts would break.

"Don't cry any more, Miss Wanda and Miss Winda Witch!" Raggedy Ann said, "Even if you did chase us, it was a lot of fun, so we forgive you. Don't we little Ned Gnome and Raggedy Andy?"

"Yes, indeed!" Raggedy Andy and Little Ned Gnome said.

So the two little old Witches dried their tears and smiled.

"Who is this pretty little girl and this pretty little boy with you, Raggedy Ann?" Wanda Witch asked as she looked at Penelope and Percival.

"Well! You would never guess!" Raggedy Ann laughed in reply. "That is Penelope and Percival, who used to be Penelope and Percival Pig!"

"And how did they change into a girl and a boy?" Winda Witch asked.

"I changed them with my Wishing Pebble!" Raggedy Ann replied, "You see, they used to be just as they are now before they made pigs of themselves!"

Do you inhale your cigarette smoke, oh in the air and forehead thrown back? And do you then proudly blow it out of your nose, up toward the ceiling saying, "If you don't inhale, you don't really smoke?"

It may interest you to know that inhaling tobacco smoke means absorbing the system eight times as much nicotine as non-inhalers absorb. A learned German professor proves it.

Bear in mind also that when your nose is in the air inhaling tobacco smoke, you are not THINKING. That's loss of time. You can't think with your nose in the air. Thinking makes the forehead turn downward.

In Oklahoma the Governor orders the soldiers to "shoot to kill" if the Legislature attempts to meet and impeach him. It's all about the Ku Klux Klan, etc. In Europe that would be enough for a wide revolution. Here it is just "news" from one state. The beauty of it is that the 48 United Nations have free trade among them, protection from the outside. Our ancestors were wise, and we are fortunate.

The giant sequoia, 32 feet in diameter and 280 feet high, the second largest tree in the world, has been dedicated to President Harding's memory as the Warren Harding tree. It is 5,000 years old and is second in size only to the General Sherman tree.

It was Percival who made us invisible in your house and it was Percival who helped us escape from you when you had us captured!"

"Dear me!" Winda Witch sighed, "How often, Oh how often Wanda and I have wished that we were not Witches!" We have cried many nights after we had tried all day with our magic charms to change ourselves back into what we were before we were Witches!"

"But our charms would not make us change back!" Wanda Witch said.

"Neither would my Wishing Ring change me from a pig back into a boy!" Percival said, "But now that I am a boy again, and I have the Magical Wishing Ring, I will make the wish that you two mean little old Witches change back into what you were before!" And before the two Witches had time to wink their eyes, they had been changed from ugly little old Witches into pretty young ladies, and they were so happy, they hugged Percival and Penelope and Raggedy Ann and Raggedy Andy and Little Ned Gnome fifteen times each. And then after so much excitement, all our friends drank seventeen more sodas apiece. Cause everyone was as happy as could be, and what tastes better than sodas, when one is very, very happy?

"Let us run just as fast as we can!" "Well!" Raggedy Ann said as she and Raggedy Andy and Little Ned Gnome sat beside the ice cream soda water fountain in the deep, deep woods with Wanda and Winda and Penelope and Percival, "everything turned out just like in a Fairy Tale!"

"Indeed, it did!" Wanda laughed.

"I'm in town, Honey!"
