"AIN'T NATURE WONDERFUL"

(By Uncle Pete in Omaha Bee.)
Beaver Flats, via O'Neill, Neb., April 7.—Beaver Flats has been considerably stirred up the last week and the community is pretty well divided over the personal injury damage suit brought by Mrs. Charley Laughing Horse against Hank Tomlinson, leading inn-keeper of The Flats, in Judge Kirwin's court, Mrs. Laughing Horse, with her husband, a half-breed ranchman up on Bloody creek, came to town for the first time since last fall, the first of the week, and while he was engaged in disposing of a load of stovewood which his trained beavers had gnawed off the forest reserve just above the ranch and floated down thereto, she engaged in shopping at the general store.

Among her purchases was a beautiful new spring hat, the confection being tastefully decorated with imitation fruits and wild flowers. Her purchases completed, Mrs. Laughing Horse donned the new bonnet and then sat down upon the sidewalk outside the store to await her husband.

Beaver Flats being some distance off the railroad, Mr. Tomlinson keeps a stand of bees that the guests of the Tomlinson Inn may have honey with their breakfast flapjacks, and on this particular day one of the bees sat on the front steps of his hive, sunning himself. Soon after taking up position outside the store Mrs. Laughing Horse became drowsy and her bobbed head caused the flowers upon the millinery to wave most realistically.

Spying the new garden and not even pausing to take account of the time of the year, the bee with a glad cry to his fellows within the hive hurried right over, and soon the new headpiece was the center of a crawling and buzzing throng.

The anger of the bees when they discovered the flowers to be but imitations was very great and Mrs. Laughing Horse was severely and numously stung. The incident resulted in the action against Mr. Tomlinson for not keeping his bees at home. Judge Kirwin, who is a candidate for re-election with some opposition, has reserved his decision until after the primaries.

SAYINGS OF MRS. SOLOMON.
Helen Rowland, in Sioux City Tribune

Greater Joy Has No Man.

Who is this, my Daughter, that kisseth his wife good-bye with a smile and goeth forth with a song in his heart and whistling upon his lips?

Who is this that seeketh not the Highway and the plaudits of the multitude, but searcheth out the secret places and performeth his feats of glory unseen and ALONE?

Who is THIS that hath found the true secret of Happiness and the joy that passeth understanding?

Lo, it is He, the FISHERMAN, the Prince of Wisdom and the King of Optimists!

Let Golfers strive after scores and loving cups and prizes, but the Fisherman is content with his luck, whatsoever it be.

Let golfers array themselves in passionate hose and rainbow shirts and checkered knickerbockers and all the glory of Solomon.

But HE is as the lily of the field, which taketh no thought wherewith it is clothed. For, even as a dog that uprootheth a bone, he hath dug his OLDEST shoes from out the closet; and the moth-eaten hat, which he hath rescued from the ashman, comfortheth his head.

Let the Golfer play for the glory of the winning; but the Fisherman fisheth only for the joy of fishing, which is true felicity.

Verily Patience is his middle name and Faith and Hope sustain his spirit. Sweetness and Quietness go with him and Perseverance is at his right hand.

He casteth with joy and thrilleth at the nibble at the bait; and when he haulteth in the fish his ecstasy knoweth no bounds—nay, even though it be but a half-pound baby, he is filled with delight.

He desireth no woman beside him, and his heart is not troubled by the absence of femininity.

He wandereth beside the purling streams, and his luncheon basket runneth over. He communeth with Nature and his spirit is refreshed.

His book is in his left hand and his flask is in his right-hand pocket and neither sun nor rain nor wind hath power to ruffle him.

He feareth not failure, for if his luck faileth him, then will his IMAGINATION and the fishmonger come to his rescue and none shall know of his shame.

But if his luck favor him, then shall there be boasting and bragging in the Land forevermore, and all the world shall hear it!

Then give him the fruit of his labors, which is a serene heart, a magnificent appetite and a beautiful STORY to tell his friends!

WOULD MOVE REMAINS OF GENERAL O'NEILL TO CITY OF HIS FOUNDING

Jerry Howard, of Omaha has inaugurated a campaign for the raising of funds for the removal of the remains of General O'Neill and the monument erected to his memory, to O'Neill, the city of his founding just fifty years ago.

Thomas Griffin recently received the following letter from Mr. Howard which is self explanatory:

Omaha, Neb., May 25, 1924.
Hon. Thomas Griffin,
O'Neill, Nebraska.

Dear Sir: When I first came to Omaha, I was filled with a desire to do something to perpetrate the memory of those who had rendered notable service to Ireland. As part of my efforts, I sought to learn the whereabouts of General John O'Neill, the hero of the Battle of Ridgeway, and was informed that his mortal remains lay in an unmarked grave.

Pondering over the apathy of his people and their indifference to a hero who was ever ready to draw his sword in the cause of freedom, the idea came to my mind in 1891, to celebrate in September of that year, the two hundredth anniversary of the signing of the "Violated Treaty" of Limerick, the proceeds of the meeting to be used as the nucleus of a fund to erect a monument over the grave of General O'Neill.—It is needless to give the entire story.

The monument was erected about three decades ago, and unveiled by the President of the Irish Republic, Eamon DeValera, at the time of his visit to America.

But, lo and behold, the sacred place was recently desecrated by an Irish Traitor, a New York grafter, and some Omaha politicians, who visited the grave for the purpose of having their pictures taken for political propaganda.

Rev. Father Gannon, in his newspaper, the True Voice, rebuked the political rascals. I sent a copy of the True Voice and clippings from another paper containing their pictures, to the Editor of the Irish World for his comments.

In my letter to the Irish World, I stated that the politicians had migrated from O'Neill to more congenial quarters, and that to clear the atmosphere of the treason and desecration, the good people in O'Neill would perhaps take the Generals' remains and monument to the city he established.

I observed from the press that the citizens of O'Neill are arranging to celebrate the semicentennial of its founding. The year 1924 is, therefore, appropriate for the removal of the mortal remains of the hero of the Battle of Ridgeway, to the city dedicated to his memory. There and no, where else should his remains and monument be located.

Every Irish man and woman who honor and revere the acts and deeds of the great O'Neill's of yore, down through the ages to DeValera in his prison cell—a living hell—would be delighted to participate in such an undertaking.

Decoration Day or the Fourth of July would be appropriate days for the unveiling of the monument, but the time is too short. I have an idea, however, that it can be so arranged to have the monument ready for the unveiling by September 20th, the anniversary of the martyrdom of Robert Emmet.

Hon. J. J. O'Kelly, the Envoy of the Irish Republic is in the East, and would doubtless be delighted to attend the celebration. Perhaps some of our noted citizens, Senators Norris, Reed of Missouri and LaFollette would also lend the dignity of their presence.

By way of example and as the beginning of a fund, I am enclosing my mite of Ten Dollars to help defray the expense of removing the General's remains and monument from Omaha to O'Neill.

Yours truly,
JERRY HOWARD.

ELICK JACOB BEENEY.

Elick Jacob Beeney was born in Brownville, Nebraska, May 7, 1865, and died in the hospital at Lynch, on May 24, 1924, at the age of fifty-nine years and seventeen days.

While still a boy he came with his parents to Saline county in 1872 where his mother died some time later. He was severely burned in a prairie fire during his boyhood days, the marks of which he carried during the remainder of his life. He moved with his father to Hitchcock county and the following year came to Holt county with the Newton Carson family with whom he made his home for several years.

He attended the Fremont Normal and later taught school for several years. He was an accomplished carpenter also.

He was united in marriage to Mrs. Celia S. Coleman, November 8, 1900, to which union one son was born, Lawrence Harold, on July 13, 1903.

The deceased was a member of the First Presbyterian church.

He is survived by his wife and son, also a brother, Charles, of Los Angeles, California; three sisters, Mrs. Della Bowersox, of Trenton, Nebraska; Mrs. Nettie Green, Longdale, Ohio; Mrs. Lena Hapner, of Eugene, Oregon; and one half-brother, Jay Beene, of Boppin, Indiana.

The funeral services were held at the Dorsey Presbyterian church Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock conducted by Rev. George Longstaff of this city, and the remains were laid to rest in the cemetery nearby.

JOHN E. BELLAR.

John E. Bellar, residing about seven miles northwest of O'Neill, one of the old settlers of the county, died in the Campbell hospital in Norfolk, Nebraska, about eight o'clock Sunday evening. John submitted to an operation for appendicitis about two years ago. About ten weeks ago an abscess formed in his side and he submitted to an operation; it became necessary to again operate and he was removed to the Norfolk hospital two weeks ago where he remained until the end.

The deceased was born March 29, 1885, at Wellsley, Ontario, Canada, and came with his parents to Holt county in 1886, locating upon the farm where he has continued to reside ever since.

He was united in marriage to Miss Katie Erb to which union four children were born, all of whom are living.

During his entire illness his mother has been continually by his bedside. Mrs. Bellar and children were unable to remain away from home all of the time during the past three weeks and have been going back and forth to Norfolk.

The funeral services were held at the home at nine o'clock and at the Mininute church at ten o'clock Wednesday morning, the remains were laid to rest in the Mininute cemetery near the church. The services were conducted by Christ Oswald, of Seward, Nebraska, a former resident of that vicinity and an old neighbor of Mr. Bellar.

The deceased leaves a wife and four children; his mother, Mrs. Andrew Schmidt; and two brothers Christ at Wilson, Kansas, and David at Newport, Nebraska.

The funeral procession was one of the largest that has been held in Holt county for some time and is indicative of the esteem in which the deceased was held by the people of the community.

MRS. HENRY STANTON.

O'Neill relatives received word Monday announcing the death of Mrs. Henry Stanton at St. Joseph's hospital in Butte, Montana.
