

HUGE DIRIGIBLES HOUSED TOGETHER AT LAKEHURST.

An idea of the immensity of the naval hangar at Lakehurst, N. J., may be had by this photograph, showing the Shenandoah and the Los Angeles (ZR-3) housed together in it and not taking up all the room. A damaged gas bag from the Shenandoah is in process of repair in the foreground. The helium gas in the Shenandoah will be taken out and used in the further trials of the Los Angeles.

SAILORS ON TRENTON HEROES IN DISASTER.

When the fatal blast that snuffed out the lives of nearly a score of sailors on the scout cruiser Trenton occurred off the Virginia Capes, the forward twin-mount six-inch gun turret was turned for a broadside, the entrance door hanging over the side of the ship, and several sailors being dropped overboard. This photograph, taken a moment after the explosion shows intrepid members of the crew mounting a tiny rope ladder over the side of the ship to work the turning gear, revolve the turret back over the deck and bring out the dead and injured. The other photograph shows the removal of the dead.

RADIO MEN CONFER WITH SECRETARY HOOVER.

BARBER BOBS; FATHER SUES

Irate Parent Seeks Damages For Shearing Locks of 18-Year-Old Daughter

Paris.—Bobbing hair without papa's consent is a dangerous business in France. Just recently an irate parent brought suit against a Paris coiffeur who cut off his daughter's locks without first getting the authorization of the father. The 18 year old girl in question had been waiting for a long time to be rid of her woman's glory. But papa, who is a prominent deputy, forbade her sternly to touch the sacred hair on her head. She didn't; but one day, when father was busy at the chamber, mademoiselle hid herself to the coiffeur's and said: "Cut 'em off quick!" When the deputy came back to his house there was a nice little scene with daughter, and then he proceeded to the poor barber, who, of course, was unable to repair the trouble. The father at once began legal proceedings; and now the barbers all around the city are wondering what to do. They contend that they can only follow orders given them and with that their responsibility ends. It will be a difficult matter, indeed, if it becomes necessary to exact a written permission from the parent or husband every time the hair is wanted short. The truth of the matter is that before the affair can be settled there will be no occasion for bobbing locks, for the wheels of fashion turn fast—especially in Paris.

SOUTH AMERICAN LAND SWINDLES HIT U. S. BUYERS

Washington.—American farmers of the middle and far west were warned recently by the department of commerce to be wary of proposals to invest money in South American lands. The department's warning stated that through diplomatic channels, it has been learned, that several American colonization schemes have been launched in one of the southern republics. Already, according to the warning many American farmers have been defrauded of millions of dollars through the rosy pictures of the cheap land offered for sale for a few cents an acre, which in the majority of cases have proven worthless.

Much of the land offered for sale, the warning declared, is so far removed from transportation that it is useless for farming purposes, even though it is of the most fertile character. Some of the land has proven to be rocky and under water.

Wesleyan Students Are Strong for Athletics

Middletown, Conn.—Ninety-five per cent. of Wesleyan University's student body is taking part in outdoor athletics, following a plan put in operation by Dr. Edgar Fauver, head of the Physical Education Department here. The student body is divided thus: Tennis, 301; football, 55; freshman football, 40; soccer, 55; track, 32; cross-country, 20; baseball, 30; golf, 10—a total of 547.

The petition of David Lamar, nationally known as "The Wolf of Wall Street," in which he asked a New York court to set aside the decree of divorce granted his wife, apparently ends his romance with Edna French, former "Follies" beauty, to whom he had been reported engaged. Lamar alleges that while he was a fugitive from justice in Mexico his wife secured the divorce without his knowledge, after he had turned over to her all his property, including a large sum in cash and an $80,000 home in Pittsfield.

American Girl Heroine of Theatre Disaster

MISS KATHERINE MACFARLAND.

Miss Katherine MacFarland, of Philadelphia, a Near East relief worker in Athens, Greece, was the heroine of the recent theatre disaster there, in which twenty-seven persons were crushed to death in a fire panic. She saved scores of lives by quieting the panic, and then administered first aid to the injured.

Widowed Four Hours After Her Marriage.

MRS. D. C. PAQUETTE.

Within four hours after she was married to Donald C. Paquette in an Albany, N. Y., hospital, Mrs. Paquette was a widow. Paquette's leg had been amputated by a railroad train. His fiancée was hastily summoned, legal technicalities sidetracked, and Father Looney performed the marriage ceremony.

NEW YORK CROOKS ROB CROOK'S ADMIREE.

MRS. HELEN P. HEYWORTH.

The latest victim of thieves who follow bejeweled New York women from cabarets and rob them, has been identified as Mrs. Helen Patterson Heyworth, divorced wife of Otto Y. Heyworth, grandson and heir to the millions of Otto Young, of Chicago. With five others, she was held up in her apartment facing Central Park, but the thieves got only a $500 gem. Mrs. Heyworth came into international notoriety recently when she announced she was going to marry "Dapper Dan" Collins, international crook, then held in a Paris prison awaiting extradition to New York. Collins wrote her, asking her not to make the sacrifice, but she said she loved him and would wait until he was free and marry him. At that time she was suffering from injuries sustained in falling from a Paris hotel window following a New Year's Eve party.

MAN FOUND SLASHED IN HER HOME.

MRS. FRANCES CUNNINGHAM.

Mrs. Frances Cunningham, prominent in the affairs of the Illinois Women's Athletic Club, of Chicago, racehorse owner, and beautiful divorced wife of a wealthy New Yorker, was arrested in her Windy City apartment when Ralph Regalo, of Chicago, was found seriously cut there. She denied wielding a knife on the man, whom, she said, was her cousin, and the affair was shrouded in mystery.

SAYS "IT DOESN'T PAY TO BE GOOD."

MRS. FLORENCE SCHWARTZ.

Mrs. Florence Schwartz, of Chicago, has filed a cross bill for divorce against her husband, Harry J. Schwartz, naming a pretty woman with whom she charges her husband has made frequent trips to New York, while she stayed at home to arrange for his happiness, to darn his socks and to mind the baby.
