

ENTHUSIASTIC CROWHUNTERS HOLD BIG MEETING

More than a hundred sportsmen and others bent on the annihilation of the crow met with Capt. James McPharlin and the precinct captains of the east side of Holt county, at the district court room at O'Neill Tuesday afternoon to perfect arrangements for the big county crow hunt which opens March 15 and continues until April 30. Similar meetings under the leadership of Mose Campbell, of Atkinson, captain of the west half of the county, were held at Atkinson and Stuart last week. Representatives from all section and townships of the east half of the county attended the O'Neill meeting.

The two districts are to contest for a purse of $300 offered by the county board and of which $200 will go to the winning side and $100 to the losers. Prizes also are being offered by the merchants in the several parts of the county. Following are the rules adopted for the contests:

The following rules and regulations have been formulated for the governing of the Holt County Crow Hunt to be held from March 15th, to April 30th, between the east and west sides of the county.

1. Any man, woman or child residing in Holt county east of the range line between ranges 12 and 13, are eligible to take part in the Crow killing contest.
2. The Holt County Crow Hunt will be conducted in conformance with the state and federal game laws. Each individual hunter of crows should inform himself with regard to the state and federal laws before taking part in the contest.
3. Anyone shooting any game, song or other birds in violation of the game laws will be prosecuted. Captains are hereby notified to see that this rule is enforced.
4. Each individual hunter will deliver his crow heads accompanied by a signed statement to his precinct captain. Each captain will collect and deliver crow heads to Captain James H. McPharlin in O'Neill, Nebraska, between April 28 and May 2, 1924.
5. Crow heads should be strung on a wire for preservation. Heads thrown in a pile will rot and many heads will be lost in this way. The executive committee suggests that ten crow heads be strung together upon a wire which will facilitate the counting.

O'NEILL CROW SHOOTERS WOULD STAGE TEAM
CONTEST WITH TEAM OF OTHER EAST-SIDERS

O'Neill crow shooters are anxious to contest with the crack shots of the rest of the east side of the county in a team contest for a banquet. Ed O'Donnell, secretary of the crow extermination society, has been selected to head the O'Neill team, which wants to shoot against a team of not less than five or more than twenty selected from the rest of the district. Entrance fees to the contest will be one buck, and a side bet will not be objected to. Communications should be addressed to Mr. O'Donnell.

NOTES FROM THE NORTHEAST

Henry Doscher, of Star, visited at the home of Thos. Dillet, of Page, Saturday.

Farm sales are quite numerous and changes of residents are unusual. There appears to exist more or less unrest with the farming element.

J. S. Noble and wife entertained some of the neighbors Sunday evening with the radio they installed in their home some time ago. They report an enjoyable and interesting evening.

Charley and Harry Johnson were on the Chicago market recently with six carloads of fat cattle. They returned home Thursday. The Johnsons own and operate a ranch in Knox county near the Holt county line.

We are informed farm wages will be $50.00 to $65.00 per month unless farm product prices are stabilized. We are inclined to think that farmers will farm less and intensify cultivation. Less stock and better grades of cattle and hogs. More good milk cows.

Roy Pilger and wife, of Pierce county, are in this part of Holt county. Mr. Pilger owned and operated a farm in Steel Creek township for several years and is well and favorably known in this part of the county. He is engaged in farming and stock raising and owns real estate in Pierce county.

"Old Borea's" March visits were not solicited or welcomed. His intentions were to give us a taste of zero weather but failed by a close margin. He advised your correspondent that he changed his residence from Alaska farther East and North of the Arctic Circle. He did not state why the change but am inclined to think the Japan earthquake the source.

Railroads Support
One-Seventh of Population

The railroads of the United States use in one form or another 30% of the Iron and Steel produced in this country. Of the more than 1,600,000 workers in that industry, the product of something like 500,000 is bought by the railroads.

Of Bituminous Coal the same railroads consume 28%. Engaged in the mining of this coal are 600,000 workers, of whom 168,000 are employed only because their product is needed for the making of transportation.

They also use 25% of the lumber output, which takes more than 500,000 workers to supply, and the railroads are therefore indirectly employing 125,000 persons in this occupation.

The railroads have nearly two million employees of their own.

With their families, the employees of these few industries represent 12,000,000 people whose support is derived from the railroads. Including smaller related industries, not less than one-seventh of the entire population is dependent upon railroad work.

The railroads could not prosper without the other groups, nor they without the railroads.

Co-operation is the keystone of our highly specialized civilization; and in the last analysis each man works for the other.
