WHEN TREES REALLY BUD OUT

Specialist on Subject Tells Most People Are Mistaken About the Time.

So few of us notice trees carefully that in early spring when the buds are swelling we say "The buds are coming on the trees," whereas, if our eyes had been opened to nature's wonders we would have known they had been patiently "budded" the summer before.

As the buds begin to swell the outside coverings or scales grow larger, separate and fall, writes Susan S. Alburts in Nature Magazine of Washington. They leave their scars behind them as a group of very close rings. Wherever these rings are, there a terminal bud has been.

Not necessarily does the distance between ring groups mean a year's growth. Sometimes, according to the season, a tree will make a second growth, then it has made two terminal buds in a growing season. The horse chestnut frequently does this, because of a disease that attacks it in early July. In such cases two groups of rings would be made in one year.

Not all the side buds on a twig will open. They are the reserve army waiting to come into action if the main buds are injured. After a few years of waiting, if they have not been brought into service, they will be covered by the growing wood, but have "served by waiting."

Not much variation occurs in the shape of the bud bundles in the same species, so probably the safest way to know trees is by their buds. Then, too, if we remember that they are on the trees all the year round except for a very short time immediately after the old buds have opened and the new leaves are getting strong enough to work, we can identify trees when all the leaves are gone if we know the bud bundles.

SELLING FURS TO ESKIMOS

Sounds Like Paradox, but Wolverine Headdress Is Popular With People of the North.

Selling furs for consignment to the Eskimos sounds like a paradox, but that is exactly what took place at the opening day of the week's sale of the Canadian Fur Auction Sales, Limited, at the Mount Royal hotel, according to the Montreal correspondent of the Boston Transcript. The explanation was more simple than it looked. F. H. Pingres, general manager and also auctioneer for the sale, said that the Eskimos of Alaska have plenty of beautiful seal, fox and similar furs, but each Eskimo with any pretensions as a beaver desires above all things to have a wolverine headdress for himself and his favored squaws. So the Alaska dealers load up with the choicest skins they can get from the Eskimos and bring them to the Montreal auctions, where they barter them for wolverine skins, which they take back to Alaska for the adornment of the Eskimo tents and bellies. The Eskimos are satisfied and the various bartering processes are not done without profit.

GIVING OUT. The Struggle Discourages Many a Citizen of O'Neill.

Around all day with an aching back, Can't rest at night; Enough to make any one "give out." Doan's Pills are helping thousands. They are for kidney backache; And other kidney ills.

Here is O'Neill proof of their merit: Mrs. Minnie Bowen, says: "I had backache and a heavy dull pain in my kidneys that seemed to wear me all out. I couldn't get much rest at night and it was all I could do to keep at my work. There was a severe pain in the back of my head and through my shoulders. My kidneys were weak, causing a great deal of annoyance. Doan's Pills relieved me completely.

FOUR YEARS LATER, Mrs. Bowen added: "I still think Doan's are a good kidney medicine. It has been a long time since I have had need of a kidney remedy."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Pills—the same that Mrs. Bowen had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.
