Miss Emelle A. Haberkorn, 2251 Gravois Ave., St. Louis, Mo., writes: "For over two years I was troubled with internal catarrh. I read a Pe-ru-na booklet and began taking the treatment. I now enjoy as good health as ever and would not think of doing without Pe-ru-na."

Dr. Hartman's famous remedy has become the standby in thousands of American homes for the relief of coughs, colds, catarrh and every catarrhal disease. Insist upon genuine Pe-ru-na and enjoy satisfaction. Tablets or liquid and sold everywhere.

Dunkards Increase

On Christmas day, 1723, two persons were baptized in the icy waters of the river at Germantown, Pa. These were the first Dunkard converts in America, says the Detroit News. Since then the communion has grown to include over 100,000 persons.

It was originally a celibate order whose members ate meat only once a year and held property in common. These strict rules have been abated and now a Dunkard may even marry outside the faith and still hold membership in the church.

They hold church property valued at $5,000,000. The states where they are strongest are Tennessee and Texas.

They Know Beans

If someone attempted to tell a certain six boys in Hollis, N. Y., that there isn't any money in farming, they would reply, "You don't know beans." These boys, members of a junior extension club, borrowed money from a bank last spring, hired one and one-half acres of land, hired a tractor to plow and harrow it, staked off six equal shares and planted beans. When the crop was ready for shell purposes, they had 144 bushels, which they shipped by truck to the Boston market. With the returns they paid off the notes and had a net profit of $73.77, which paid them more than $1 an hour for the time they actually spent. —Boston Globe.

RESCUE CREWS LOCATE SCORE OF DEAD BODIES

Inside of Workings Wrecked By Explosion—Debris Hampers Searchers

Universal Service. Wheeling, W. Va., April 28.—Weary hours drag by slowly for the grief-stricken throng who patiently stand at the mouth of the Benwood mine of the Wheeling Steel corporation, waiting for that dark hole that leads back into the hills to give up its 114 dead, claimed by a gas explosion Monday.

Up until dark but five bodies had been brought out to the morgue established temporarily near the mine entry. Rescuers who have penetrated some 3,700 feet into the mine along the main entry have located 15 others, according to word sent back. All the bodies found are burned and mutilated and there is no hope that any survived.

Rescue Teams on Ground. Mine rescue cars from Williamson, Pa., and Pittsburgh and other points were rushed to Benwood to direct the rescue and their efforts have been augmented by rescue crews from mines in West Virginia and eastern Ohio.

The explosion occurred at 7:10 o'clock Monday morning, five minutes after the 114 men had gone into the mine to begin the day's work. Had it occurred five minutes later, 75 more men, waiting to go to work, would have joined them.

Evidence of the force of the explosion is found in the tearing away of the earthen embankment of the railroad near the mine entrance, and the forcing of an eight-inch square timber from the mine, up through 40 feet of the hill to the surface. Timbers and stone in the mine were twisted in a hopeless tangle and this is what halted the first efforts at rescue 1,500 feet back from the entrance. Then came the after-damp to add to the horror and complete the grim work of the explosion.

Mine Is Blocked. Fully 800 feet of the mine were wrecked and blocked.

Pathetically swinging at the entrance of the mine is the sign erected by J. T. Hoyle, fire boss, announcing he had inspected the mine and found it safe. The body of Hoyle was among the first discovered, lying beneath an overturned mine motor in the shaft, and covered with fallen shale.

Under swinging arc lights the rescuers are toiling unceasingly tonight, going in and coming out in one hour shifts. As they come and go, plaintive requests are made from the watchers for information.

Fire Follows Blast. Among those not yet recovered are Fire Boss George Holliday who also went into the mine Monday morning.

The explosion, which was followed by fire, occurred about three miles back from the drift mouth. Word of the disaster was immediately sent out and it was as first feared that 125 men had been trapped.

The whole rescue power of the state of West Virginia, with headquarters at Charleston, and of the United States government was put into action. A rescue car from Pittsburgh reached the mine about noon.

Dynamite Used. At that time about 200 workers from nearby mines had rushed to Benwood and started digging into the rock and silt which had blocked all the entrances. All of the women and children of the Benwood community gathered near the mouth of the mine and mingled their shouts of encouragement to the rescuers, with tears.

Dynamite was used to clear a way for the rescuers who reached the passage where the first bodies were found.

Find Irregularities in Nebraska State Accounts

Lincoln, Neb., April 28.—(Special)—State Senator Wilkins of Dixon county, chairman of the committee investigating expenditures of state departments, in a partial report Monday listed a number of items in small amounts which he said indicated use of state funds by officials on personal missions. One of these was an expenditure in behalf of Governor Bryan, which Purchasing Agent Farris explained was an error which had already been corrected. Two others were for trips to Omaha by Tax Commissioner Smith and Secretary Shumway of the state agricultural department. These officials said the trips were on state business.

It Looks Like A Dirty Deal for White House Cats

Universal Service. Washington, April 28.—All White House cats, except the proud specimen which went on a mysterious expedition recently and had his name and picture in the papers, are to be slain because of their conscienceless depredations against the nests of squirrels and birds. All unhappy crows which soar over the executive mansion and whose raucous squawks are deplored by law-abiding people hereabout are also to be shot.

BELGIUM BACKS FRENCH STAND TOWARD RUHR

Retain Control Over Railway Lines Despite Advice Of Experts

Universal Service. Paris, April 28.—Notwithstanding the advice of experts, France and Belgium Monday decided to retain their control of the railways in the occupied territories of Germany.

It is definitely stated that France and Belgium arrived at a complete understanding on the program to be followed regarding the plans for putting the Dawes plan into operation.

Premiers Poincare and Theunis concluded their conferences regarding the efforts of their respective governments to settle the reparations problem in accord with the other allies, it being understood that they will seek separate understandings with Premier MacDonald and the British cabinet before undertaking any conferences with the other allied and associated powers.

BY BASIL D. WOON

Universal Service Correspondent. Paris, April 28.—Those who believe that the forthcoming French elections will reveal a profound change in national sentiment and return to power a party pledged to settle the reparations problem in the quickest and most businesslike manner are doomed to disappointment.

Persons who think that Raymond Poincare will be disowned by the French electorate because of his Bismarckian policies in the Ruhr and on the Rhine, are merely expressing the thought that is born of their wish.

A very big IF resides in the theory that the left block will carry all before it at the elections and that, thereafter, Poincare and his "security at any cost" ideal will take a back seat to Herriot or Briand and their announced intention to solve the peace problem even at the cost of sacrifice to France.

Poincare Hot Favorite. In betting terms, I should say that Poincare is about a one to five chance—a very hot favorite indeed.

Outside of the big cities it is doubtful whether the radical socialists will gain many seats. In Paris they will break even with the national block, or Poincarist party. In cities such as Marseilles, Le Havre, Brest and Lyons they will most likely win a majority of the votes.

But the cities do not play the preponderant part in election results that they play in the United States. The farmer and the inhabitant of the small town rule France, and they pay little for the honor, for they are taxed very moderately in proportion to their brethren of the city.

What has this to do with the experts' report? This: If Poincare wins, the experts' conclusions will not be worth the paper they are written on.

If Herriot and Briand win there is a fighting chance that peace may come.

What many think would have been a workable reparations pact was actually being negotiated at Cannes between Briand and Lloyd-George in January, 1922 when Poincare forced Briand's downfall and broke up the conference.

If Poincare had not thrown that fatal wrench into the machinery then, France would now enjoy a defensive pact with Great Britain guaranteeing it security, and there is reason to believe that faced by such an alliance, Germany would have taken a vastly different attitude.

As a result of the embarrassment, Null filed suit for $500 damages against his bride-to-be.

Among the expenses of his courtship Null listed:

CHARGES HIGH OFFICIALS WITH VIOLATING LAW

Weeks Names Men Appearing in Cases Against War Department

Washington, April 28.—Three cabinet officers in the Wilson administration, two former United States senators and six former members of the House were named Monday by Secretary Weeks as having appeared as counsel in cases before the war department.

Those named were: William G. McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury.

Thomas W. Gregory, former attorney general.

A. Mitchell Palmer, former attorney general.

James Hamilton Lewis, former senator from Illinois.

Hoke Smith, former senator from Georgia.

James W. Good, Burton E. Sweet, former representatives from Iowa, and C. C. Carlin of Virginia, T. J. Ryan of New York, Charles F. Ogden of Kentucky and J. T. Watkins of Louisiana, all former representatives. Secretary Weeks made this report in response to the resolution by Senator Norris which the Senate passed, demanding of all government departments the names of former officials who have violated the law by appearing in the prosecution of claims within less than two years from the time of retiring from office.

Former Representative Good, now in charge of President Coolidge's Chicago headquarters, was listed as counsel in the case of the Ashland Industries corporation, which acquired the Chicago ordnance storage depot.

McAdoo appeared as counsel in the case of the Locomobile Company of America, which demanded $200,000 on March 1, 1920, for excise tax on automobiles sold to the war department. The claim was denied and later carried to the court of claims, where McAdoo won for his client a verdict of $5,454.

Handled Eight Cases.

Palmer was named in connection with eight claims against the war department growing out of clothing and equipment contracts. Three of the eight claims were allowed. They were made between November 1921, and November, 1922.

The cases in which former Attorney General Gregory appeared included those of the four Chicago packing houses, Libby, McNeill and Libby, Morris and company, Swift and company and Armour and company. All claims were in connection with war time contracts and all were denied. The court of claims recently allowed $1,000,000 on the Swift claim.

Gregory's law firm also was listed as counsel in the claim of Carden and Herd against the war department for $7,500,000 for the percentage of gross earnings on freight by ships sold to the government. The claim was filed in October, 1920, and settled for $550,000, in June, 1921.

FAIL TO FILE PRIMARY COST

Many South Dakota Candidates Neglect Requirement Of State Law

Pierre, S. D., April 28. (Special)—Thursday was the last day in which candidates for nomination in the March primary could file their expense accounts with the secretary of state and there are still a large number of candidates who have not filed these affidavits. In the case of those who were not nominated this is not so material, but in the case of candidates who received nomination the situation is quite an acute one. Just what action will be taken by the secretary of state in these cases is not known. There is a question of whether or not these candidates may get their names on the general election ballot in the fall.

THE GASOLINE WAR IS NOT YET ENDED

Watertown, S. D., April 28.—That Governor W. H. McMaster's "gasoline war" in South Dakota is not yet concluded was evidenced by the arrival here today of a huge steel tank consigned to the state highway commission which tank is to be used in the sale of gasoline in this city by the state.

Citizens interested are securing a truckage site where the tank is to be installed. The highway commission, it is said, will ship gasoline here in carload lots and retail it from the big tank as the state is now doing in other cities.

Later he says, "Though the verdict may have been against us no one need look back upon the campaign with regret or apology. I want you to know that I am very grateful to you and I hope that an opportunity will offer in the near future for you to extend to those who were associated with you my sincere thanks and appreciation."

WARREN M'CRAY PLACED IN JAIL UNTIL SENTENCE

Faces Prison for Balance Of Life—Scored by Judge

Universal Service. Indianapolis, Ind., April 28.—While scores of men and women who elected him governor of the commonwealth of Indiana looked on from the spectators' seats in the United States district court here, Warren T. McCray, the state's chief executive who has been on trial on charges of using the mails to promote a scheme to defraud, was found guilty by the jury Monday night.

Judge A. B. Anderson ordered the governor placed in the Marion county jail at once to be produced by the United States marshal Wednesday morning for sentence.

What has sent a thrill through the capital city much more gripping than the mere conviction of the governor, was the statement by Judge A. B. Anderson from the bench that while he had observed greater individual crimes, he had never, in his long career on the bench, "seen anything to approach this in the number of individual crimes which this man has committed."

Sentence Wednesday.

The governor was then ordered to jail to await sentence on Wednesday. It is possible for Judge Anderson to order the governor to prison for the rest of his life, as the maximum penalty on each of the 13 counts is five years. It is the curbstome opinion here that he will be sentenced to prison for a long term of years.

When the conviction of the governor became known republican party chiefs sent wires to all sections of the state, summoning the workers to an immediate conference in Indianapolis to decide on the next move. Lawyers are not of one accord as to the strict interpretation of the constitution. Some hold that the only way the governor can be removed from office is by impeachment by the general assembly, and that the legislature can only be summoned in extraordinary session by the call of the governor.

Expected To Resign. The opinion among some of McCray's friends, however, is that the governor himself will relieve the party of further embarrassment by voluntarily resigning after a few hours behind the bars.

Emmitt F. Branch, of Martinsville, lieutenant governor, will succeed McCray as chief executive in the event of the governor's voluntary resignation or of his impeachment. He has long been a conspicuous figure in republican politics of Indiana.

It is expected that McCray's lawyers will make the usual prayer for an appeal to the court of appeals.

With the state ripped up the back from the banks of the Washash to Gary and the Ohio line with republican feuds, Ku Klux battles, and now the conviction of the governor, grave fear is felt here for the chances of President Coolidge in November.

STONE TO FIGHT PACKERS' MOVE

Attorney General Will Oppose Proceedings to Set Aside "Consent Decree"

Universal Service. Washington, April 28.—Vigorous action against the "Big Four" packers to compel them to live up to the terms of the court order requiring them to dissolve connections with other lines of business is promised as the policy of Attorney General Harlan F. Stone.

The attorney general intends to fight the proceedings begun by the packers in the local court to have set aside the "consent decree," under which they were ordered to confine themselves strictly to the meat slaughtering industry.

The packers are seeking to have the decree set aside in order to again enter the grocery business, the canning industry and other side lines from which they have been excluded since 1920.

The original decree was entered following action by the government in which it was claimed that the packers, already in control of the largest single industry in the United States, were gradually assimilating "side lines" to an extent which would create a super trust, monopolizing practically all food merchandising. After protracted litigation a consent decree was entered, whereby the packers were required to dispose of the so-called side lines within a specified time.

The new attack on the consent decree arises through the action by the California Co-operative canneries, which claim that the packers desire to re-enter the field of general food merchandising because of superior methods of distribution which they control.

Illane Prisoner Kills Self in Cell of City Jail

Tilden, Neb., April 28. (Special)—Slashing his throat with a small penknife after he had become violently insane and was locked in the city jail, Jess Ashburn of this place Sunday morning took his own life. County Attorney Ralph M. Krygar and Sheriff Sutton of Antelope county, after viewing the body, announced that no inquest would be held.
