NEWPORT DEFEATS O'NEILL BALLISTS

The O'Neill ball team went to New- port aggregation of ball players. The por aggregation of ball players. The O'Neill players received a severe "trimming." The boys were late in reaching the grounds and as a pun- ishment the Newport bunch would not let them workout before the game.

Manager Kersenbrock did not send the first team to Newport but substi- tuted with a first-class team composed of part of the first team and a number of other extra good players. John says that he figured that the team he sent was plenty strong enough to win from the Newport boys taking into consideration the fact that the New- port team played here recently. John was wrong, the fellows up west were in perfect condition to handle the best of them and the sight of the boys that appeared upon the diamond caused them to lose their heads, to a certain extent.

After the battle was over Newport had 23 scores and O'Neill managed to drag out three.

KIRWAN'S BAD EGG MAKES GOOD CATCH

The luring propensities of Mike Kir- wan's invention, the "Bad Egg" fish bait, is rapidly being discovered by the followers of Isaac Walton. A few days ago Walter Warner received the following letter from a party in Cen- ter City, Minnesota, to whom he had mailed two of the Bad Eggs:

"Enclosed find check for the two Bad Eggs which just arrived. Fishing has not been too good here. I caught a four pound bass and a five pound pickerel with the bait this afternoon. They have been catching them on rubber balls with hooks on them so I thought about these Bad Eggs, and they are sure some good bait. I can have a lot of sport with them. Weather is cold up here; had fire in our office yesterday."

MRS. ANTON SOUKUP.

Mrs. Anton Soukup died at her home four miles north of Page, Ne- braska, about noon last Friday, follow- ing a short illness.

Mrs. Anna Kolovratek was married to Anton Soukup on April 7, 1923. She conducted a grocery business in South Omaha prior to her marriage to Mr. Soukup.

The funeral services were conducted from the home at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, conducted by Rev. L. R. McGaughey, of Page. Interment was made in the Page cemetery.

As the conditions surrounding her death were somewhat unusual, Dr. O. W. French, of Page, who had charge of the case, decided that an inquest should be held to determine the cause of her death.

County Attorney Julius D. Cronin impaneled a jury Saturday and after hearing considerable evidence adjourned the hearing until today in order that the stomach of the deceased might be sent to Lincoln for a chemical analysis.

The evidence submitted shows that Thursday evening she became ill and Dr. French was called. She seemed much better the following morning but about noon she became seriously ill, Dr. French was again called but she was dead when the doctor arrived.

The deceased has expressed a violent temper at different times, it is stated and according to witnesses she has made the statement that she would kill herself.

A sister of the deceased, Mrs. An- tonia Sterba, of Omaha, made a state- ment to the coroners jury to the effect that her deceased sister always had a very bad temper; and could not get along with anyone. She had been pre- viously married but could not get along with her husband. At one time she went back to her old home in Bo- hemia, and remained there for seventeen years; when she came back she came to live with her but they could not get along on account of her violent temper; on one occasion she became so violent that in order for the doctor to administer a hypodermic it was necessary to tie her in bed. The sister expressed the opinion that the deceased was not in her right mind.

The following is the report of the coroner's jury after having completed its hearing this afternoon

"That the deceased died from effects of arsenic either administered by her own hand or parties unknown."

Signed: PERCY GRASS.
CHARLEY GRASS.
D. T. MURFIN.
GEORGE FINK.
H. G. ASHER.
H. A. TROWBRIDGE.

The following is the report of the state chemist, C. J. Frankforter:

"We tested for arsenic and found relatively large amounts. We are of the opinion that arsenic must have been taken, probably in the form of the so-called 'white arsenic' which is an oxide of arsenic and exceedingly poisonous and very corrosive to mucus mem- branes. It is possible the lead arsenate contained more or less of this oxide of arsenic. The large and deep burns ab- solutely proved the presence of a cor- rosive poison."

The county attorney is continuing the investigation to ascertain whether or not the deceased took the poison herself or whether it was administered to her by someone.
