NUMBER KILLED AND WOUNDED IN HOT CLASHES

Separatists Continue Extension of Republic—Mayence Holding Out

Universal Service. Berlin, Oct. 22.—The separatists continued the extension of the new Rhineland republic Monday by taking possession of the administration of several additional towns and cities in the occupied regions.

Little bloodshed was reported in the wide movement for the establishment of the republic. The most serious early clash occurred Monday morning when the separatist troops marched into Mayence. Two casualties were reported by the separatists, following a brisk firing which greeted them at the city gates. The troops were later withdrawn to the outskirts to avoid further clashes.

Mayence has thus far refused to accede to the separatist demand that it join the separatists.

Rioting at Wanne.
Later in the forenoon rioting broke out at Wanne and in the scrimmage two separatists were killed and six communists injured. When the separatist cavalry entered Meissen they were greeted with shots from a mob which gathered to oppose them. The cavalry returned the shots. Several were wounded on both sides.

Towns and cities seized by the separatist forces now include Juelsh, Crefeld, Meuchen-Gladbach, Eckel, Brackelin, Mayence, Russellheim, Berncastle, Saarburg, Baden, Prum, and Montjoie, besides Aix La Chapelle, the seat of the original movement Sunday.

Coblenz Loyal.
At Coblenz, the former seat of the American occupational forces, there was a strong movement for joining the Rhine republic, and a great crowd assembled, urging the mayor to accede to the movement. The mayor refused, declaring: "I know only one republic and that is the reich."

Dr. Leo Deckers, prime mover in the separatist program, assured the movement of further friendship from the French and Belgian occupational forces, by declaring: "We seek to establish a free and neutral Rhineland like Luxembourg was before the war. We recognize the Versailles treaty and guarantee that the Rhineland will pay its share of reparations."

WILL MAKE NEW OFFER

Berlin, Oct. 22.—With Bavaria and the Rhineland in revolt and with Saxony under guard by troops, the German government has definitely decided to try another offer to meet the French reparations demands. It is hoped by this means to stay further French-Belgian action and at the same time keep the Ruhr working to prevent an industrial shut down entailing chaos and hunger there.

The proposed offer originated with the industrialists of the Ruhr and Rhineland, led by Hugo Stinnes. It will be made public in Germany Tuesday to prepare the German people for the reception of the plan. The plan provides that the industrialists will deliver 20 per cent. of their total production as reparations payments in kind at their expense. In return, the government will free the industrialists from all further tax payments.

Cabinet Accepts Plan

The industrialists claim that this plan will enable them to keep their plants going at cost without profit. The Stresemann cabinet has accepted the plan, and, according to authoritative information, will deliver the proposal to France.

If France accepts the Stinnes plan the way will be opened for considering the whole reparations problem. Secret negotiations regarding the new note have been going on with Sir John Bradbury and M. Leon De La Croix, British and Belgian heads of the reparations commission. The aim of these negotiations is to sound the opinion of the allies and prepare the note in such a way that it will be assured of acceptance.

Berlin is informed that Premier Baldwin of England will make an important speech Thursday outlining the new position of the British government on the reparations problem.

The steamer is believed to have had nine passengers, including two women and an infant.

CLEAR WAY FOR PEACE, PLEA OF LLOYD GEORGE

"Little Welshman" Urges Co-operation Between Nations to End War

BY JAMES R. NOURSE
Universal Service Correspondent Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 22.—Before an audience largely composed of veterans of the World War, in which he gave birth to the man who fired the first American shot and who the one who was first to all after America entered the struggle, David Lloyd George, leader of Britain's war forces, made his greatest appeal for world peace.

The speech, urging co-operation between English speaking nations to end war, was most forceful, the most eloquent, the most brilliant, he has delivered on his American tour. Inspired by the presence of the American Legionnaires and of the flags they carried across to France, the former premier rose to oratorical heights which filled the great auditorium to a most responsive enthusiasm.

Entering the grim horrors of war and the ghastly part he had in it, Lloyd George in tragic tones exclaimed: "I don't want to do it again; I don't want any one else to do it again!"

Clear Way for Peace
"As long as I live," he added, "this shall be my plea, that there shall be no more war, but that your nation and our nation should unite to clear the way for the Angel of Peace with his message of peace on earth, good will to men."

In another portion of his speech Lloyd George indirectly criticized the policy which France is now pursuing toward Germany, declaring that Germany is crushed and vanquished and should not be kicked while she is down. He dropped into the vernacular of the prize ring in saying this and apologized for it, explaining that no other language could explain his meaning. He said the policy of Abraham Lincoln of "conciliation, not vengeance," should be adapted to the case of Germany.

The speech was delivered in Cadde tabernacle, estimated to seat 10,000. Hundreds were turned away. A section of the hall was reserved for veterans of the World War. American Legion members marched into the hall and placed their flags on the platform at the left of the speaker.

Lloyd George was half an hour late in reaching the hall. When he entered at 8:30 o'clock, accompanied by Dame Margaret and Miss Megan Lloyd George and others in his party, he was given a two minute ovation.

Praises Indiana
Beginning his speech with an expression of thanks for the cordiality of Indian's greeting, Lloyd George said it was an honor to receive a welcome from a state which had taken such an honored part in every struggle in which the country was engaged. It was a pleasure, he said, to be present at a meeting organized by the American Legion, adding that he regretted that he could not attend the convention recently held in San Francisco.

"We were glad to see them some years ago," he added with a smile. "The first sight we had of their uniforms gave us a thrill of relief and hope and confidence which it is difficult for those who have not gone through a great war to appreciate. Things were not going very well in Europe at that time. The greatest army the world has ever seen, were the words, I heard General Foch use about the German army that had marched through Belgium. Millions were dead, many more millions were wounded, our hospitals were filled and the prospect was not a promising one."

"Just then the great republic of the west sprang into the arena with its sword drawn to fight the battles of right in the field of Europe. When we saw that uniform for the first time marching in the streets of London on to France, what a thrill it gave us."

"When the great peril came in March 1918, when our lines were broken, when Russia was practically out of the fighting and Germany was able to bring her army from the eastern front and throw it in against the green army of the Allies on the west, I remember sending a telegram to your president asking him to send even a small detachment over to give spirit and courage to those broken lines. And his response was prompt. The Americans began to come and the very fact that they were coming gave courage to the Allies all along those shattered fronts."

"At the battle of Chteau Thierry the American army won a signal victory and that, no doubt, helped to restore the fullest confidence among the Allied forces. When I saw that uniform today it brought back to me the thrill that I had in those days when they came across to join in the fight for liberty."

BOARDING HOUSE FOR PETS

Institution for Care of Dogs and Cats Planned by Humane Society in Kansas City.

Plans for establishing a boarding house for pet animals, principally dogs and cats, were outlined recently by officials of the Wyandotte County Humane society. The plans will be submitted to the board of directors by Miss Sarah Jacobs, president.

The dog and cat boarding house would be self-sustaining. Miss Jacobs said that the plan contemplated would require the construction of suitable sheds, pens, a run or playground for dogs and a modern system for disinfectant to guard against disease.

"I have had more than 100 calls this summer," Miss Jacobs said, "from responsible persons who desired to pay for a temporary home for their pets while away on vacations."
"It appears comical to establish a boarding house for dogs and cats, but the proposal has a serious side. Many animals are valuable, and dogs roaming the streets while owners are away on vacations often become rabid."

Miss Jacobs said provisions would be made to give lodging to horses and cows if the demand was great enough. The boarding house would be under supervision of a veterinary surgeon.—Detroit News.

HEALTH FOR WORKING WOMEN

Let Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Help You to Become Well.

Thousands of girls have to work in homes, offices, stores, mills or factories who are physically unfit for work, with often an aged or invalid father or mother dependent upon them for support. Standing all day week in and week out, or sitting in cramped positions a girl often contracts some deranged condition of her organic system which calls a halt to her progress and demands restoration of health before she can be of use to herself or anyone else.
For these distressing weaknesses and derangements these girls have found health to do their work in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Brooklyn, N.Y.—"Like many girls, I had troubles every month," says Carolyn Mangels, "and they interfered with my work as I could never be sure of my time. My mother often suggested that I take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, but I never did until lately. I have had very good results, and am now a private secretary and do my work without missing a day. I recommend your medicine to every girl who speaks of having troubles like I have had."

Office Worker Helped
Milwaukee, Wis.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Purifier for three and a half years, and they have improved my health wonderfully. My mother also has taken the Vegetable Compound and we recommend it to our friends. I am working in an office now and can always do my work as I do not have the troubles I had at first. I read of your Vegetable Compound in the newspaper and you may use my letter in that way if you wish to do so."

Pains and Headache
Webster, Mass.—"I was all run-down, had a bad complexion, and suffered with pains and headache, and was dizzy at times and felt weak. I worked in a mill and my girl chum told me about your wonderful medicine, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I am feeling much better since taking it."

OHIO'S SANDSTONE QUARRIES

Vast Quantities of Whetstones and Grindstones Taken From Pit South of Lake Erie.

The world's largest sandstone quarries are located in Ohio, a few miles to the south of Lake Erie, in the vicinity of the towns of North Amherst and Berea. From these quarries come also vast quantities of our whetstones and grindstones, and there is very much that is of interest with respect to the industry.

One of the quarries has been mined to a depth of 165 feet in places and the distance around it is a mile and a half. Looking into this pit from one edge, one is reminded of the ruins of the Colosseum, for the walls are cut in shallow terraces, which are not unlike the seats of the open-air theater of the ancients.

In cutting a block of sandstone wedges are driven in sidewise at the base of the block, while steam drills bore holes from the top to meet the openings made by the wedges. A machine called a channeller then cuts the block away.

Plague Deadly in Java.
In Java, which has a population a third as big as ours, bubonic plague is so common that it kills half of the children before they are five years old. The Javanese take this as a matter of course, reports William Ferguson, globe trotter. He found the people of Java from the viewpoint that if the plague didn't kill half of the children the island shortly would be unable to sustain the inhabitants despite its fertility.
Nature is cynical in its harshness. She deals only in cause and effect, action and reaction, and the thing we call emotion is alien to her plans. Civilization is merely a banding together for mutual protection against harsh nature. Most of us have lost sight of this original purpose.

A Dig for His Master.
A London physician accepted an invitation to join a house party for a little shooting. When he returned, a privileged butler asked him whether he had enjoyed himself.
"Oh, yes," was the reply.
"Kill much, sir?"
"No, hardly anything," admitted the doctor.
"Ah, well, sir," said the butler, "it's nice to have a change."—Boston Transcript.
