DEMOCRATIC LEADERS WILL ATTEMPT TO CAPTURE PROGRESSIVE MOVEMENT IN HOLT COUNTY

Democratic machine leaders will attempt to secure control of the so-called progressive movement in Holt county by calling a mock progressive mass convention in the near future for the purpose of endorsing the weaker of the democratic candidates. For the purpose of giving the organization a semblance of non-partisanship it is proposed to endorse one or two of the republican candidates who have no real opposition and who are certain of election. The democratic candidates to be endorsed will be expected to outwardly support the candidacy of United States Senator George W. Norris, in the hopes that his extreme popularity in the county will likewise carry them to success.

"AIN'T NATURE WONDERFUL"

(By Uncle Pete in Omaha Bee.)

O'Neill, Neb., July 6.—There will be no more racing of horses with transplanted glands at the O'Neill race track. The racing committee has announced that in the future horses entered in the speed events will have to wear their own glands, to avoid accidents and complaints from other horse owners. Owners caught switching glands will be penalized the same as those discovered "hopping," or "juicing," their horses.

The racing committee's new rule was promulgated because of the scandalous action of Sapolio, belonging to the Jack McKenna—stables, in the Beaver Flats derby the afternoon of July 4. The race was a mile and a furlong and some of the best horses at the meet were entered.

Sapolio is the horse which Doc Wilkinson nearly ruined last fall by giving him some bucking-horse glands by mistake in attempting to improve his spirit. He attempted to rectify the error this spring by grafting on to the horse some jackrabbit glands from a racing rabbit belonging to Charley Harding.

Before moving to Beaver Flats Mr. Harding had used the rabbit in courting events at Oakland, California, where it was trained to beat it across the racing field when the dogs got after it and to escape through a hole in the fence at the further side.

Sapolio in several private trials seemed to have been improved wonderfully by the rabbit glands and accordingly was entered in the Beaver Flats Derby. He got away fine with the other entries when the barrier went up and made the first round of the half-mile track without any trouble arising. But half way around the second time the yipping of the jockies excited the lap dog belonging to Mrs. Charley Laughing Horse, who was watching the race from the tent of her husband's Indian show and the dog ran barking after the racing horses.

The effect on Sapolio was electrical.

Changing his stride from the easy swing of the gallopers to the stiff-legged spring of the former owner of his glands, he drew away in frightened flight from the closely grouped contenders and distanced the others when he passed under the wire the winner. This was not enough, however, and he tore on around the track again until he discovered a hole in the back of the fence, through which he promptly sought refuge, badly skinning up his rider and losing his saddle in the attempt.

The racing committee awarded the event to Sapolio but refused to accede to the demand of the doctor and Mr. McKenna for the entire purse because the other horses had been distanced. As a compromise it was decided to give second and third money to charity and the new rule was formulated at the insistence of other horsemen.

"AIN'T NATURE WONDERFUL"

(By Uncle Pete in Omaha Bee.)

O'Neill, Neb., July 13.—The first near fatality of the summer fishing season in north Nebraska occurred last Sunday at Cottonwood lake, when Bill Martin of Beaver Flats was attacked by a school of voracious pickerel.

Mr. Martin, who is a fisherman of note and the winner of last year's championship of the Calamas valley, had waded out well into the lake in one of its shallower sections and was engaged in casting for the fresh water sharks with a spoonhook. After sev-

Yours For Service

We strive to render service to all our depositors and to be something more than just a storehouse for money.

If our bank was only a depository, we could get along nicely with a little room and a window like the window in a box-office, and a table with pen, ink, deposit slips and checks, and a big steel vault or two in which the money could be stacked. But we don't do business that way.

We have comfortable quarters and maintain a staff of officers who are on hand all the time to greet depositors and render them whatever assistance they need in their affairs. That's modern banking, and ours is a modern bank. Come in and talk it over.

eral pretty fair sized catches, he lost his last spoonhook when it became entangled in a moss bed and he then substituted a large and lifelike rubber frog.

The imitation frog proved a great attraction for a time, but several of the big fish in striking short became angered at the imitation foisted upon them, and in their rage attacked the fisherman who, well out from the shore, was immersed nearly to his armpits in the water. Their needle-like teeth soon punctured Mr. Martin's breast waders and he became so waterlogged that he was unable to protect himself.

The noise of the onslaught attracted other pickerel to the scene and they in turn attacked the well nigh helpless fisherman. By slow degrees however, he finally managed to work his way into the center of the moss bed, where the dense vegetation somewhat interfered with the assaults of the ferocious fish.

Mr. Martin's cries for help at length attracted the attention of fishermen at other points on the lake and they came to his rescue in a flatboat. The rescuers finally succeeded in beating off the swarms of angry and blood-thirsty fish with their oars and dragged the nearly exhausted victim into the boat. Mr. Martin's wounds later were given attention at the Beaver Flats hospital, and unless infection sets in he is expected to recover.

T. V. Golden distinguished himself this morning by passing up the main thoroughfare of this city carrying one exceedingly large catfish and two smaller ones which he extracted from the waters of the east end of the county last evening. Mr. Golden is contesting for the title now held by Admiral Zeb Warner.

OIL TESTS TAKEN ON NELLIS RANCH

(Atkinson Graphic, July 11.)

A gas strata capable of producing from 20 to 50 million cubic feet of gas per day, with two oil-burning sands below the gas strata, the two depths running about 1400 to 2100 feet, and 2750 feet respectively, are the findings on the Nellis ranch about 14 miles south of Atkinson, according to the machine test made of the place by Dr. C. Henry Cook, scientist and geologist of Omaha, Tuesday.

Wednesday Dr. Cook tested at the Brady ranch and around Dora lake. A special report on this test will be made later. The Doctor says it was very satisfactory. He will test north of Atkinson, Stuart and O'Neill soon. These tests, he says, are just to find the general run of things for his three locations to drill.

These tests were made with a device that has to be set and tubed up, with chemicals, and ranged correctly to catch the sun's rays. The work was witnessed by Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Brady, Frank and Roland Brady, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dobrovolev, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Nellis, Gerald Nellis, Donald Peterson, Dr. and Mrs. Young and his mother of Wayne, Walter Jones and Gib McCreath.

Those who have observed the tests say that it is interesting to look into the machine and see the emanations coming in and passing through magnified rays of light which make the infinitesimal molecules visible to the eye.
